NEW WAR CLOUD IN BALKANS

Bulgars Ready to Attack Greeks and Serbs in Macedonia.

RIVER BETWEEN FORMER ALLIES
King Ferdinand's Troops Occupy the Left Bank of Vardar and Others Hold Strong Positions on Opposite Side.

VIENNA, June 21.—An attack by the Bulgarian troops on the Serbians and Greeks is expected on the River Vardar in Macedonia, according to Austrian newspapers.

The co-operation of the Greek and Serbian armies has been accomplished. The Serbians are concentrating in fortified positions on the right bank of the river.

Three brigades of Montenegrin infantry are advancing through Macedonia to join the Serbian troops at the front. The Vardar river runs through Macedonia to the gulf of Saloniki. The Bulgarians occupy the country along the left bank, while the Serbians and Greeks hold the positions from the opposite side.

Interpellation Aimed at Britons.
An interpellation was introduced in parliament today asking about health conditions in Scutari.

The attack was aimed at Vice Admiral Cecil Burney of the British navy, who as senior officer of the international fleet which blockaded the Montenegrin coast during the Balkan war, commands the international force occupying Scutari.

HARVEST IS GREAT; LABORERS ARE FEW, FARMERS ALL HAPPY

est dealer in the world in binding twine, states that his company is selling and will sell binding twine at 9c cents per pound, the price fixed last spring. To be fair with the country dealers and the trade, he says this is the price that should be maintained during the season.

Binding Twine Mills Burn.
As to the report of a twine shortage, Mr. Pilant says he is not looking for anything serious, though no surplus stock will be carried over. The shortage, according to Mr. Pilant, is due to a number of causes, first of which is that the surplus stock from last year was unusually light. Another reason is that during the last year four of the large binding twine mills of the country have been destroyed by fire. Then came the floods in the east, putting some of the mills out of business and this was followed by strikes in others.

There are still large quantities of twine in stock in Omaha, but it is being handled in a manner to get the best results. The houses keep in close touch with the country dealers and ascertain just the quantity of twine that will be needed. This is sent, and no more. In localities where twine has already been sent, if it is found that the grain crop is short, as in Oklahoma and southern Kansas, the surplus is routed immediately to points where the demand is heavy. By pursuing this course, Mr. Pilant is of the opinion that there will be no shortage in Omaha territory.

The fiber from which binding twine is made is all grown in Yucatan and Mexico and the price of the raw material is practically controlled by the governments of those countries. It is raised by farmers and planters and when gathered, goes into government warehouses, government agents fixing the price of purchase and sale. The producer is given a warehouse receipt for his crop and can draw against the storage in practically any manner as a stockmaster draws against his wool stored in the Omaha wool warehouse.

the defendants without notice to me. "I seem unable to convey to the department the understanding of the serious situation in which this action will leave this office. If the department in future has to review the finding of grand juries and nullify their indictments, then this office might as well be abolished for its functions will have ceased to exist."

"Neither my sense of honor nor public duty can permit me thus to destroy the prestige of this office."

"With profound respect and regret that such a step is necessary, I have the honor in view of my absolute inability to agree with the department, to ask that I be by wire immediately relieved from duty in order that the Department of Justice may be permitted to carry out its policy in these cases without further obstruction by me."

that the car was so crowded that he was unable to secure a seat inside and consequently was forced to stand on the platform.

In affidavits in support of the claims of Quimby, Eastwood and wife, who were also passengers on the train, sworn that all of the seats were occupied and that there was no room inside of any of the cars.

Tuesday, when the Burlington attorneys moved for a dismissal, they told the court that they had affidavits from the Eastwoods, in which they contradicted their former testimony.

Nature of Testimony.
In the affidavits produced by the railroad attorneys the Eastwoods swear that the train was not crowded and that there were plenty of seats inside the cars. They further say that they were told that if they would be witnesses for Quimby and against the railroad, they would be well paid; that they had asked Quimby for money and that he had failed to settle; that Quimby asked Eastwood to be his witness and that the latter replied that it would cost him (Quimby) $500.

Mike Harrington, attorney for the Quimbys, says in talking with Eastwood, he told the same story that he is alleged to have originally told, to the effect that the cars were crowded and that there was no room inside them. Immediately after the dismissal of the suit, another for $54,000 was started by Quimby's attorneys against the Burlington. Eastwood, the witness was placed under arrest and taken to jail. Judge Dickinson ordered that the county attorney file an information, charging him with perjury.
