Those owning this wheat know enormous lin hat it would be an impossibility to sell the a small portion of it at the present ime, for under present bearish conditions erking the pins from under the market would allow it to fall with a crash. There would allow it to fall with a crash. There are many circumstances surrounding the situation that may be called bearish, and which are against the market price. The leading factor against the bulls and in favor of the bears is the lack of cash demand. While it is true that interior millers are taking a little wheat from day to day these sales are too small in volume to be considered when the heavy supplies available are looked into. The southwest has been selling wheat The southwest has been selling wheat for months and months and the cry from that section is of smaller receipts. But the wheat continues to come out of that country in quantities in excess of a year ago. St. Louis has sold some cash wheat on export account recently and the same may be said of Kansas City. The aggresate sales at their best, by southwestern gate sales at their best, by southwestern markets, have been small and mainly in dribbling lots. handlers at Chicago report the buying side as showing less interest, but they account for this because of the holday season. The wheat market has few possibilities in favor of bulls and in case of development of any or all of them the price strength of that grain would astonish even its most ardent friends. While the war in the far east may be said to be a far-fetched question, there are some in the trade who continue to mention the political situation as a partial help to the holders of a big May line at Chicago. Everyone knows that the reappearance of war clouds in the far east, accompanied by higher markets for

Never in the history of the trade has the weather been more favorable for finishing corn than has been the case since the gathering of the golden cereal early not the present winter. It will surprise the casual observer, however, to learn that some of the best corn men on the brand of trade say that corn is in need of zero weather in order to get rid of the moisture it is now carrying. One identified the corn man said yesterday that in order to export the corn now coming forward it will be necessary to pass it through "dry houses." Cash corn 4c lower to be higher.

The big business in oats on export account seems to have come to a sudden will. The reports from Argentine of a count seems to have come to a sudden halt. The reports from Arsentine of a big crop in that country and of the de-sire of growers to dispose of their sur-plus as rapidly as possible because of a lack of storage room has doubtless re-stricted foreigners from bidding for the big offerings held in this country. Cash oats unchanged to %c lower. Clearances were 154,000 bushels of corn.

Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO. Jan. 2.—Snow and sleet in southeastern Missouri and routhern lilinoise turned many wheat traders today to the selling side. The result was to wipe out nearly all of an early advance. Closing prices were steady at a gain of a shade to be net. The latest trading left corn unchanged to be higher; oats, up 1-1669%c, and provisions, 3%c to 5% lyc off.

Uneastness concerning ary weather all over the southwest had much to do with giving the market a firm start. Strength at Liverpool, helieved to be due in con-siderable part to unfavorable reports about danger to the winter crop in the United States attracted wide attention and helped to keep prices on the up grade entil mid-day, when the snowfall brought on realizing sales despite knowledge that the storm was confined to narrow limits.

the storm was confined to narrow limits. Big receipts at primary terminals, especially northwest, failed to make any impression in the wheat pit here. The prevailing theory was that they had been discounted and were not likely to continue long. Scantiness of European rocks appeared more than an offset. May wheat ranged from files to 32c, with last sales a shade net higher at $21450315c.

Corn rose and fell with wheat. A little export business was being done, but the small number of farm animals on feed had a discouraging effect. May fluctuated between 45½c and 45½645½c, closing steady 1½c up at 45½645½c. Cash grades were unsettled. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 45¼47½c for carlots.

Some improvement in the shipping demand hardened the oats market. Upper and lower levels touched for May were littless and 55½c, with the close at 37½c, a net gain of a shade.
