

THE SOCIETY OF THE BEE-HIVE

By MELLIFICIA. Monday, March 10, 1913.

IF IT were not for the singular ingenuity of the women at Fort Crook the garrison life at this particular time would be socially the most lonesome place on earth. Since the day of its establishment there never has been a time when there was such a scarcity of officers. The recent call to the Mexican border has taken one after another away, and the last to go were Captain Brady, who left Thursday, and Lieutenant Muncaster, who left Friday. This leaves the fort without a single commissioned officer.

Notwithstanding, the women are making the best of the occasion, and to vary social entertainments of the past, are proving their ability to make up for the missing gender. Foremost of those that have come to my attention was a brilliant little affair Saturday evening, at which plates were arranged for ten. Three of those invited, however, did not come at the appointed time, and while regrets were being passed upon they appeared, all adorned in their husbands' full dress uniforms.

They entered with grim composure, took their respective seats at the table, and then entered into apology for being late, stating that the train from Galveston was behind its schedule.

Very naturally they brought messages, momentarily disappointing messages to the wives present. The missives related that the officers were having the times of their lives, that they were being joyously entertained, that even though the drizzling rains were disagreeable, there was much going on there on the gulf to offset such a trivial incident as weather.

Hot blushes of jealousy spread over the unsuspecting, and for a moment it looked as though there might be a few bursting expressions.

Those present at the dinner were Mrs. Frederick Dale, Mrs. S. W. Neyes, Mrs. Nuttman, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Van Dune, Mrs. Reginald Kelley, Mrs. Weeks, Mrs. Chenoweth and Mrs. Nesbitt.

Mrs. Herbert E. Gates of this city, who is spending the winter in New York, was in an automobile accident last week. The brakes on a taxicab in which Mrs. Gates was riding refused to work when north and south traffic was held up at Forty-second street, on Fifth avenue. Mrs. Gates' car smashed into the rear of Mrs. Howard Gibb's machine, which was vacant except for the chauffeur, and Mrs. Gates was cut about the face by flying glass. She was helped to another machine and driven to the Park Avenue hotel, where she was stopping, and she was treated by Dr. Moore, the house physician. "The taxicab was so badly damaged that it could not return to the garage under its own power."

SEES PROHIBITIVE CLAUSE

Iowa Senator Testifies He Understood International Contract.

ACCUSED INSTIGATOR ARRIVES

Man Charged with Having Forced Government Into Dissolution of Harvester Trust Comes to Town.

A state senator from the Fifty-eighth district of Iowa testified at the International Harvester hearing yesterday. This was Senator Joseph Mattes of Odessa, Ia., who is in the implement business there. Senator Mattes is one of the very few witnesses who admits having seen the prohibitive clause in the old contract made with the International Harvester company. The clause binds the retailer not to handle harvesting machinery made by any but the International Harvester company.

"When I signed the contract with the International people," Mattes testified, "I saw the prohibitive clause, and I asked them to strike it out. They then did so voluntarily."

He then testified that he handled nothing but the International harvesters and that when he was asked to handle the independent lines he had declined.

"If you steadfastly declined to handle other lines," asked the prosecution, "why did you object to the clause prohibiting you from handling others?" "Because I wanted to be free to handle whatever I chose," replied the witness and I didn't handle the independent lines because I didn't think them as good."

Senator Mattes Testified That He Had

been interested in the hearing largely because at various times since he has been in the legislature in successive terms, bills have been introduced calling for an investigation. He denied that the International people had asked him to testify and said no one had told him how to testify or what to say. He said in his vicinity 100 per cent of the harvesters sold were of the International make.

Advance Was Reasonable.

He gave it his opinion that the International harvesters had not advanced in price more than other machinery such as rakes, harrows and other machinery. He could not produce figures offhand to prove his point when the attorney pressed him. He testified that the Deering branch of the International seemed just as keen for business as the McCormick since the organization of the International company, and he could see no differences between the keenness of the agents of the two machines since the International had taken over both of them.

George A. Leiser of Grand Island testified that two dealers had quit business in Grand Island in the last year or two, but further questioning brought out the fact that one of these had handled the International machinery while another had handled another line. He testified that no attempt on the part of the International to coerce him in regard to prices or makes handled had ever been made.

M. M. Koeger of Clark testified that one-fourth of his business was with the International people and that if coercion were attempted he would quit that fourth.

W. H. Buck of Gibbon testified he handled only the International harvesters, but handled harrows, rakes and many other implements of competing companies and that he believed he would quit the International if an attempt were made to coerce him.

W. H. Green of Creighton, Neb., who was charged at St. Louis by the attorneys for the International Harvester company with having forced the government to begin the dissolution suit against the so-called Harvester trust, arrived in Omaha Sunday from Washington, where he had been in consultation with the anti-trust forces of the Department of Justice. Mr. Green says that the conviction prevails that Attorney General McReynolds is going to have the most brilliant administration in the history of that office; that the conservatives know he is not given to fighting windmills and the radicals who forced the investigation of the United States Steel corporation and who watched his work on the tobacco and other cases have a profound regard for his ability and integrity.

Mr. Green notes the fact that few, if any, ultimate consumers or farmers are being put on the stand to tell how they like the 20 advance in price of a binder since the harvester amalgamation was effected.

"Only middlemen need apply or have been asked to the Omaha, rakes and Mr. Green, "men who don't care how hard the whip is cracked providing that they are not on the cracker end."

Dream of Robbery Was Soon Realized

Vision of a robber soon last January by Jack Rosenblum, dealer in groceries, came true a week later and Albert Moore, alias Albert Maurice, is on trial in Judge Day's law court charged with breaking and entering. Moore, who is a negro, is charged with taking $500 cash and checks. The story of Rosenblum's alleged dream was brought up by counsel for the defense. The prosecution denies that its case is based in any degree on the dream. Rosenblum's vision was of Moore, who lived in a room above the grocery store. When he found he was robbed his suspicion was at once directed to the negro.

A confession written and signed by Moore was exhibited to the jury. It is alleged that part of the stolen property was found in his possession.

A Cold, La Grippe, Then Pneumonia.

Is too often the fatal sequence. La Grippe coughs hang on, weaken the system, and lower the vital resistance. R. G. Collins, Postmaster, Barnegat, N. J., says: "I was troubled with a severe La Grippe cough and was completely exhausted after each fit of violent coughing. Before I had taken one half of a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, the coughing spells had entirely ceased. I wish to say it can't be beat. All others are imitations. For sale by all dealers everywhere.—Advertisement."

The many uses of GOLD DUST

If you were to use for each kind of washing, cleaning, scouring and scrubbing, one of the so-called special preparations which are made, you would have an imposing and expensive array of chemicals, washing compounds, cleaning pastes, etc.

There is one cleaner that has the virtues of all and the faults of none. Use Gold Dust and you have no need of borax, ammonia, kerosene or naphtha.

How I Saved One Hundred Dollars

We are not well-to-do. My husband is a Foreman in one of the large factories, and it takes all he can earn to keep our family going. I felt though, as every wife feels, that we ought to get something in the bank for a rainy day. But we could not eat less, nor wear less, so what were we to do?

One day a neighbor told me about Larkin Co. and their plan of selling household supplies at factory prices. That if I would buy my soaps, teas, spices, and other household supplies from Larkin Co. I could get just twice as much for my money. It was certainly welcome news, for our grocery bills seemed to be the biggest drain upon us.

That very night I wrote to Larkin Co. and asked them about this plan of theirs. The information they sent me was so satisfactory that I mailed my first order to them immediately. The first month of dealing this way I saved over $5, and the next month nearly $12, and I have saved $10 or $12 every month since.

We soon had $100 in the bank, and you can't imagine how relieved it makes us feel.

I wish other women would try this plan because I know how much the saving would mean to them. Why don't you write to Larkin Co., Peoria, Ill., for their Catalogue D 29? I know they'll be glad to send you one. Just send a postal.
