The salesmen, however, and killer buyers were finally forced to raise their bands, bids going back to their early level, and in some instances getting even better than the prices quoted during the first rounds. It was at this time that the bulk of the supply began to move, prices paid being generally 5610c lower. Towards the close the movement was fairly active and everything had been sold by 10.30 in spite of the early slowness. Bulk of the sales landed at $5.400.855, with the long string at $5.50. Tops reached $5.50, just a nickel lower than Baturday's highest price.

activity on the market this morning and a good part of the forenoon was well spent before many transactions of consequence took place. While some of the best offerings moved in fairly good season the bulk of the holdings was rather slow in changing hands, the inactivity being attributed to a very fair rue of slow in changing hands, the inactivity being attributed to a very fair run on hand for a Monday, bearish advices from outside points and to the supply, as a whole, lacking in quality. The demand was not quite as good as at the close of last week and when a clearance was finally made values were anywhere from weak to 10520c lower.
