GREAT DAMAGE BY STORM

High Wind Threw Tall Elevator Out of Plumb.

Rains Ever Recorded Fill Valleys in Central Part of Pottawattamie County and Will Cause Heavy Loss. It was discovered yesterday morning that the most serious damage inflicted by the storm that passed over Council Bluffs Wednesday evening was suffered by the Trans-Mississippi elevator, 1,200,000-bushel structure, filled to capacity with grain. The wind forced the huge structure out of plumb, and it now has a decided list to the east. The Smaha Elevator company's building, almost as large, lost a part of its roof. but was not otherwise damaged.

There was a terrific hallstorm and cloudburst through the central northeast section of Pottawattomie county, Hail of large size fell over a large area, and in the vicinity of Macedonia, Underwood and as far west as McClelland, beat the growing crops into the earth, culminating in the most terrific rainfurther along its track that has been recorded in twenty years.

The deluge sent a terrific flood down creek. Yesterday noon the stream at Underwood, Ia., was a mile wide, and a large section of the Rock Island main line was washed out, tying up all of the trains for the day. The trains got in from the east before the flood arrived, but before 10:30 the track was out and all trains were annulied.

The Milwaukee and Illinois Central fared as badly, and the Burlington and Northwestern were the only Chleago runk lines able to get trains through. Fifteen trains, many of them belonging to other lines, left the Northwestern station as closely together as they could be run. The Nighnabotna river is the highest drainage ditches had the hest opportu-nity to show their value Frior to open question. Wednesday night's deluge the ditches performed admirable service.
