Cold Wave Starts Campaign of Buying Futures in Wheat,

SOME CORN SOLD ON MARKET But There Was Not Enough to Prevent the Market Advancing and Buying is Much Stronger Than Selling.

OMAHA, Feb. 1, 1913, OMAHA, Feb. 1, 1913,
A cold wave put in an appearance in the winter wheat belt and the young plant is in the open and unprotected from the sharply lower temperature. Estherville, ia., probably recorded the lowest temperature where winter wheat is grown, being is degrees below zero at that boint. The protection was adding srown, being 15 degrees below zero at that point. The mercury was sliding downward nearly all day yesterday in the winter wheat country, and those who remember the great losses of last year, and who were possibly on the wrong side of the market at that time, led in the buying yesterday. The market was not a runaway affair by any means, but those who absorbed the offerings or who bid up for the grain, are among the best judges in the wheat world. Shorts started the buying early and investors entered the buying early and investors entered the market with the price for a time a secondary consideration.

Those who have believed all along that wheat was destined to sell downward.

were greatly surprised yesterday because of the congestion shown which was brought about by inadequate offerings. There was some snow reported in the southwest yesterday, but while this was made a great deal of by the bears, the snow amounted to but very little and will likely prove of little assistance in the protection of the young plant. A noticeable feature of vesterday's wheat noticeable feature of yesterday's wheat market was the refusal of big holders to throw overboard any great amount of their grain, even at advanced prices. The fact that the southwest took considerable May wheat at Chicago in the way of an investment, had considerable bearing and was an influence with the genwas an influence with the general trade at this point.

Cash wheat unchanged to 14c lower.

Some corn was soid by the country yesterday in the way of "hedges" against the actual grain, but there was not enough of this selling to prevent the market from advancing. The buying was much stronger in character than the selling, and the strength in wheat was a help to corn. Cash corn 14c higher.

Outs were narrow and the trade was very slow. Cash cars unchanged to 14c eral trade at this point.

primary corn receipts were 1,243,000 bushels and shipments of 1,021,000 bushels and shipments of 1,571,000 bushels and shipments of 622,000 bushels last year.

Primary oat receipts were 635,000 bushels against is and shipments of 630,000 bushels against of 600,000 bushels against of 600,000 bushels and shipments receipts of 455,000 bushels and shipments of 250,000 bushels last year.

Features of the Trading and Closing

Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Belief that the southwest would escape from the damage of the cold wave tended to pull down wheat today. An easy tone prevalled at the close, with quotations ranging from %c decline to a shade advance, compared with the night before. Corn lost %c to %c net and oats 1-16c to %c%c. The outcome in provisions varied from 5c off to a gain of a shade.

of a shade.

Except for a short time at the beginning little disposition was shown to carry the wheat market upwards on account of possible injury due to zero weather. Kansas correspondents in particular took the position that the fall-sown crop had been well rooted and talk of danger seemed absurd. Another influence given the bulls was the fact that primary arrivals amounted to nearly double of those a year ago, $96,000 bushels, against 457,000 bushels. There were also reports that New York There were also reports that New York had been overloaded with flour.
Light deliveries of wheat by farmers in the northwest helped prevent any serious backset in prices. War uncertainties, too, served as a check. Besides, export clearances were fairly good—757,000 bushels.

Improved conditions of country roads led to an easy feeling in corn, the idea being that larger receipts would follow. Oats likewise gave way, liberal selling orders more than offsetting various attempts to lift the market. Provisions felt the effect of unloading, attributed to one of the big packers. The bulk of the offerings, though, came out only on hard spots.

London Stock Market. LONDON, Feb. 1.—The stock market opened quiet and steady and later advanced without particular feature to the dealings. Home rails were strengthoused by dividend announcements, but the continental favorites eased off in the late trading. Nigerian Tin shares were weak as realisting.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Movements of the loading stocks today were narrow and tregular. Speculation slowed down and displayed lack of initiative. A break of most conspicuous price change, these phares being sold on reports of a proposed large stock issue which were subsequently denied.

How large the stock market operations of the week were built about the built being to demand and discount rates were quiet.

To make another comparison, receipts this week are the smallest of any time high last week. Light stockers of 800d quantity were in very meager supply throughout the week and in consequence of that they commanded steady prices every day.

Receipts this morning footed up day a year ago.

Packers started out this morning bidding 5656c lower. Sellers were extremely opposed to granting any such concession as this, thinking that they ought to get at least steady figures. As a result, the market was very slow and dull at the opening and it was nearly 19 o'clock before anything of consequence had been done, and at that time less than half of the hogs had been sold. Sellers, seeing that lower prices were to be the order of the day in spite of any opposition, still objected to selling at the reductions demanded by the packers in their early bids, but whenever they got bids up to within a nickel of yesterdays prices they turned loose. Little if any business was done on shipping account and speculators were rather light buyers, but what stuff they did take over went at figures that were from weak to five school at 136 D. m. and speculators were rather light buyers, but what stuff they did take over went at figures that were from weak to five lower than Friday.

In spite of the slowness of the trade after the ice had once been broken there was enough life to the market to practically clear the yards of the early arrivals by a little after it o'clock. Light weights were by far the best sellers and the heavier grades changed hands at lower prices. Bulk of sales ranged from $7.25 to $7.30, and a high mark of $7.41\(\frac{1}{2}\) was reached early in the morning. Today's reduction leaves the trade on the whole just a shade lower than last Saturday. The feature of the week, however, has been the change in the demand for the different weights of stuff. This can be best explained by saying that the heavies and lights have exchanged places and where last week the heavies were bringing the top figures it is now the lighter and mixed grades that are commanding the premium. commanding the premium.
