

THE SOCIETY OF THE BEE-HIVE

By MELLIFICIA. Tuesday, February 18, 1913.

A MOVEMENT is in progress over the United States to establish Wellesley clubs in every community of any importance. These organizations are for the purpose of continuing the good fellowship of the school and to foster the alma mater spirit.

The Omaha Wellesley club, recently inaugurated, is gradually completing the details of the organization. New members are being added from time to time and, as the enrollment grows, new plans of entertainment are advanced.

Miss Ruth Goodwin, class '98, has been appointed consular by the college faculty, and her particular mission is to stir up and embellish the enthusiasm of the different clubs. With this in mind, she will visit Omaha March 24 and 25, and will hold meetings, at which all Wellesley women will be invited. Possessing, as she does, a store of eloquence, there is every possibility that before she leaves the local club will have reached a full membership and that many arrangements will have been made for the future.

While here Miss Goodwin will be entertained at some large affair by the local club, either a tea or luncheon.

Miss Corinne Searle is president and Nell Carpenter secretary of the local Wellesley club.

Old Age.

Old age as it comes in the orderly process of nature is a beautiful and majestic thing. It stands for experience, knowledge, wisdom, counsel. That is old age as it should be, but old age as it often is means poor digestion, torpid bowels, a sluggish liver and a general feeling of ill health, despondency and misery. This in almost every instance is wholly unnecessary. One of Chamberlain's Tablets taken immediately after supper will improve the digestion, tone up the liver and regulate the bowels. That feeling of despondency will give way to one of hope and good cheer. For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

Women Ask Carnival Be Discontinued

The Omaha Woman's club has voiced its opinion of disapproval on the Ak-Sar-Ben carnival which is held in the city every year in connection with the Knight's of Ak-Sar-Ben festivities. The club thinks that the proposition is far beneath the organization of men of such high standing. The following resolutions were adopted at the meeting Monday afternoon:

Women Ask Carnival Be Discontinued

"We believe that the street fair or carnival held in conjunction with the annual festivities of the Knight's of Ak-Sar-Ben is unworthy that splendid organization; that it impresses unfavorably a large majority of those who are visitors on these occasions; that it seriously injures the name of the city abroad and that by its attendant fakers, vulgar shows, gambling devices, loose morals and bad manners, it has a distinctly demoralizing influence at home, especially upon the youth of our community, which no financial returns can justify."

SERIES OF MISHAPS TRAIL THE LITTLE RED AUTOMOBILE

Arthur Springer's quaint racing machine has been a Jonah to him for the last few days. Springer lives at 320 South Twenty seventh avenue, and as he was speeding out West Farnam street Sunday in a hurry to take his best girl for a ride Officer Emery of the flying squadron nailed him. Springer had expected to leave on Monday morning, but had to appear in police court, where he was fined $10 and costs. This delay cost him his machine, for while he was awaiting speeding it, away from the sight of the flying squadron, Monday noon, he hit a tree and now the red machine is no more.

COMMERCIAL CLUB IN FAVOR OF A SANE FOURTH

The Commercial club has gone on record in favor of a safe and sane Fourth of July ordinance for Omaha patterned after the ordinance in force in Kansas City. The law prohibits the sale or use of fireworks except in private parks and in public celebrations. The Commercial club will propose that the Omaha ordinance take effect July 5 this year that it may not work a hardship on dealers who already have ordered Fourth of July goods.

There is a Fascination in Possessing an Oriental Rug

There is a charm that no other branch of art can claim or impart. It is the charm of mystery

As you sit by the fireside and look upon these woven pictures, you cannot help but think of the labor, skill and hardships endured in the making of an Oriental Rug.

Where did it come from, what people sent it forth, what adventures has it seen in its travels through alien tribes?

Was this little guest from the east woven in the chill northern mountain lands of Central Asia by descendants of the conquering Genghis Khan? Was it the treasured possession of a devout follower of the prophet, a necessity of his daily devotions? In what bazaar was it bartered for powder and musket and the wants of its dusky owners?

Or did this garden of flowers materialize knot by knot in sunny southern Persia, picturing as it grew, the weaver's blossoms in the little dooryard.

There is truly a fascination in possessing an Oriental Rug; a rug that is "original" and not "commercial"—made specially for the market.

Hundreds of just such "original" pieces, in all sizes, are on exhibition now at the corner store of the Her Grand hotel building,
