BOWLERS MAKE PROGRESS

Season Just Closed Has Been Extra Successful One in Omaha.

MANY FLOURISHING TEAMS

In All There Were One Hundred and Twenty-Eight Teams, with a Total Membership of Nine Hundred.

Now that the bowling season is nearing a close it might be well to take a glance at the progress the game has made in Omaha, and other places. The season of 1912-13 has been without an exception, the most successful season in the history of bowling.

Omaha, South Omaha and Benson have developed more young bowlers and organized more leagues than ever before. In Omaha alone there flourished fourteen organized leagues with a membership of 460 bowlers. Of these fourteen leagues five were organized this season. In South Omaha no new leagues were organized, but the Magic City and Parker's league went through a most successful season, having a close race throughout, and every team completing its schedule.

Benson, Fort Omaha and Fort Crook each had a league running through the season. In all there were nineteen leagues, composed of 123 teams with an approximate total membership of 900 bowlers.

Another feature of the growth of the game this season is the increased number of bowlers on the alleys who were not members of any organized league, and also number of extra matches that were played, especially by teams composed of young bowlers who started to bowl this season.

The scores have been of the class variety, and Omaha teams have rolled more big games this season than ever before. High scores made by individual players have also been more numerous. This shows the increased number of tenpinsharks in the leagues. Where formerly there were eight or ten stars in the game, this season has raised the number to twenty-five or thirty.

Probably the greatest proof of the growth of the game in Omaha, is the showing made at the Midwest tournament in Kansas City. This city entered its largest number of teams in the Midwest tournament last November, excepting the year when this event was held here. Not only did Omaha enter a large delegation of bowlers, but Omaha bowlers carried away practically all of the honors together with a greater portion of the prize money and trophies.

Other cities report a like progress of the game in their bowling ranks. The increased number of the visiting teams entered in the American Bowling Congress tournament at Toledo, illustrated the growth of the game throughout the United States.

All other large tournaments report increased entry lists. Old time bowlers, officials and alley owners say that this season's growth shows the opportunity for further growth next season, if the game is properly boosted. The time is coming when the public outside of the game will take more interest in it, which will naturally place it on a higher financial basis.

DUCK HUNTERS GET BIG BAG

this number had he remained a day longer.

The town of Clark, Neb., is said to resemble a convention of hunters. The sportsman are so thick in this locality that ducks are getting a continuous rain of shot.

More Hunters This Year. In fact, this season has probably seen a greater increase in the followers of duck shooting than any other previous one.

"Dutch" Nesman returned Friday from an outing of several days on the waters above Schuyler, where he secured close on to the limit. He says many of the birds are being driven inland from the river to the few small bodies of open water. And the hunter who avails himself of the opportunity of securing his shooting at these inland ponds is almost certain of obtaining a good bag.

The northern lakes of the state have not been holding up as well as has the river country and the men who have returned from that section have not been as successful as they are expected to be. However, all are of the opinion that the hunting in these parts will extend over a much longer period of time than that on the river and many expect to return a little later in the season for another try.

Dick Payne, C. H. and Harold Sobotker left last evening for Calhoun, where they are spending several days in pursuit of the birds. Harold was out on the Platte last Saturday and Sunday and besides securing a good number of the webfoots, wing-shots, a pintail drake, which he brought home and has placed in the show window of his place of business at Twentieth and Farnam streets. A little pond has been constructed in the window space for the bird and it has grown so tame that it will eat corn from its master's hand. The duck is one of the most beautifully marked specimens of its kind and

SAVED WITH A TROUT LINE

Last Sunday morning a party of duck hunters composed of W. S. Cook, Cortes Cook, Warren Dolan, Edward Nonnamaker and Clyde Cook were the principal performers in a little drama staged on the Elkhorn river near Cook's hunting lodge south of town. The party decided to cross the treacherous stream in a small steel boat and Nonnamaker and Clyde Cook successfully made the farther side.

Cook then returned for another passenger, Dolan, and when the two reached the middle of the stream the vessel struck a snag and rolled over, dumping the occupants into the freezing water. Cook, after some difficulty, managed to secure a hold on the boat and after great effort got back up the stream with it so Dolan could catch hold. The two men floated down the river about 100 yards to get ashore, but found that they were held in the middle of the stream by a strong current. At last they managed to catch onto a big snag or stump and Dolan, who was nearly ready to give up, was boosted bodily across the object. Cook simply hung on for dear life until his brother, Cortes, found a piece of trout line in his outfit, with which he made a lasso, and, wading as far into the water as he dared, he cast for the stump, luckily hitting it the first try. Clyde tied Dolan to the line and he was pulled ashore, nearly frozen. He later landed in the same manner. Both boys were taken to the lodge, where a dose of hot brandy and a vigorous rub-down restored them to their former selves. Dolan's hands were slightly frozen, but otherwise the two are none the worse for their thrilling experience.

Other Notes Among Hunters. Paul Hoagland, on his expedition to the Platte last week, also received a duckling in trying to get a wounded mallard paddling on the surface of the water. Paul failed to watch his footing and went into a hole seven feet deep, from which he emerged dripping from head to foot.

Leon Callahan and Leonard Killian will spend Sunday hunting in the vicinity of North Bluffs. Both boys are strong for the shooting game and invariably return with something, if only an empty game bag.

S. G. Griswold is spending the week on the Loups near Fullerton, Neb., where the game is reported to be flying in good style.

Johnny Hanlhan and Clarence Peters are spending several days on the Platte about fifty miles south of the city. Both boys can drive a "buz buggy" with the best, but they say when they return they will also have a reputation as duck shots.

M. D. Grey and Judus Steinberg traveled along the Platte last Sunday with good success. They secured the limit in eight hours they were out. Their friends all received a token of the battle, which was delightfully partaken of.

Joe Forman and Captain Joseph Hoffman of Hook and Ladder Company No. 3, spent Wednesday afternoon on the Platte below Bellevue and bagged twenty-three birds. The boys had a blind on an island in the center of the river and could see the birds coming from a considerable distance. They got several shots at flocks of geese, but the shot they were using was so small that it had no telling effect.

PREPARE FOR OPENING DAY

AK-Bar-Ben, and Victor Parrish, of the Commercial club, are working hand in hand with Dick Grotte and Dave Bourke to make the program this year even more interesting than in years past. The festivities will start earlier, however, this year owing to the game being called at 3 o'clock instead of 3:30 as it did last year.

The attendance will break all previous records is the aim to which the management is working. Tickets will be put on sale in the very near future. In fact they are in the hands of the printer already. Dave Bourke has already received orders for over 2,000 seats and says he will fill them as soon as the first batch of tickets are off the press. He advises those who wish to get choice seats to get busy at once and put in their orders as he predicts that they will go exceptionally fast during the next twenty-five days.

and Stehm is determined to give it a thorough workout. If base ball proves as good a financial card as other athletics it will be placed on the same par as foot ball, basket ball and track and the same attention devoted to it.

Simultaneous with the start of base ball comes the call for spring foot ball practice from Coach Stehm. The coach proposes to establish the most elaborate spring training season the Cornhuskers have ever had. The squad will be asked to report for the first time toward the close of the week after the base ball work is gotten well under way.

Big Practice Squad. Stehm expects between twenty-five and thirty men to report for the spring practice. All candidates for the varsity squad next winter are required to don suits for the tri-weekly workouts.

Instructions in the rudiments of the game will be the sole purpose of the spring practice, Stehm thus hoping to eliminate many valuable weeks' work next fall when the regular foot ball season starts.

The Nebraska mentor has found that something is necessary to offset the advantage which the other schools gain when their courses take up earlier in the fall than the Cornhuskers'.

Two hours will be spent three times a week in coaching the squad. No actual scrimmage will be done, although the men will be instructed in charging and tackling. Passing, kicking and recovery of fumbles will receive the most attention.

Stehm is desirous of developing more than one punter. He would like the Omaha High school senior, is the only dependable punter the varsity has left, and Stehm does not care to run any risk with such a condition of affairs. Drop kicking and place kicking is also coming in for due attention—both departments where Nebraska has been weak in the past. Punter has the most native ability in drop kicking, and with practice, Stehm hopes to develop in him a dependable drop kicker.

Loss Several Men. Four of last year's team are lost through the operation of the three-year rule. Captain Ernie Frank, Harmon, Mays and Volck, are the ones who have departed.

Members of the championship basket ball five will receive gold basket balls in honor of capturing the Missouri valley championship this season. At the next meeting of the athletic board the awards will be made. Those who will receive their letters include Captain Carrier, Rowell, Haskell, Underwood, Stryker, Hawkins and Hyde.

Clean Slate Last Fall. Nebraska's clean slate this year has enabled the Corn Huskers to hang up a remarkable record in basket ball. The Corn Huskers have won twenty-two straight games and have won all but one of the twenty-three conference games played in the last two years. The last game of the championship series this year was lost to Kansas after the Huskers had already grabbed the championship.

A banquet will be tendered the squad before long and representatives from the following fraternities, all of which gave dinners to the basket ball team, will be invited:

Phi Kappa Psi, Alpha Tau Omega, Delta Upsilon, Sigma Nu, Alpha Alpha Delta, Acacia and Phi Theta Psi. The Huskers during the present season just closed threw 128 more field goals than their opponents.

CHANNELL'S CLAIM AGAINST DENVER DENIED

AUBURN, N. Y., March 22.—Secretary John F. Farrell of the National Association of Professional Base Ball Leagues today gave out the following decisions affecting minor base ball:

The territory of North Yakima, Wash., and Backer, Ore., has been added to the Western Tri-State league.

The following decisions were handed down by the national board of arbitration:

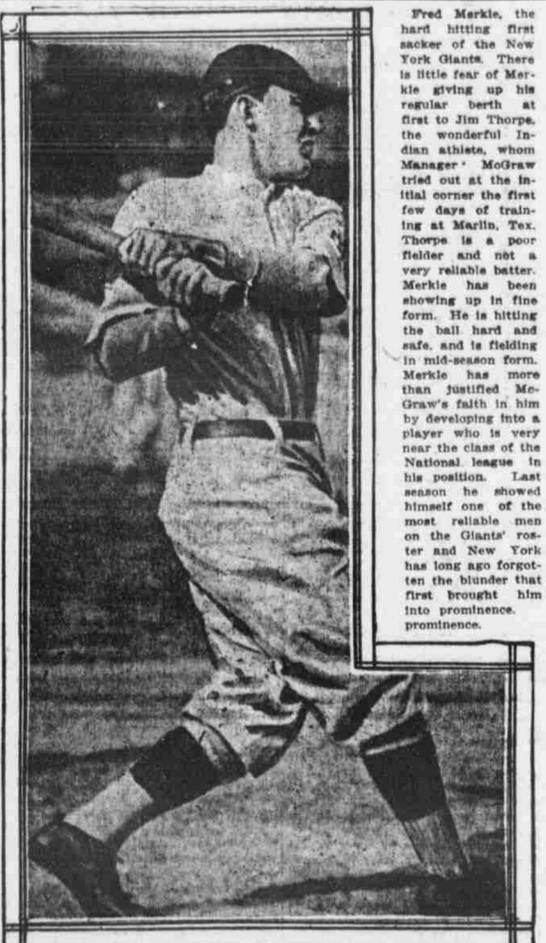

Claims allowed: Player Calderhead against Madison, Wis.; Player Ursela against Superior, Wis.

Claims disallowed: Player Channell against Denver.

Merkle Sure of Job

ROURKE RECRUITS PLAY FAST

Job, until last year when he went to Auburn, Ne. Here Rourke saw him play one day, and was so impressed with his style that he secured the right to his services. From what he has seen of the big boy this spring Pa. feels confident he has the material from which to make a great twirler. Reed's home is in Springfield, Mo.

Youngest Player. The youngest member of the Omaha squad now at Oklahoma City is Abel Applegate, pitcher. However, he is some baby for he stands an even six feet in height and weighs 170 pounds. He was of age barely in time to cast a vote for Woody Wilson for president. In spite of his youth, this is his third year in professional base ball. His early training was accomplished on the town lots of West Point in Kentucky where he was captain of a team. He joined the Clarksville team in the Kitty league in 1911. From Clarksville he went to Paris in the Bluegrass league the following year. Here he performed so well as to bring himself to the attention of the circuits higher up and President Rourke had spirited competition for his contract. In spite of the fact that Paris was a tall end team he won more than 80 per cent of his games. This wonderful record was due almost entirely to his individual play. For during this season he established a new strike-out record for the league by fanning twenty men in one game. He is a right-handed pitcher.

Two new southpaws have been added to the Rourke aggregation this spring, but the only new left-handed twirler is Clooman. While Clooman is one of the smallest men on the team, every inch and every pound is real athletic strength. He stands five feet nine inches in height and weighs 165 pounds. He is 22 years old, a native of Nebraska.

Clooman started his career as a professional base ball pitcher in 1911 with Grand Island in the Nebraska State league. In 1912 he was with the same club until the last three weeks of the season, when Rourke brought him to Omaha and worked him in several of the games. His best showing was made against St. Joseph when he started against Johnson, pitched eight innings and was beaten 3 to 2. Rourke said that he had good stuff and kept him. During his stay with Grand Island in 1912 he won twenty-two games and lost eight with a club which finished fifth.

Brakeman Killed By Fall from Train

Paul O. Cook, a Union Pacific brakeman, residing at 1908 Eighth avenue, Auburn, Ne. Here Rourke saw him play one day, and was so impressed with his style that he secured the right to his services. From what he has seen of the big boy this spring Pa. feels confident he has the material from which to make a great twirler. Reed's home is in Springfield, Mo.

He fell from eastbound freight No. 230 at 6 o'clock. His head was badly crushed. It is supposed his head struck on the steel rail. He was standing near the edge of the box car looking over the side, evidently to see that everything was all right.

Mr. Cook was about 40 years old, and had been in the employ of the railroad company for many years. His widow and six children survive him.

Los Angeles Defeats Chicago Americans

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—Los Angeles defeated the Chicago Americans by a narrow margin today. White, who pitched five innings for Chicago, allowed only three hits, but Smith, the Southern league recruit, was more vulnerable, and after Los Angeles had tied the score in the eighth inning he was taken out of the box. Lange fared no better, two long hits bringing in the winning run with two men down. Score: R.H.E. Los Angeles..... 5 9 1 Los Angeles..... 2 4 0 Batteries: Los Angeles, Toss, Driscoll and Brooks; Hoffman, Chicago. White, Smith, Lange and Mastny.

BLUE GRASS LEAGUE IS EXPELLED FROM NATIONAL

AUBURN, N. Y., March 22.—The Blue Grass league was today expelled from the National Association of Base Ball Clubs. Its membership fee has been returned and more than 100 players, members of its clubs, have been declared free agents.

Chairman John H. Farrell of the board of arbitration of the national association stated that the league, in establishing a club at Covington, which is within five miles of Cincinnati, had violated a section of the national agreement. This is the first time in the history of base ball that a league has been expelled.

COYLE SIGNS FOR THE YEAR

Outfielder in Perfect Health and Condition and Appears Pleased with Contract for Work of the Season.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okl., March 22.—(Special Telegram.)—Although the sun shone brightly all day Friday, a cold north wind was blowing, and being afraid of incapacitating his men the day before the first exhibition game with Lincoln, Manager Arbogast did not order them out in suits either morning or afternoon. However, he took them on two long hikes, in the morning to the ball park and in the afternoon for a five mile jaunt into the country. They also were packing plants, the base ball teams of which will play the Omaha Yanniigans next.

Norman Coyle reached camp Thursday night. The midge outfielder is in perfect health and anxious to get into harness. He is just off his southern farm, where he says he has been toughening himself all winter by lots of outdoor work.

Until he joined camp Coyle had not affixed his signature to a contract, but apparently his demands in the way of salary were not steeper than Rourke thought his man deserved, for after a short conference they both came out smiling, announced that things were agreeable and that articles had been signed.

Seaman Last One Out. Seaman, utility man last season, now is the only one outside the fold. He will join the club here as soon as he recovers from his spell of grip.

Every one is anxious for the morrow. Save for immaterial stiffness and the injury to Manager Arbogast's hand, they are in fair condition, especially considering unfavorable weather. Indications tonight are that Sunday will be a clear, warm day, and in case it is, the Omahas expect to put up a good brand of ball.

Lincoln left Excelsior Springs Friday night and will be here early Sunday morning twenty-five strong.

Detectives late last night located everything stolen from the clubhouse Tuesday night. Practically every man on the team had lost a pair of shoes or favorite glove, and all were delighted at their good fortune in recovering everything.

YALE WILL IMPORT TWO COACHES FROM ENGLAND

NEW YORK, March 22.—Two Englishmen will assist in coaching the Yale crew for the annual race with Harvard, according to an announcement made here today on the authority of the London Sporting Life. That paper declares that Harold Gold, who coached Oxford for many years, and A. G. Kirby, who coached the winning Oxford crew this year, have consented to come to America. It is said they will leave England early in May, accompanied by G. S. MacLagan, the old Oxonian coxswain, whose trip here will be solely for pleasure.

VETERANS TO MEET TUESDAY

Those Who Fought in Philippine Insurrection to Have Reunion.

IS FIRST MEETING TO BE HELD

Have Not Been Together Since Their Discharge from Duty Shortly After Returning Home from Islands.

Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the former members of Company L of the First Nebraska volunteer infantry will meet at the Calumet restaurant in an informal supper, for the purpose of renewing their war-time recollections. It is expected that all former L company men residing in Omaha and vicinity will be present, and those in charge of arrangements have received assurances of attendance from those residing as far away as Sioux City, Fairbury, Neb., and St. Louis, Mo.

Most of the men who will attend the reunion served in the Philippine Islands during the Spanish war and the first part of the Philippine insurrection, and to many of them this will be their first meeting with each other since that time.

The company was an outgrowth of the local militia company who, under the name of "Thurston Rifles" won considerable fame for proficiency in competitive drills, bringing to Omaha championship cups from the drills held at Memphis, Tenn., and San Antonio, Tex. in 1894 and 1895.

At the beginning of the Spanish war the First Nebraska National Guard formed the nucleus for the First Nebraska volunteer infantry, about half of the volunteer regiment being former members of the militia.

March 25 will be the fourteenth anniversary of an engagement at San Francisco del Monte, P. I., in which a number of L men were wounded. One of the men who was in this engagement tells the story as follows: "The trouble with the native (Filipino) started on a Saturday night, February 6, 1898. The Nebraska regiment was in camp at Santa Mesa which lay between block houses Nos. 7 and 5 on the American line around Manila, and the first shot was fired from one of our outposts. The next day, Sunday, after some severe fighting we captured block house No. 7 and the deposit, or reservoir of the Manila waterworks, which was about a mile outside our former line. We rested at the deposit until Monday noon and then pushed on out to the waterworks pumping station, near the town and river of Maraguina, about nine miles from Manila. From this time until March 15, the Nebraska regiment held the road from Manila to the pumping station and guarded the pipeline which supplied water to the city. There were insurgents on both sides of the road for about six miles, and they kept us pretty busy, hardly a day passing without our having one or more skirmishes with them. On March 15 we moved back onto the line about the city, a little to the left of our former position, our position on the waterworks road being taken by the First Colorado regiment.

"On the night of March 24 we moved into position to begin the advance toward Malolos, Aguinaldo's capital, which was about fifty miles north of Manila. The left of the American line was on the shore of Manila bay, north of the city, and extended eastward from the bay about four miles. The Nebraska regiment was on the extreme right of the line. We laid down to rest in skirmish line formation and shortly before daybreak began the advance. In about twenty minutes we were sighted by the Filipino outpost, whose bullets sounded the alarm, and a little later the whole American line was engaged. In passing through some dense undergrowth along the banks of a small stream about thirty L company men became separated from the rest of the line, and after crossing the stream discovered a strongly entrenched body of insurgents immediately in front of us, about 100 yards distant. Some of us rushed directly toward the front of the trench, keeping their attention on us, while Captain Taylor with another group made a detour and came at them from the flank and rear. The whole affair was over in just about five minutes and the net result was twenty-two "good" Filipinos, while we had eight men wounded. These were Captain "Buck" Taylor, Corporal Hansen, Privates Crawford, Fay, Barstoll, Fletcher, Koopman and Peau. At about the same time Captain Lee Forby of G company, who were engaged off to our left, received the wound from which he died three days later.
