"PAID IN FULL"

Hundreds of "Union" customers who lost all their furniture in the recent catastrophe received their receipts marked "PAID IN FULL" during the early part of last week. If you are one of the few who did not receive your receipt, COME!—it's waiting for you.

WHY WE PUBLISH THIS STATEMENT---

The "Union" has always been noted for its liberality—it does its good work in a quiet, unassuming, but effective way—giving help where needed, and preferring to have others tell the story—if told at all—Even now, if it were not for fear that our silence might be misinterpreted by some, this and previous announcements would not have been made. The "Union" always makes "GOOD."

THREE TO QUIT WATER BOARD

O'Brien, Heafey and Bucholz Are Sick of Their Jobs. SAY IT SPOILS THEIR BUSINESS

Heafey Says He Knows of Three Funerals He Has "Lost" Because He is a Member of Howell's Water Board.

That D. J. O'Brien, chairman of the Water board, and W. H. Bucholz and P. C. Heafey are considering the advisability of resigning is information from reliable, official sources. O'Brien, it is believed, is most likely to carry out his threat.

"I'm sick of it," he is reported to have said. "I've made enemies, lost friends and my business has been hurt. If it wasn't for losing the rest of the board in this crisis I would quit."

Bucholz, the most recent acquisition, has expressed his regrets that unkind fate ever forced him to cast his lot with R. Becher Howell, water commissioner and boss of the Water board.

"If I had known what was coming I would never have consented to have served on this board," is what he is reported to have said. Several of his friends have acknowledged that he wants to quit, but doesn't know how.

Salary Too Small. Heafey has said that the meagre $600 he receives as member of the board is not nearly compensating him for the loss of business suffered. He is an undertaker and can recall at least three recent "cases" he lost because, he says, the relatives told him, he "hadn't been square with the people."

Mr. Howell himself is not enthusiastic, but is fighting in the last ditch because his salary of $5,000 a year is in jeopardy. On his last visit to Omaha from Lincoln, where he spends his time lobbying for his metropolitan water-district bill, he was nervous, despondent and with little hope of winning the fight for the bill.

"It looks like I'm skinned," he said to one of his colleagues on the board.

Whether or not O'Brien, Heafey and Bucholz will leave the board within a few weeks or stick by the water commissioner to the last is a question men with inside information are not slow to answer. They believe these men will quit at the first opportunity.

For a long time a growing dissatisfaction with Water board methods has been manifested by some of the members, but the public has been left to learn what it could from the "public sessions" of the board and personalities were thrashed out in the numerous secret sessions the board has held.

Drainage Congress to Meet at St. Louis Two Days Next Week

The third annual convention of the National Drainage congress, of which David R. Francis of Missouri is president, is called to meet in St. Louis April 10-12, and a large attendance is promised. President Wilson was expected to be in attendance, but he has wired Mr. Francis that he will be unable to be present. However, he suggests to Mr. Francis that on account of the floods in the Ohio and Mississippi river valleys there is a great necessity for some action looking to the control of the storm waters that sweep down the streams in the interior.

Local offices of the Missouri Pacific are in receipt of information indicating that the attendance at the St. Louis meeting will be very large. The drainage congress is made up of the president and his cabinet, members of congress, governors of states, mayors of all cities of 1,000 population or more.

As delegates each governor is authorized to name fifteen, each mayor of each city over 5,000 population ten, each mayor of each town of 5,000 and less than 1,000 five, each board of county commissioners five, each commercial club two, each college and organization devoted to drainage, irrigation or other reclamation work, agriculture, horticulture or engineering, two.

HE RETURNS FOR THE MULE, BUT IT IS GONE

"Half a loaf is better than none," was the decision reached by the gardener who applied at relief station No. 4 some days ago for a horse with which he desired to continue his truck farming. But he reached the station too late. The half loaf was gone. Station No. 4 had no horse when he applied, naturally. Horses were not coming in promiscuously with canned goods and underwear. Then at relief station No. 5 some kind-hearted fellow offered a mule to anyone who could use him. Mr. No. 4 gardener was referred to the place. No, he didn't want a mule. He wanted a horse. He had never driven a mule and he did not propose to cuss out the rest of the summer's existence behind the clipped tail of a willful mule. Days drifted on and spring began to make him itch for his garden work. He decided to hustle right out and get that mule after all. But the stall was empty. Another gardener in the rear neighborhood, less particular in a time of distress, had accepted the mule and was tearing up the soil without cussing.
