WONDERS ARE WORKED OUT

Missouri Pacific is Rebuilt and Becomes Ideal Road of Country.

NEW ROLLING STOCK BOUGHT

Lines Tap Sections Where Tourists and the Tired Man May Find Rest Close to Nature.

Of all the railroads operating in and out of Omaha, the Missouri Pacific leads in improvements and betterments made during the last two years. Two years ago, when President Bush took charge of the property, he found it in something of a run-down condition, and after making a trip over the lines, sent out an order to make it the best road in the west.

Within sixty days President Bush had thousands of men at work and inside of two years he practically rebuilt the main line and is doing the same thing on the branches in Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

Probably the greatest changes noted on the Missouri Pacific are on that portion of the system between Omaha and Kansas City. This section of the road is under the direct supervision of Superintendent D'Bernard, the greatest of western railroad builders, and one of President Bush's most trusted lieutenants. When it was decided to rebuild the Omaha-Kansas City line, Superintendent D'Bernard was called to headquarters for consultation. Before him President Bush laid the general plans and told him to work out the details, remarking: "I shall hold you responsible for the Omaha-Kansas City line and shall expect you to put it in first class condition. You do the work and the pay will be forthcoming."

Starts on the Work. Taking this as his clue, Superintendent D'Bernard went to work and inside one year he worked wonders, but it took him six months longer to accomplish what he wanted. Then on a special train, he brought President Bush, Vice President Johnson, General Traffic Manager Hendricks and a number of the other officials over the line, giving them a daylight ride from Kansas City. Arriving in Omaha, they were loud in the praise of Superintendent D'Bernard and what he had accomplished.

To do the work turned over to him required the expenditure of close to $1,000,000 by Superintendent D'Bernard, but the officials all agreed that it was money well invested, for it increased the business of the road, both freight and passenger, more than 25 per cent within a year.

Since the Missouri Pacific has commenced improving its system, on the Omaha-Kansas City line, it has cut out almost ten miles between the two terminals by eliminating curves and crooks, it has reduced grades and filled hollows, retold the track with the heaviest steel in use anywhere in this country, taken up all the old ties and replaced them with new and heavier ones, rebuilt or strengthened the bridges and ballasted the track with broken stone from one end to the other.

Service is Unexcelled. Improvements, however, did not stop with rebuilding the roadbed, for as soon as this was completed, attention was given to train service and this has been continued until today the Missouri Pacific is running the finest equipment in the country, its through trains being designated by experienced travelers as the best in the country. The coaches are all steel and new, broader than the old ones and higher, too. Thus they are cool and airy and light. With the track in perfect condition, to a traveler riding in one of these coaches there is no feeling of home comfort seldom found except in the parlor of some magnificent home.

All cars on the Missouri Pacific are electric lighted and cooled with purified air and are as clean as the home of the most exacting housewife, being gone over at the end of each run with a vacuum cleaner and every particle of dust removed.

Possibilities of Typhoid Numerous on Vacation Trips

Health Commissioner R. W. Connell has issued a word of warning to Omahans who will spend vacations in different states, drinking water from mountain streams or living in environments in strong contrast with conditions at home. He advises them all to see their physicians and take immunizing doses of typhoid bacterin.

"This applies especially to those who will camp out," said Dr. Connell. "They will probably spend their vacation on some living where typhoid bacilli are as living and therefore are exposed to the disease. They cannot be too careful." The State Board of Health has sent the health departments of the cities of the state a brilliant poster declaring that "greater than all safeguards of war or peace" is the necessity of being vaccinated with typhoid vaccine.

St. Patrick's School Exercises Monday

Monday evening the closing exercises of St. Patrick's school were held in the parish hall, which was tastefully decorated in blue and white, the class colors, where a short but very interesting program was given, which elicited the admiration and praise of the large audience assembled to greet the class of '13, and show their hearty appreciation of the hard work during the school term and their successful completion of the eighth grade course.

Literature of All Kinds for Tourists Planning Excursions

"Colorado and Utah" is a Burlington leaflet illustrating and describing the various resorts and scenic recreation sections of Colorado. It enumerates many attractive jaunts through the Rocky mountains of Colorado, called "Nature's Repair Shop."

Yellowstone Park folders describe the various tours through the park. One describes the Cody ranch through the east and scenic entrance; another the Froot & Richard personally conducted tours through the park; another the park trip from Gardiner, and another describes the "Wylie Way" through the park. "Pacific Coast Tours" is a folder which describes the various routes in each direction, which can be put together to form a comprehensive circuit tour of the Pacific coast.

"California Excursions" describes the popular personally conducted California tours. "Colorado-Yellowstone Tours" is a leaflet describing tours that embrace both scenic Colorado and Yellowstone park, which are called "Rocky Mountain Summer Vacation Tours."

"Summer Tourist Fares" is a leaflet describing rates and summer arrangements to all the different tour destinations in the west. "Eastern Tours" is a leaflet that describes the 1913 scheme of variable route tours from the west to points along the Atlantic seacoast.

Summer Outings in the Big Horn Mountains describes the attractive ranches reached by way of Sheridan and Ranchester. There are hundreds of eastern people from Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and other cities, and young people connected with very wealthy families in the east, who are making this region as popular as the Adirondacks. They visit ranches where they have the unlimited use of their own saddle horses through the summer.

Two Beauty Suggestions for Summer Months

(The Beauty Doctor) Instead of pore-clogging powders, creams and rouges, make up at home and keep on your dresser for frequent use this simple lotion: Dissolve four ounces of sorumax in 4 pint water (for hot water), add two teaspoonfuls glycerine and allow to cool. Clear, gray-colored, velvety skin with the exquisite tint of youthful health results from its regular application, while pimples, freckles, tan and sunburn give no further trouble.

Quickly, yet gently, remove every particle of dust, dandruff and excess oil from the hair and leave it evenly dried, soft, glossy and easy to do up by a can-spray shampoo. It will stimulate the roots, thus resulting in exceptional growth of heavy hair. To make this exquisite and economical shampoo, just dissolve a teaspoonful of canthox in a teacupful of hot water.—Advertisement.
