OMAHA, May E, 1913.

Raino in sections of the southwest overbalanced all sizes in the whoat market yesterday and caused prices to drop about 14c. There were mututerings of deterioration in the southern part of Kansas and northern counties of Ukiahoma. One message from a representative of a Chicago house said there were three opunties in Kansas where conditions on May I were at 30 per cent, which are now not over 39 per cent. There were other soattered reports which, however, were not as highly colored as the foregoing, and all the unfavorable reports and the bears made the most of the conditions of put out additional short lines, possibly with one desire—to cover their outstanding contracts at as low a figure and as good a profit as possible. According to advices received from the sale and the cash trade at Chicago was abnormally slow at only 30,000 bushals to interior millers.

Those who are not anxious to take in a round lot of wheat and pay for it were cautious about making large commitments on the buying side of the May future, as that month sold to a lower level. The fact that the Chicago houses are preparing to bring down more Duith wheat and that increased purchases will likely be made if prices are advanced any higher in Chicago above that the May option cannot be manipulated unless much later in the month.

There were complaints from western Camada of continued cold, dry westher. It will be necessary to have made to order to mature the wheat in western Camada before the strives of frost which has been known to make its appearance as early as the letter part of August-Canh wheat, $4294 higher. OMAHA, May 21, 1913.

Canada before the arrival of frost, which has been known to make its appearance as early as the later part of August. Cash wheat, $67% higher.

There was considerable uneasiness in the ranks of corn shorts yesterday because of wet weather throughout the state of lows, coupled with many reports from Nebraska, of much needed sunshine in order to finish up the seeding of the yellow cereal. Cash corn was unchanged yellow cereal. Cash corn was unchanged to 1/4c up. Oats suffered slight recessions yesterday, the market failing to manitain the top points, which were a little higher than the closings of Monday. Cash oats local trade was more or less of a drag. During the early rounds buyers picked up a few loads of the best hogs in the yards at figures that locked to be just about steady with Tuesday's average, but after the first few sales had been made, values slumped off, and from then on the market was just about a nickel lower. As soon as bids began to weaken the trade came to a standstill and practically nothing was done for nearly an hour. It finally beame apparent, however, that ouyers were determined to purchase their droves at lower prices or not buy st all, and when the balance of the offerings were soid it was at figures that were about 5c lower. The movement was slow at all times, but owing to the small proportions of the supply everything had been sold in fair season.

Towards the close the trade weakened still more, some salesmen being of the opinion that values were as much as ignite lower at this time.
