Professional Players to Appear on Cornhusker Alumni Program.

EVERYBODY GIVING A BOOST

Theater Managers Are Giving the Omaha Nebraska Grads All Kinds of Loyal Support for Their Big Banquet.

With the assistance of an orchestra and the theater managers of the city, the entertainment feature of the alumni banquet and festival, to be given in honor of the Cornhusker and high school foot fall elevens on January 8, will rival in merit some of the better vaudeville (prosounced vode-ville) entertainments on some of the western circuits. This statement is, of course, all based on the comises of the press agent of the Omaha dumni-a representative who is working evertime to let the west know that Omaha and the state school are on the map. The Bluffs High will Chief of Detectives Majoney says this play Red Oak and Nebraska City fives will give time in which the man's case may be investigated.

Chief of Detectives Maloney and United States District Attorney Howell are of the opinion that "Tobe Dunn" is one of Nolen's accomplices and that he sought an interview with Nolen here in the hope of furthering a plot for Nolen's escape from the jail. Nolen's case is set for trial in the January term of federal court in the Omaha division. He was indicted by the federal grand jury charged with using the mails to defraud in securing the endorsement of Tom Dennison of Omaha to a fraudulent order for $1,980. He was arrested in Savannah. Ga., , where he was held in jail until he was brought to Omaha for his hearing. When he was removed from jail at Sa vannah a fine automatic revolver and a number of steel saws were found concealed in his cell. It is believed that he has associates on the outside that are making a desperate effort to secure his liberty.

When the man giving his name as Tobe Dunn attempted to get an interview with Nolen here Saturday he was placed under arrest. He had no money. A telegram to Eupora, Miss., brought the information that a man named Tobe Dunn lived there but that he was there now and that he was an attorney and an ex-judge. The man represented himself as an attorney when he sought the interview with No-

Governor Declares Law Against Sharks Should Be Passed

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Dec. 28.-(Special.)-There was just enough fight in the turkey Governor Aldrich had for his Christmas dinner to fill the governor with a feeling that at this time of the year especially he would like to do something to the fellow who had forgotten that i was Christmas time and that a spirit of forgiveness should dominate every man, and this morning when the governor was waited on by one of the fellows who loan money at an unusual rate the executive heard his story and then ordered him out of the office, after telling him what he thought of him. In speaking of the matter. Governor Aldrich said:

There certainly is need of added penalty to the usury laws in this state, or, more particularly speaking. I refer to what is usually termed the "loan shark." "No better illustration of their merciess and dishonest methods could be found than what was brought forcibly to my attention this morning. One of these Shylocks came into my office and made in his message, which is now being complaint that one of the state house employes would not pay his obligation Upon inquiry I found that a very short time ago this employe had borrowed $15 from this concern at the rate of 10 per cent a month, payable in advance. "He has already paid them $19 as interest and there is still a balance due of $7.50 as interest and the principal unpaid. "There is no limit to which these human sharks will go in their demands. This rascal had the presumption to ask me to assist him in this unlawful and intensely selfish proposition.

Christmas Dinner at Salvation Army Industrial Home Followed by Remembrance to Wife of Captain in Charge.

Out of their small earnings in the Salvation Army Industrial nome, thirty menwho are "down-and-out" bought a set of dessert spoons and a set of serving spoons for Mrs. H. H. Kline, wife of Captain H. H. Kline, head of the industrial department, and silver napkin rings for the two Kline children. The presentation was made yesterday after the men

In the scene there was a pathos that words cannot tell. Around the board were gathered men whose stooped shoulders, hollow cheeks and ragged clothes marked them for "under-dogs." No one can know just what brought those men to the Christmas day broken, homeless, penniless. Some, perhaps, were there because of errors of their own; others may have been victims of circumstances-but no matter; they were there.

After the meal one rose in his place and brokenly expressed his gratitude and that of his fellows toward Captain and Mrs. Kline, who as heads of the industrial department are enabling them to eke out an existence while they fight to get back "on their feet." Then he presented the gifts.

Ensign Laura Heller, Captain Ross Pease, Captain C. Nelson and others spoke to the men. Captain Kline's assistant, Fred Browning, superintended the entire dinner. Captain Kline, who himself has been "on the road," and at one time or another has eaten everything from pate de foi gras in a banquet hall to "Mulligan" down under the bridge, maid It was the best dinner he ever ate.
