

BUTTER AND SUGAR CHEAPER

Creamery Butter Dropped Three Cents a Pound.

VEGETABLES ARE NOW SCARCE

Blocked Railroad Traffic Delays the Shipments from South—But One Car of Tomatoes Arrives During Week.

Sugar has declined 10 cents in the last few days and probably will go lower. The retail price is not yet affected, but will be if present indications of lower figures obtain another week.

The reason for the reduction is given as the threatened free sugar in the tariff schedules. The market is filled with sugar, grocers say, and an effort will be made to reduce the supply before the raw product begins coming into the country free of duty.

Butter has declined 1 cent a pound in the last few days, the best grades of the creamery product now selling for 25 cents a pound.

Vegetables are scarce on the local market because of the impediment to transportation by floods between Omaha and the producing section of the country. Washout at Cairo, Ill., caused shipments to be sent back to St. Louis, and from there on a roundabout course to Omaha, according to Al King, manager of the grocery department. The shipments at this season are from Louisiana and southern states.

Only one car of ripe tomatoes has been received in Omaha lately and that one was sold within half a day. The few tomatoes that are available are selling for 10 cents a pound.

Spinach is 15 cents a peck. New potatoes are 7 1/2 cents a pound. Beets, carrots, turnips, radishes and green onions are selling at 4 cents a bunch.

Cheese has declined in price. The grades that sold for 12 cents a pound two weeks ago are now at 10 cents. Oranges and lemons are still very scarce and grape fruit has advanced 50 cents a box in the last few days.

Tornado Enables Holcomb to Get House

The tornado made it possible for H. M. Holcomb, general freight agent of the Burlington, to secure a residence in Omaha. Ever since his appointment last January he has been trying to secure a home, but had been unable to find anything suitable.

LITTLE GIRL BREAKS DOWN WHILE ON WITNESS STAND

Margaret McCarthy, aged 11, who was put on the witness stand to testify in the divorce suit which her mother, Mrs. Mary Lomenaga McCarthy, is prosecuting against her father, broke into sobs and was excused through intercession of Judge Kennedy.

"Papa was angry at mamma," she began, and buried her head in her arms. Tears came to her father's eyes. He testified that he still had affection for his wife.

Other children have appeared as witnesses in behalf of their mother. Their father, Michael McCarthy, said he had practically no control over them, but that his wife and her sister took complete charge of them.

Property interests in the home at Twenty-fourth and Fort streets, eighty acres of land in Washington county and other holdings, now in the name of the wife, are at stake. It was at the home of Mrs. McCarthy that her father, Dennis Lomenaga, one of the early settlers in the county, died.

A large number of witnesses have testified in the case. Mr. McCarthy denied assertions that he drank to excess; he admitted that he talked roughly to his wife when angered, but said her language was similar to his. She denied this.

LOCAL COLORED PEOPLE SUBSCRIBE TO RELIEF FUND

The local Negro Business League of Omaha, No. 124, is soliciting funds for the aid of tornado sufferers and have turned over $107.50 to the general relief fund. The financial committee consists of G. W. Obee, Thomas Adams and Dr. L. E. Britt. E. W. Pryor is president of the club and H. W. Black secretary.

Table listing names and amounts contributed to the relief fund, including G. W. Obee ($10.00), Thomas Adams ($10.00), and others.

BUZZINGS

In an interview in a Washington paper on the Omaha tornado, Judge W. D. McHugh gives Sam Zlotky a great boost for signaling the signal color to the scene of destruction.

Lewis B. Reed, back from a several years' sojourn abroad, comparing Omaha with European cities, thinks our efforts should be to build more compactly and avoid spreading over too much ground.

Tom Wilson is the oldest court reporter in continuous service here and next to him is W. S. Heller, although C. C. Valentine is also an old-timer.

Charles Metz, to date the record donor to the tornado restorations fund, has been at Bellevue where the family moved to Omaha.

Superintendent of Schools Graff came to Omaha from Rockford, Ill., where he was principal of the high school.

Simeral Wants Pay for Overcoat Taken from Relief Station

If you were donating your services to the citizens' relief committee and doing all you could to alleviate the sufferings of tornado victims, would you feel peeved if some bloke blew along on a cold day and swiped your overcoat?

Simeral was working at Thirty-third and Cuming streets and he was working hard. It was not a warm day but he worked so hard he found it convenient to discard a valuable new overcoat. He threw it aside and kept on working. He dispensed many garments and provided the sufferers with food.

When he had finished his work Simeral felt the chill in the air and turned to the other side of the counter to get his overcoat. That garment was gone. It couldn't be found anywhere.

"Perhaps you gave it away," suggested a bystander. Simeral resented the insinuation. Perhaps it was because somebody laughed that Simeral feels he ought to be reimbursed, but certain it is that he is under the impression that charity did not extend to that new overcoat.

Now the relief committee is in a quandary. Acting Mayor Dan Butler was made a committee of one to search through the relief committee's stores, but he reported his mission a failure.

Finds Hubby Singing Itchy Koo to Chicks

When Mrs. Dick Kimball, 619 North Seventeenth street, went to visit relatives in Iowa, it was with considerable gusto that her other half sang: "My frau's gone to the country, oh, goodie! oh, goodie!" to his friends.

Alarming reports of his doings reached Mrs. Dick, and she hastened home. When she opened the front door Thursday night and entered suddenly, she found her husband in the possession of two prepossessing young damsels, and her husband singing "Itchy Koo" to them. Without letting the hilarious trio know they were discovered, she notified police headquarters and had all arrested. The two young women gave as their names Mrs. Ossie Carter and Mrs. Blanche Walton. They secured their release when they furnished a cash bond of $50 each, but Kimball, at the request of his spouse, remained in jail all night.

SPRINKLING SYSTEM PUTS OUT EARLY MORNING FIRE

A fire was discovered yesterday morning in the stock room of the Bemis Bag company, Eleventh and Jackson streets, but before the fire department could get to the scene the automatic sprinkling system was in action and had the blaze practically under control. The building was slightly damaged, while the stock in the room, which is on the fourth floor, suffered considerably.

The Missing Tooth

In the evolution of sanitation of the mouth to "Oral Hygiene" there has been no greater discovery than that made by Dr. G. W. Todd, in his giving to the world sanitary, porcelain, whole teeth. As Darwin added to Lamarckism by his clearer exposition and greater demonstration, Dr. Todd has added to dentistry the great link in "Oral Hygiene." Studying the great problem of life, the importance of the mouth, the teeth, the food and its assimilation, he was forced to this conclusion—sanitation of the mouth. But this he found was impossible with unclean, unsanitary teeth. How were we to get sanitary teeth? Dentistry had no such thing. When he sought to solve the problem he found that the porcelain, whole (not half) tooth was the thing needed. So today we have the perfect dentistry, whole tooth. Bridgework. Call at Dr. Todd's office, 403 Brandeis Bldg., and let him show you the most perfect up-to-date dentistry now known to the dental world.
