YOUNG FOLKS IN TROUBLE

Seven Boys and Five Girls Are Before Juvenile Court.

SONS OF PROMINENT FAMILIES

One Lad Is Released When Sent to Military School—Hearing Next Saturday—Others at the Riverview Home.

Sensational discoveries of alleged indiscreet practices among boys and girls still in their teens has resulted in the arrests of seven sons of prominent Omaha men and five young women, members of more or less prominent families. All are being detained at the Riverview home, except one, whose release was obtained on his father's promise to send him away to a military school for boys.

Juvenile Officer Mogy Bernstein, who with his assistants unearched the case, blames students' dancing parties and other student imitations of "society" functions for the undoing of the young people. In referring to the case he also denounced the serving of punch at student social affairs.

Hearings for the young people in juvenile court have been set for next Saturday. First arrests were made last Friday and others followed Saturday. Judge Howard Kennedy, of the juvenile court, continued the cases for a week.

Bernstein, Johnson, Vosburg and McAuley visited the home of one of the girls and interrupted a scene of revelry such as to make denials useless. Two girls and three boys were arrested. Other arrests followed examination of the first culprits.

Youth Jumps from Window When Told Two Men Await Him

Whether it was act three of a proposed footpad attack, or whether it was the turning point in a drama of larger scope, the recruiting officers of the local army recruiting station do not know, but they saw a man who was comfortably seated in their waiting room arise suddenly and leap out of the window when he was told that two men were waiting for him in the hall of the army building. A tall young fellow wearing sideburns stepped into the recruiting office and inquired for Sergeant Hansen. Corporal Blackett told him the sergeant was not in. The fellow was shown into the waiting room, where he sat down.

The next instant he had lifted the south window of the army building and had leaped to liberty. The men lingered about the hall until the watchman inquired too closely as to their business, when they moved on.

FREIGHT CARS ARE SHORT

Roads Here Could Have Used 500 Had They Been Available.

ENORMOUS CROPS THE CAUSE

Railroad Men Say Congested Condition at This Particular Time Is Due to Enormous Crop Movement Going On.

So far as Omaha is concerned the freight car shortage is more acute than at any time during the present shipping season. Omaha roads could have used 500 cars south and east to load with grain today, but they were not to be had. Some of the roads were without any cars to turn over to the customers and in he aggregate there were less than seventy-five empties in the Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs yards that could be used for grain carrying.

According to the Omaha railroad freight men the Omaha elevators are filled to bursting, but conditions are no worse here than elsewhere, all central points reporting a shortage of cars.

Governor Morehead Comes to Consult With Local Doctors

Did Governor Morehead cut some political pie in Omaha yesterday?

That is what members of the Wilson league, who paced the lobby of the Paxton looking for Governor Morehead, are wondering. They are also much worried over the company Governor Morehead kept while in Omaha.

Without telling any of the statesmen at Lincoln whether he was bound the governor caught an early train to Omaha. He was met at the station by Tom Flynn, city clerk and head of the Dalmatian democracy. That was the last some of these numerous patriots heard of him. They are wondering where Flynn took the governor. They are wondering why the governor was not met by J. W. Woodrough or C. J. Smyth or many of the other leaders of the Wilson league.

As Mayor Dahlman was ill at his home, the governor asked to be taken there and had quite a visit with the chief executive the second floor were turned on for his Wroth's new parlors, where the lights of the city. He was later taken to the second floor were turned on for his benefit.

The governor returned to Lincoln last night.

SHOEMAKER GOES TO DENVER

Local Man Becomes General Manager of the Stock Yards.

PROMOTIONS HAVE COME FAST

Starting as a Clerk in the Store of the W. B. Bennett Company, Shoemaker Has risen to a High Position.

J. A. Shoemaker is another Omaha boy who has made good. He has been appointed general manager of the Denver Union Stock Yards company, accepted the position and will leave within the next few days for his new home.

Born in Illinois and coming to Omaha twenty-three years ago, when a "piere boy," J. A. Shoemaker has gone up like a rocket. His first employment in Omaha was with the W. B. Bennett company when it was in the old Capitol avenue store. There he was just a clerk, but realizing that he had the stuff in him for better things, he studied shorthand at night and soon became an expert stenographer. Then he sought and was given employment at the Burlington freight office at Council Bluffs. From the Burlington he went to the Northwestern as stenographer and clerk in the superintendent's office at Norfolk. From there he went to Salida, Colo., where he became chief clerk for Superintendent Ridgway of the Denver & Rio Grande road. While employed there he married Miss Frances Warrick of Norfolk.

In 1902 Mr. Shoemaker quit railroading and returned to Omaha, entering the employ of Swift & Co. From there he went to Armour and into the traffic department, in a short time becoming the head of the office. Armour recognized his ability and soon called him to Chicago, giving him an important place in the city office. This was in 1907, and after being in Chicago a few months, he was called back to Omaha and into the traffic department of the Union Stock Yards company. There Mr. Shoemaker remained, becoming its head, until now, when he resigned to take full and complete charge of the Denver yards.

While the changes that Mr. Shoemaker has made in the last twenty-three years have been numerous, each new position has been attended with additional responsibility, and each new position has carried with it a substantial increase in salary.

G. W. Ballentine, who formerly occupied the position that Mr. Shoemaker has accepted, will be made president of the Denver Stock Yards company.

William Schellberg, purchasing agent for the local yards company, will be promoted to the position left vacant by Mr. Shoemaker's resignation. A. R. Parker, in the employ of Colonel Sharp, treasurer of the yards company, will succeed Mr. Schellberg as purchasing agent.

General Manager E. Buckingham spoke highly of the record made by Mr. Shoemaker while in the employ of the South Omaha company, and said all were pleased with his promotion.
