

The Society Bee-Hive

By MELLIFUGIA. Tuesday June 3, 1913.

THE golden anniversary of Brownell Hall, which will be celebrated next June at the school, was the popular subject under discussion at the annual alumnae luncheon and business meeting held Saturday at Happy Hollow. The interest in the success of the celebration was equally as great with the members of the earlier classes as that shown by the young women who have recently attended Brownell Hall.

Mrs. John Towle was elected president and appointed Mrs. Philip Potter and Mrs. Theodore Ringwalt to assist her. The executive committee, which includes Mrs. George C. Smith, Mrs. S. D. Barkalow and Mrs. Frederick H. Davis, is planning a most interesting program for the occasion.

Miss Violet Joslyn was elected secretary and Mrs. Denise Barkalow treasurer.

It was decided that a Brownell Hall league be formed, the membership to include all young women who had ever attended the Hall. The junior school was another subject which received much attention.

It is the hope and wish of not only the alumnae, but of the trustees, that the school for the younger pupils be located on West Farnam street, somewhere between Thirty-third and Fortieth streets. Many of the alumnae have their homes in this district, and such a location would be more convenient to children in that neighborhood.

Keogh-Rogers Wedding.
The wedding of Miss Mary Alice Rogers, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Rogers, to Frank E. Keogh, was celebrated Tuesday at high noon at St. Cecilia's church, Rev. D. P. Harrington officiating.

Palms, ferns and white peonies decorated the church. The Lohengrin Bridal Chorus, for the entrance of the wedding party, was played by Colonel Koelke and after the ceremony the Mendelssohn Wedding March.

Miss Elizabeth Congdon was bridesmaid. She wore white Georgette crepe draped over green satin. Green tulle formed a pointed overdrapery for the front panel, ending with a tulle bow, fastened with a pearl buckle. A coat of hand run lace with wide girde of green satin completed the costume.

Miss Mildred Rogers was maid of honor and was gowned in allover shadow lace over white chiffon, draped with green chiffon, the green forming one side of the bodice. Narrow pleatings of tulle formed the trimmings.

Mrs. Louis Charles Nash, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was gowned in white satin draped with white chiffon, while over the chiffon white hand run lace formed a draped skirt and coat. Around the center of the skirt was a wide green satin band and the lace was caught over the band with pearl buckles. A wide girde of green satin was also caught with pearl buckles.

Each of the bride's attendants wore white lingerie hats of lace and tulle trimmed with green satin ribbon bows. They carried shower bouquets of pink sweet peas. The bride's gifts were green and white enamel bar pins set with pearls.

The bride walked alone and was charming in her wedding gown of Alencon lace over white satin. The lace was draped on the skirt with pearl ornaments and the satin formed the square court train. The bodice was elaborately embroidered in pearls and white tulle. The long tulle veil was held in place with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. The groom's gift was a diamond pendant set in platinum.

Paul Gallagher served as best man and the ushers were Louis C. Nash and Benjamin Gallagher. Edwin T. Swoboda was master of ceremonies and the ribbons were stretched by E. B. Westbrook and Edward Creighton.

After the ceremony Mrs. T. J. Rogers entertained at a wedding breakfast at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nash on North Thirty-eighth street. This was the first social affair given at this attractive new residence which was completed last month. The breakfast room was arranged for the wedding party and was decorated with a profusion of white sweet peas and ferns. Nell Rose sweetness brightened the dining room and pink and white sweet peas were used in the living room and sun parlor. Punch was served in the library and dark red peonies were used in this room.
