JUROR IS FINALLY LOCATED

Had Avoided Appearing for Duty and Delays Trial of Case.

IS KNOWN AS "HOODOO" SUIT

Has Been Continually Hampered and Is Called Suit with a Jinx in It by the District Court Members.

The problem of the missing juror in the "hoodoo" case of Nicholas P. Berger against the E. M. P. Automobile company was solved yesterday when two deputies finally located E. C. Olson on North Eighteenth street. Judge Sears discharged the jury and a new one selected. Olson explained that he was ill and an investigation will be made today. Olson appeared yesterday about 3 o'clock in a saloon at Seventeenth and Nicholas streets, where he has been employed, and announced that he was going to court. He failed, however, to do so.

Tuesday morning word was received by telephone from Olson's home, 1730 Charles street, that he was ill in bed and unable to come to court. When the bailiff went to his home he learned that Olson had come downtown, to see a doctor. It was said that the sheriff was involved and the search for Olson began. A telephone message purporting to come from his home was received last to come from his home was received Tuesday, but it was discovered Olson was not at home that night.

The suit is called the "hoodoo" case in district court, because more than a week ago, when it was tried in Judge Sears' court the jury had to be discharged on complaints by the E. M. P. company's attorneys that one of the jurors had been seen in conversation with another man.

Mr. Berger is suing the corporation for salary and commission amounting to about $6,000 alleged due him as manager of the local branch of the company. He was thus employed from July 1, 1910, to January 1, 1911. Under his contract he was to receive a salary of $300 a month and a commission of one-half of 1 per cent on the first $500,000 worth of cars sold and 1 per cent on those sold above that amount. It is claimed that the local company sold $300,000 worth of machines while Mr. Berger was in control. The $3,000 is alleged to be an amount unpaid after a settlement in January, 1911.

WILD TALE OF A COCOANUT

Mayor Receives Southern Fruit with Sensational History.

HENRY W. DUNN IS THE DONOR

Omaha's Chief of Police Spins yarn Which Threatens to Topple City's Chief Executive's Reason from its Lofty Throne.

Mayor Dahlman has received a unique present from Chief of Police Henry W. Dunn, who is spending an outing at Miami, Fla. This present is a huge coconut nut with the mayor's and chief's names burned on it. In a letter Dunn tells of how he shook the coconut from the tree, but little credence is given his story, because he has woven a sensational romance about this coconut, recounting how the tree upon which it grew was discovered by Ponce de Leon in the sixteenth century while he was searching for the fountain of perpetual youth.

Ponce had about despaired of finding the fountain and as a last effort to preserve his aging body he invented and advertised Florida water and sun baths, later discovering a face lotion for use of barbers made from the milk of a coconut grown on the tree from which Dunn gathered this nut. The size of the tree, says the chief, lends a semblance of veracity to the theory that our antediluvian ancestors sported in its branches in man's arborescent days.

Here is a conflict in Dunn's tale. Despite the robustness of Omaha's chief of police it is considered improbable that he could shake a coconut from so large a tree. Being much interested and pleased with the gift the mayor has written the chief asking for a more logical history of the coconut. The mayor wants a semi-scientific account so written that he can read it to his friends without fear of criticism or danger of toppling from his lofty throne.

"It's a very pretty thing," said the mayor solemnly to the group gathered about the rough looking fruit. "Not only is it fine to look upon, but it has a peculiar rattle, as peculiar to itself as the sound of the waves in a seashell." And he picked up the coconut and shook it. The milk slopped noisily against its sides.

BURBANK WANTS MORE SPACE

Desires Twenty-Two Feet More Room for the New Hotel.

LOT IS OWNED BY BRANDEIS

Lessee Says He Needs the Room to Accommodate the Lobbies and Dining Rooms Needed for Big Hotel.

William R. Burbank, lessee of the million dollar hotel, has applied to the directors of the hotel company for twenty-two feet additional ground west of the site donated by Arthur Brandeis and John L. Kennedy. The lot, which is 122x122 feet, is not large enough, he says, to accommodate the kind of lobby and dining rooms he desires for the structure and tentative plans, which have been recently drawn call for more space if it is possible to get it.

The directors have placed the lessee's application on file and probably will take some action when A. D. Brandeis, who owns the property west of the site, returns to Omaha. Brandeis is now in Panama and is expected to return to Omaha March 25. Some of the directors say the additional property may be bought from Brandeis at cost, but whether or not arrangements can be made by the directorate to secure it none was willing to say.

According to some of the directors, the only way the additional property can be bought is by asking more subscriptions to cover the increase of stock. The agreement between the directors and Burbank calls for 6 per cent of the capital as rent for the twenty years lease, and the lessee has announced that he will be willing to pay the increased rental if he can get the additional space for the site of the hotel.

Thomas R. Kimball, the architect, has awarded a contract to King & Rohrbaugh, engineers, for taking levels and setting permanent monuments for the structure. This work will be begun immediately. Excavation will be postponed until definite plans are made and architectural drawings have been passed upon by the directors and the lessee.

The first call, that of 10 per cent on stock subscriptions, was issued Saturday, and out of 200 subscribers A. L. Reed, the treasurer of the company, already has received thirty checks.

Many investors, who were delayed in getting in the list of subscribers, will be given a chance if the additional space for the building is decided upon and purchase is made.

FIRST WIFE WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT WALTER E. DOBBINS

Local Parcel Post Business Continues to Climb in Volume

The first official communication from Daniel C. Roper, first assistant to the postmaster general, has been received by Postmaster Wharton. It was a confirmation of the list of names submitted by the postmaster for appointment as substitute carriers. The substitute carriers certified are Roland D. Canon, Albert D. Sharrar, Charles Nerad, Henry K. Klok, Joseph Vonzabal, Charles A. Noss, Albert R. Harmon and Frank E. Svacina. The new substitutes will go on duty Monday morning.

The addition of these substitutes is made necessary by the steady and constant increase in the parcels post business handled at the local postoffice. According to Postmaster Wharton the parcel post business is growing in volume all the time. Record after record has been broken from the first week the system has been inaugurated up to the present time.

One week ago last Monday all previous records were again broken when 523 parcels were delivered in Omaha, besides the parcels that are small enough to be carried by the regular carriers in the

PLAIN GARDEN SAGE NATURALLY DARKENS FADED, GRAY HAIR AND IS HARMLESS TOO.

Restores Its Lustre, Prevents Scalp Itching, Dandruff and Falling Hair.

Hair Remedy, ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair and is the best thing known to remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody chooses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time which requires but a few moments. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair has disappeared and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. It certainly helps folks look years younger and twice as attractive, says a well known down town druggist.
