Bellevue came back strong in the second half and soon ran up enough points to clinch the game. The association team lost its nerve and aside from Harris, who was substituted late in the game was unable to locate the goal.

Burkenroad Stars. For Omaha Burkenroad was the individual star, scoring five field goals and twelve goals from free throw.

For Creighton Prucha was the star, scoring five of the nine field goals. All of his goals, however, came in the last half.

X-UN'S TRIM LOCAL "Y" FIVE

In the second game the X-Units defeated the local "Y" 23 to 19. The team work of the "Y" men was better than that of the older players, but their accuracy in basket shooting was not equal to that of the university. Anthes, the star of the X-Units, has a bad leg, and was unable to get into the game with his usual vim, but at that he managed to locate the basket on five different occasions.

MONEY RMSHES TO NEW YORK

Halting Response of Stocks Causes Uncertainty as to Reason. INTEREST CHARGES TAKE DROP. Interest of Funds to Reserve Centers Indicates Contraction of Activity Somewhat Portentous in Degree.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Replenishment of money supplies went on last week even more rapidly than was expected. The halting response of stocks to this favorable financial development was attributed at first to various isolated factors, but its persistence caused the inference to be drawn that a more comprehensive influence was at work, and some fear of a check to trade activity.

The fall in all kinds of money was violent. Bank and sub-treasury forces were overworked in caring for the inflow of cash. Exports of gold to France were made without interrupting the fall in interest rates and in spite of the continued course of international trade towards the piling up of credits in favor of New York. The money market recuperation at London and Berlin also was rapid, Paris alone showing the need of further strengthening. The conclusion was warranted that the expected strain of the January settlements had been over-estimated, and preparations for it overdone. Favorable inferences were drawn from the success of the new capital issues in prospect.

The new demand reported for the Baltimore & Ohio 4 1/2 per cent bonds at 95 1/2 was corroborative of this view, although the terms were considered to prove the continuing necessity of offering attractive rates in order to enlist capital. The dealers in bonds at the stock exchange also broadened and expanded with tendency of prices.

A. E. Van Vranken.

From another point of view the influx of funds to reserve centers through the channels of the circulation intimated a contraction of activity somewhat portentous in degree. Conclusion of the crop movement marks a normal reflux of money from circulation, but the cash movement and the decline in interest rates last week were much more violent than is usual at this time. The release of upwards of $1,000 freight cars in the two last weeks of the year, establishing an idle car surplus for the first time since September, points to a relaxation of strain on traffic facilities of like suddenness to the relaxed tension of the money market. Increases of more than 10,000,000 pounds in refined copper stocks in December was another sign of contracted business. From the iron and steel trade, some slackening of buying since the first of the year was admitted as the only modification of the astute showing of activity in the trade.
