Finally Yukatak, from where they were to take the steamer home, was reached. But the fates were still against them and the ship they had striven so earnestly to meet was thirty days late.

After leaving Seattle the Northern Pacific train upon which he was making his way here was struck by a mountain slide which completely wrecked the rear end of the train and in which several lives were lost.

Naming the New Hotel

Omaha being one of the great western cities and centrally located, it should think that "Inter-Ocean" would be a very appropriate name for the $1,000,000 hotel.

In naming the new hotel all individuals should be overlooked and think only of our city, as nothing would advertise the city as much as its name often repeated.

I therefore suggest "Hotel Omaha." It is easy to say and brings one in mind of the city at the same time.

Two Laborers Buried Under Cinder Slide

John Ryan and Hans Hansen, who are laborers at the street railway company's power house on Fifth and Jones streets, were buried half an hour under a cinder slide yesterday while they were dumping cinders. Ryan went down with the slide and was buried under the pile-up. Hansen rushed to the point where his companion was covered up and he, too, was swallowed up by another slide coming immediately afterwards. The two men stayed until a gang of men shoveled them out. Aside from small bruises, neither was injured.

Ring in the Old

"And it came to pass when the people phoned the walls of Albany fell flat." "That they will," announced Miss Jones as she read the inscription, "and we will march around them ten times, once for each state that has granted suffrage to women."

GEN. JONES HAS SKATES ON

Presenting Gifts to Her "Troopers," Who in Turn Make Presentation of Copy of "Pilgrim's Progress" to Their Chief.

HUDSON, N. Y., Dec. 26.—One hundred and twenty-five miles from their home fireside, the suffragette army, which is en route from New York to Albany carrying a message to Governor Sutter, spent Christmas day in this city.

Professing that they were far from homesick, the six surviving members of the expedition observed the day with festivities, at the same time losing no opportunity to advertise the cause of suffrage. Blistered feet did not prevent the women from organizing a roller skating party, at which "General" Roselle G. Jones, standing on her skates in the middle of the rink, addressed more than 100 skaters.

In the afternoon the army gathered, at the invitation of Miss Jones, in the parlors of their hotel and were surprised to find a Christmas tree aglow with candles and burdened with gifts appropriate to the occasion.

Playing the role of Santa Claus, the fair general presented the gifts to her "troops" as rewards for "bravery in the performance of duty." The troops in turn presented their commander with a copy of "Pilgrim's Progress," inscribed within the cover was the following:
