Deer hunters usually hunt, too. Come on, girls, be good fellows and shop early.

No letter should go out without its Red Cross seal.

In giving try to make it useful giving, so as to make it meritorious.

Typists, they say, are out of date. What, those pretty little things? G'wan!

But the apologist for the medical fakery does not dare defend the fake on its merits.

Even at this late date one cannot help admiring the way Dear Maria restrained herself.

In the concert of the powers one cannot hear the rest of the pieces for the bass drum.

A Chicago man kicks against "unclean cars." Omaha's are clean enough, what is that.

Gene Debs says J. Pierpont Morgan inspired the federal indictment of him. Holy smoke!

That was some reply Constantine J. Smyth made to our friends, the socialists, just the same.

Butter consumers will not object if the manufacturers make a pound of butter look like 30 cents.

Paris has decorated our Mr. Morgan with a gold medal. Come out and ask for it, don't hit.

Uncle Sam probably never expected to hit upon a Panama policy that would satisfy Johnny Bull.

Base burners must have been so named from their indirect relation to the parties who fix coal prices.

Perhaps they made a mistake not to send Mrs. Martin W. Littleton instead of her husband to congress.

Before giving up hope of finding enough cabinet material, the new president wants to remember Joseph W. Folk, like Barkis, is willin'.

The New York Press says, "Nowadays people want their catechism sugar coated like liver pills." And then many of them will not take it.

"From agate to zinc," says Underwood. Which is even more comprehensive than "From Dan to Beersheba," but may not mean any more.

Indians seem to come by their names most accidentally, as the cognomen, George Murphy Johnson, hanging to a Winnebago, would suggest.

Colonel Roosevelt admirably sticks to his friend, Perkins. Right or wrong, Perkins helped him, and the colonel is bold enough to admit it in the open.

The loudest noise that has been heard in connection with the post-office consolidation emanates from those who have a direct personal interest in it.

While a professional pitcher is teaching John D. Rockefeller's grandson the art of throwing the ball, the kid's grand-dad could give the pitcher a few valuable pointers on curves if he chose.

If the estimated 314,000,000 number of Omaha boys and girls resident in Lincoln while attending to their studies at the University of Nebraska, it may feel moved to revise its estimate as to the future Omaha taken in the great educational institution located at the capital.

Real Cornhusker Spirit.

Everybody in Nebraska is a Cornhusker when it comes to love and loyalty for the state's university. Everybody in Nebraska, therefore, should boost for the enterprise launched by the Omaha alumni for a more coherent University of Nebraska spirit.

The plan is altogether laudable and business-like and it is gratifying to note its enthusiastic reception over the state. The newspapers of Lincoln and other cities have given it their cordial endorsement and will exert their influence to make it successful.

At the Sentiment of the South. "He doesn't reflect the sentiment of the south," says a leading southern newspaper of Governor Cole L. Blease of South Carolina, who distinguished himself at the council of governors by advocating lynching and immunity for its perpetrators.

Mohler an Institution. Controlling powers of the Harriman system, together with managerial heads of the various roads composing the merger dissolved by the supreme court, have gone into conference in New York, evidently to decide upon how to meet the demands of the decree and plan for the future.

Supervising Evangelists. The Federal Council of Churches at its annual meeting in Chicago provided for an interdenominational commission to supervise or censor all evangelists preaching in the name of evangelical Christianity.

People Talked About. Red Cross seal is the height of fashion for all letters and packages this month. A Chicago girl, insulted by a male person, tossed him down two flights of stairs.

The Bees Letter Box. Omaha's Brief Against Socialism. Omaha, Dec. 10.—To prove that socialism is anti-religious, C. J. Smyth quotes from two live ones in the United States.

Antiquity of the Kink. It is no comfort to read that the Egyptians were troubled by the high cost of living 1,800 years ago.

Looking Backward This Day in Omaha

Compiled from Bee Files DEC. 12

Thirty Years Ago—Rev. George C. Munn gave his famous rendition of "Hamlet" at Boyd's in a good house. Rev. J. H. Ingraham, for several years pastor of the Christian church in this city, is hesitating between two calls.

Twenty Years Ago—John J. Roggen, secretary of the Blatchley company, lithographers, Tacoma, Wash., was visiting his brother, Colonel E. P. Roggen. Miss Ada Hudson of Gottenburg was visiting her sister, Miss Ella Hudson of the government microscopic force at South Omaha.

Ten Years Ago—Charles S. Young, advertising agent for the Burlington in Omaha, received word of a promotion to the position of assistant to J. B. Griffith, general advertising manager for the Burlington.

Premptions of Economy. Considering what happened Monday, and what is likely to happen during the present session of congress, a policy of wise economy would suggest that the house by its speaker's caveat in whole-sale lots.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN ST. PAUL'S

By Rev. E. T. Otto, Pastor.

In January, 1880, four ships, carrying Lutheran emigrants from Saxony in Germany, arrived at New Orleans. A month later these pilgrims settled at St. Louis and in Perry county, Missouri. There they established churches and schools and in December of the same year founded a preparatory college and theological seminary in the mineral forests of Perry county.

Extraordinary means for raising church funds, as suppers, bazaars, fairs, etc., are regarded as not being conducive to the welfare of the church and are not used. St. Paul's church is a bilingual congregation. Preaching, the administration of the sacraments, instruction of confirmation classes, and all its church work is carried on in English as well as in German.
