CO-OPERATORS HAVE A SCRAP

Conflict as to Whether Outsiders Should Receive Dividends.

OPINIONS MUCH AT VARIANCE

Opponents Who Lost Declare that it is Not Fair to Pay Benefits to Those Who Do Not Bear Their Part of Expense.

The first real fight of the Farmers' Co-operative Grain and Live Stock association in Omaha was waged on the floor yesterday on whether a co-operative shipping association should be permitted to give dividends to its customers outside the limits of its stock-raising membership. The battle was waged for an hour and the "outsider" was victorious.

The fight came up in the shape of one of the recommendations of the legislative committee asking that it be made legal to declare such dividends to "outsiders," although not asking that it be made compulsory on any legal association to do so.

O. G. Smith of Kearney, former president of the association, led the fight for declaring dividends to the outsiders. T. M. Scott of Aurora, member-elect of the lower house of the legislature, immediately declared he was against the move and would vote against it in the legislature. "I want you to know where I stand," he said, "but I think it's wrong to give this advantage to the outsider who stays on the outside while we invest our money in the association and take all the risk. I am against it, and will vote against it in the legislature."

O. G. Smith explained the working of the proposed plan. He said the outside customer could be credited on the books with his share of the dividends until such time as this should amount to $5 or whatever the value of a share might be, when a share should be issued to him. "It will be the means of bringing these outside men into the association, we must be co-operative in spirit. If we are not then we are against co-operation."

Scott's Idea of Co-Operation. "My idea of co-operation," responded Scott, "is not to be forever helping the fellow that does not help us." Others joined in the scrap saying that the theory of declaring dividends might be all right, but that in communities where there was no co-operative organization it would be found hard to organize because the farmers would stand out and say "Go ahead and organize; we'll get in afterwards and reap the benefit." Fred Lind of Clarka sprang to his feet to warn the members against hasty voting on the matter before they knew what they were voting for. "There are men who have nothing to do but to think out schemes like these," he said, "and we farmers who are busy feeding our horses and our hogs have little time to think of such matters. We can all sit here and say 'aye' and 'no' easy enough, but I say, be mighty careful that you know what you're voting for when you vote. To the argument that only the stockholder was entitled to the benefits of a co-operative company, Mr. Smith replied with some heat: "When our stockholders haul their grain past our door weeder seek for a cent a bushel to the farmer that is stacking us and when at the same time your so-called 'outsider' sells his to your association, then I ask you who is entitled to the dividends?"

"Several men were still on their feet for a day in the debate when the gavel fell and the matter was put to a vote. The association favored the declaring of dividends to the outsider by a vote of 10 to 6. The entire report of the legislative committee was adopted.

Legislative Recommendations.

The legislative recommendations adopted are as follows:

First—Resolved that the Farmers' Co-operative Grain and Live Stock association recommend to the legislature the passage of a law requiring all railroads doing business in Nebraska to connect their rails with every other railroad at points, and to require the railroads to route freight through by the shortest route when requested by the shipper, and to require the railroads to charge for like distance, or not exceeding the published tariff rates of any railroad operating in Nebraska for like distance.

Second—That we ask an amendment of the Nebraska co-operative law by adding the words, "or to members and other customers" after the word "members" in Section 1 of said law.

The amended definition would read as follows:

Section 1. For the purpose of this act the words "co-operative company, corporation or association" are defined to mean a company, corporation or association which authorizes the distribution of its earnings in part or wholly on the basis of or in proportion to the amount of property bought from or sold to members, or to members and other customers, or of labor performed, or other services rendered to the corporation.

Third—That we request the legislature to pass an amendment to the Nebraska "unfair discrimination" law similar to section 2 of the South Dakota statute on the same subject, making it obligatory on the attorney general to enforce the said law in the manner set forth in the South Dakota statute, which reads as follows:

Section 2. Duty of the attorney general.

COUNTY IS SHORT OF CASH

Commissioners Find Themselves in Sad Financial Straits.

ASK CREDITORS TO HOLD BACK

Has Enough Money to Pay Salaries of Employees, but Little Left Over for Other Expenses During the Year.

Douglas county is in sad financial straits. With only about $100,000 on hand in the general fund and another tax levy not due until next August, the Board of County Commissioners is impelled to suspend payment on $5,000 worth of claims. More suspensions will be necessary and when the levy next fall replenishes the county exchequer tens of thousands of dollars at once will have to be paid out in settlement of suspended claims.

Contracts for the new county jail, vault furniture and other items for furnishing and completing the new county building total $25,000, which is $10,000 in excess of the bond issue for furnishing and completion of the building.

The county commissioners asked representatives of the Pausy Jail Building company, St. Louis, not to press the county for payment of the last $5,000 on their jail building contract until next fall. Frank J. Link and H. B. Miller, the Pausy representatives, said they will take the matter up with the company and secure the commission, if possible. It will amount to the company's lending the county $5,000 for eight months. If the Pausy company is unwilling to grant this favor it probably will be arranged for a friendly suit of the company against the county for the $5,000. The county would default, judgment would be entered against it and the amount then could be paid out of the judgment fund. Hayden Bros., Orchard & Wilhelm Co., and other contractors for furnishing and completing the new building, will be asked not to press the county for payment in full until next fall.

The $100,000 in the general fund is enough to pay all county employees from now until the next levy is made and leave $60,000 for other expenses. This $60,000 will fall far short of meeting accounts, hence the necessity of suspending payment on some claims until late next levy is collectable. Payment of claims of Weinstein & Greenberg, grocers, for $2,000 and Klump-Hartung company, printers and stationers, for $1,000, was suspended until fall by the commissioners.

School Janitor to Play Santa Claus

O. E. Sandberg, janitor at Columbian school, is a regular, bona fide Santa Claus to the little children in the school. He has built a real doll house for the kindergarten, all furnished and finished in the most modern fashion and has made them a present of it. Principal Isabelle Doyle will see that the house is properly prepared for the Christmas season. The building will be the residence of the kindergarten doll. The youngsters say they feel sure the dolls will be pleased with their new home.

Socialists Demand Cut Rates on Omaha Street Car Lines

Socialists have instructed their city central committee to prepare the draft of an ordinance providing for seven street car tickets for 25 cents, universal transfer, good at any and all junction points, valid for twenty-four hours after being issued. There will be another provision demanding a fare lower than seven rides for 25 cents. This is to apply during the rush hours in the morning and evening. These tickets are designed to be for the use of laboring people, both men and women.

MANY FARMERS HEAR PROF. HUNT LECTURE

Prof. Hunt for a number of years was a teacher in the agricultural department of the University of Nebraska and specialized in alfalfa and crop culture. On this tour he is giving practical talks and showing the farmers how they can raise more and better crops.

CHECK PRISONERS' RELEASE

System is Submitted to Commission by O'Conner and Chambers.

WILL ISSUE DUPLICATE BONDS

Nebraska Retailers' Association suggests to Council that City Have Municipal Exhibit at Coming Convention.

T. J. O'Connor, clerk of the police court, and Assistant City Comptroller W. F. Chambers have reported to the city commission that they have instituted a new system of accounting at the police court which will do away with fraudulent releases.

The new system receipts in duplicate for bonds will be issued to correspond with the record kept. The time the prisoner pays his money, the meals furnished and the time of release will all be kept, so that anyone may examine the record intelligently.

Notes of City Council.

The Nebraska Retailers' association suggests that the council arrange for a municipal exhibit of made-in-Nebraska goods at the convention of the retailers. The suggestion was referred to the superintendent of finances and accounts.

Bills of the water board for water furnished the city were rejected, the council believing the water board is a part of the municipal government and the plant being owned by the municipality payment for water for municipal purposes will not be required.

Owing to the inconvenience of applicants for various permits issued by the city the council will recommend that employes in the plumbing department and city electrician's office be made deputy city treasurers with authority to receive money for permits. At present it is necessary for an applicant to make two trips between the court house and the city hall before he finally secures the permit. Edward Kreehl was appointed to the fire department on six months' probation. The ordinance intended to eliminate the smoke evil was introduced. It will be discussed in committee of the whole next Monday.

MEMORIAL FOR JUDGE WAKELEY SATURDAY

Sutton will preside at the memorial. The other six judges will be with him on the bench.

Chief Justice Manassah B. Reese of the state supreme court has written Judge Sutton that several of the supreme court judges may attend the memorial, though that is not certain. The supreme court judges also will hold a memorial at Lincoln.

There are over fifty amateur and professional wireless operators in Omaha and in order to operate a key after January 1 these men will have to have a license, which will be issued them by Major Hartman, when they have successfully passed the required test.
