

CHINA CAMPAIGNERS SPEAK

Leaders of Presbyterian Missionary Work Spend Day Here.

BURDEN UPON UNITED STATES

China Now Facing Crises and Needs Help of All Nations—Stupendous Problems Yet to Be Solved.

Evangelism in all its phases was discussed in Presbyterian churches and elsewhere in Omaha yesterday and last night, thousands of persons attending the meetings arranged by the Presbyterian missionary workers. Late arrival of the train bearing the speakers forced rearrangement of plans for some meetings, but the workers minimized the difficulty and seemed not to be troubled.

That the United States is the nation with which rests the responsibility of aiding to China the help it needs in the re-organization of its political and social life in establishing a republic, was urged by Robert E. Speer and the Rev. F. W. Bible, two of the fifteen speakers who are making a tour of the central and southern states in the interest of the China campaign of missionary evangelism, who spoke at the Commercial club luncheon at noon yesterday.

Mr. Speer presented a forceful manner the great problem that is confronting the Chinese people today. For example, to phoneticizing of the Chinese alphabet, which is necessary in order to take the blindness out of their literature, he said would throw 3,000,000 people out of employment in China because it would simplify their printing to such an extent.

Changes Necessary.

"But every industrial change does that kind of thing," said Mr. Speer. "There will be some difficult problems which China takes on all the industrial changes in ten years that have been wrought in the west in hundreds of years. It is to take on the economic changes of 200 years in a single generation."

Mr. Speer said China, the greatest nation in the world, was passing through the greatest crisis. He explained that the Chinese nation was the greatest for three reasons, namely, in that it is the oldest, the most populous and of the greatest proved capacity. He called attention to the things the Chinese had accomplished. In solving the opium problem he said they had already succeeded in uprooting 80 per cent of the opium fields of the empire and had done away with 85 per cent of the opium traffic.

"A nation that can do these things," said Mr. Speer, "is a nation that deserves our sympathy. The Chinese demand our actual and practical help. We are the only men on earth they can look to for this."

The speaker called attention to the fact that China had a compass 2,500 years B. C., but that it never had a navy that sailed out of sight of land; that it had gunpowder before Christ, but that China never made use of it in destroying the works of a foreign invader; that they had the art of printing for years, but never had a newspaper until recently.

Moral Crisis.

"The greatest nation on earth," he said, "is now passing through the most tragic moral crisis, and is needing that crisis in a way that challenges our admiration. It is said that a nation to survive such a crisis and build up substantial footing must rest on a firm and sound religious devotion, and that it rested with America to instill that into the Chinese people. 'Now that we have that nation in the plastic state,'" he said, "let us stamp it with the die we wish it to bear that we and China may live together in national fellowship."

Have Great Abilities. Rev. F. W. Bible, following Mr. Speer, said that the Chinese have the same ability of the people of northern Europe. In proof of this he pointed out the great Chinese wall built thousands of years ago, which is still the marvel of the world; the great irrigation works perfected ages ago by the Chinese; the great canal systems of the empire; the great sea walls built of cut stone. And, lastly, he said, "I have seen miners and mine were bettering with first in northern Europe the Chinese people were using money in trade."

He reviewed the great natural resources of the Chinese empire and the fertility of the soil. He told of the wonders that would develop there when these resources begin to be exploited, for he said, "The superabundance of the Chinese religion is such that it was more than a man's life was worth to attempt to get what lay beneath the soil." He predicted that the future meat supply of Europe would be drawn from the plains of Mongolia. He said the Chinese had used natural gas 200 years before we discovered it.

"With the coming of the new life to China," he said, "will come social problems within ten years that will make the slums of New York look like model settlements. It is for us to take hold and help make a model for this nation into what it is to be."

THIRTY-SEVEN FEET COST JUDGE ALTSTADT MONEY

The fact that Justice of the Peace William Altstadt has his office thirty-seven feet farther from Justice Claiborne's office than Justice Britt has, is costing the "Little Bismarck" judge some business. When a defendant makes a request for a change of venue in justice court on account of prejudice, the statute stipulates that the case shall be taken to the next nearest justice of the peace. The nearest traveled route must be taken in making the measurements. If Justice Britt had remained on the fifth floor of the Barker block, where he used to be, all would have been well with Judge Altstadt. But Justice Britt didn't like his rooms up there, so he moved down to the third floor of the building. The county surveyor in order to settle a dispute of whether Altstadt or Britt were nearer to Claiborne's court, and for that reason entitled to the business coming from that court on change of venue, made the measurement, and counted Altstadt out by thirty-seven feet.

ENDORSE LOAN SHARK BILL

Social Service Commission of Episcopal Church Agrees in Part.

BUSINESS IS TO BE LICENSED

Any Violations of the Rules and Regulations Would Be Punishable by Revoking of License, with Fines.

The executive committee of the Social Service commission of the Episcopal church met Wednesday in the bishop's office, Seventeenth and Dodge streets, and discussed a number of bills proposed in Nebraska. Bishop A. L. Williams presided over the meeting. J. H. Claiborne was elected permanent secretary.

The loan shark bill was endorsed in principle; however, the committee did not approve all the minor details of the bill. The bill stipulates for the punishment of the present law on loans. In general, and provides that loans not to exceed $50 for a term not to exceed one year, an interest rate not over 3 per cent per month may be charged. Another condition is that a man doing a chattel loan business must procure a license issued by the state auditor and that its cost is to be $10. He must also be under a bond in the sum of $2,000. Then, too, the books of the loan man must be open to inspection at any time by the public inspector to be appointed for this work. But the status of the business is not to be made public by the inspector so long as the business is found to be in conformity to the law.

Penalty for violations of the law is to be a forfeiture of both the interest and the principal in the loan in which the violation is practiced, and besides a monthly fine of from $25 to $1,000, or a jail imprisonment. The committee also endorsed the principle of the civil service bill known as house bill No. 20, and another proposed bill which requires that the names of applicants for marriage licenses shall be published for five consecutive days before a license is issued. The principle of the mothers pension bill drawn by Simon of Douglas county was also endorsed.
