Pessimistic Note on Inefficient

Training of Teachers.

Summary of the Week's Events in Nearby Institutions-Legislative inspectors on the Rounds.

A bulletin recently issued by the United States Bureau of Education carries a note of pessimism on the lack of good teachers properly trained. Not more than one in every five teachers, the investigation disclosed, had been graduated from a teacher's training school.

The worst conditions were found in the rural schools. The lure of the city and of Schools E. U. Graff, who is suffering town, it was found, drained the country with an abcess of the ear, slowly is re- of its best teaching talent, and, in consequence, the country schools were forced to get along as best they could.

"The rural teacher," says the bulletin, needs the same courses in education as the city teacher, but he needs also additional courses in natural and physical sciences, particularly in their application, and in nature study, elementary agriculture, domestic economy, sanitation, rural economics and rural sociology."

Many of the states have special courses these studies for the benefit of prosective teachers, and the federal bureau hopes to encourage the spread of the movement. The report brought out the fact that graduates of the normal school in Washington who fail to obtain places as teachers in the district are much sought by other localities.

The Omaha Bee is read by all classes

It not only appeals to the people who think, but to those who want to be amused as well. Its editorial opinions on issues of importance command national attention. All the thinking is not done in mansions, nor does Mutt and Jeff appeal only to the "low brow."

The Bee is particularly a newspaper for and of the working people. It has been consistently fighting the battles of the wage earner. For example, in preventing an increase in the price of milk, in the fight for lower water rates, in fighting against medical charlatans, who prey chiefly on the credulous poor, and in every effort for better and more economical local government, it has been dealing with the working-man's big problems of life.
