Another Election Ordered in County Seat Contest

UPLAND, Neb., June 21.—(Special.)—Franklin won another inning in the long-drawn-out county seat fight today, when Judge Dungan decided in his favor in district court at Bloomington. About two years ago Franklin had a big petition signed asking for an election on the removal of the county seat from Bloomington. At the election Franklin secured the most votes, Macon was second and Bloomington was third.

Franklin contended that another election should be held with these three towns as the only candidates. The county board refused to call an election. The district court backed them up. The supreme court said the law was indefinite and sent the case back.

Bloomington then presented a petition to the county board signed by some 600 voters, asking to have their names removed from the original petition, thus invalidating the first election. The board refused to do this and it was again carried to the district court, which referred it to a referee from Red Cloud, who decided in favor of Bloomington.

Franklin then got out another petition and had 200 of the 600 signers on the second petition ask to have their names removed from it. With this, they went into district court yesterday and this evening Judge Dungan decided in favor of Franklin and ordered a second election to be held.

Unless some court order can be obtained to stop the board from holding such an election, it is supposed that the second county seat election in Franklin county will be held this summer.

It is claimed that a third election between the two highest in the second will have to be delayed until the next general election.

MADE TO ORDER TOOTH ROOT

New System of Replacing Decayed Teeth Will Make Them Last Forever.

An operation said by the author to be "as audacious and revolutionary in dentistry as were the discovery and use of wireless telegraphy, radium and X-rays in their peculiar fields of science."

Dr. Greenfield implants teeth upon artificial roots of iridio-platinum, which, he says, are practically permanent. The bony tissue of the jaw unites in and around the structure of the metal root so that his artificial teeth rest on what is virtually a foundation of re-enforced bone, the re-enforcement consisting, just as in the case of concrete, of a metal skeleton imbedded in the bony mass of the jaw. The invention was due to the unsatisfactory results of the implantation of natural teeth, the implanted natural root usually absorbing in a few years. The metallic substitute was suggested by the use of silver wire sutures by surgeons to reduce fractures. He says:

"This new process of implantation is no less than the making of a few circular incisions in the jawbone, inserting properly prepared artificial roots of iridio-platinum, and mounting on such a base or anchorage, to which can be attached a full set of permanent, natural-appearing teeth, capable of rendering as good and efficient service as those endowed by nature at her best."

"Perhaps the greatest convenience to dentists in this new process is the fact that the splint is unnecessary. For filling the vacancy caused by the loss of a single tooth, what better method could be employed? No splint will be needed, and the adjacent teeth will not have to be mutilated in order to serve as anchorages or abutments; the artificial root eliminating all that. Besides, the mechanical phase of this wonderful process is so utterly simple that it will be readily understood, and proficiency in its use will be quickly acquired by all who desire to use it."

"The artificial root used for this process is a hollow, latticed cylinder of iridio-platinum, No. 24 gauge, soldered with twenty-four carat gold. It is impervious to acids, and does not injure the tissue which grows about it. The disk-shaped cast base with groove or slot, in which the crown attachment is inserted, is made of twenty-two-carat gold, and is soldered to the metal frame of the root."

"Special machinery is necessary for cutting and shaping these roots. Absolute accuracy is essential, for the artificial root must fit exactly the circular incision or socket made for it in the jawbone of the patient."

"In the course of a week or ten days after operating, sensitiveness has largely abated, and in six weeks time—rarely longer—the bony tissues of the jaw have united through the latticed root-structure, and a positive anchorage is provided for the attachment of the artificial denture."

"By means of the bony core which the trephine produces in making the incision or root-socket, the artificial root, after being placed in position, will be held firmly until a sufficient deposit of bone cells has filled the spaces in the root-frame. Thus the artificial root becomes solidly imbedded in the jaw."

"This bony center of the root-socket is one of the chief factors in the success of this process of implantation. It assures the fit of the artificial root in the socket, trephined for it, and an absolutely accurate and certain fit is decidedly essential to permanence and endurance."—Dental Cosmos.

Not on the Track.

They were talking about the thousand and one questions that the poor old railroad conductors have to answer a hundred times a day, when Senator James A. Reed of Missouri told of an incident that happened on a railway in the middle west.

One afternoon, according to the senator, a local train stopped with great celerity, and instantly every window was thrown open to accommodate a protruding head.

"What's the matter, conductor?" quizzed an excited passenger, "Why did we stop so suddenly? What are all those people looking for?"

"Nothing very serious," answered the accommodating conductor, "we just hit a cat."

"Hit a cat?" exclaimed the nervous one, "you don't really mean it! Was the cat on the track?"

"Oh no, sir," was the merry rejoinder of the conductor, "the locomotive chased him up an alley."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Here's a good motto for married men. "Be sure you're right, then ask your wife."

A woman seldom knows what she wants unless she discovers that she can't get it.

With riches some men imagine that they can glide a lot of vices until they look like a virgin.

The difference between the average young woman and a suffragette is general, that is, she has twenty years.

When a small boy overhears the doctor telling his mother to take plenty of exercise, that's his cue to be good.

After a woman has spent twenty years trying to make a man of her son, along comes another woman who proceeds to make a fool of him in twenty minutes.—Chicago News.

THE OLD-WAY Century Way

In the year 1616 Prof. Harvey discovered the circulation of the blood. In the 17th century Dr. Todd discovered that the blood was being carried to the teeth for deadly germs to accumulate, only to be carried into the system, poisoning the blood as well as giving disease to the body. Dr. Todd felt that this condition must be overcome and set to work solving the problem. Today his full sanitary teeth are recognized as the solution of this former had condition. With his sanitary teeth you do not need partial plates and comfort and a clean mouth have been the improvement over the old methods. Dr. Todd will gladly show you the advantage of the new over the old.
