Omaha Autoists to Work With Owners of Cars from Iowa

George W. Loomis, assistant general manager of the Burlington railroad, was greatly peeved a few days ago when a farmer near Honey Creek, Ia., turned the hose on him and his family as they passed in an automobile. Loomis found another autoist who had received the same treatment at the hand of the playful farmer and decided that the nuisance was greater than a personal matter.

He reported the affair, therefore, to the Omaha Automobile club and the club in turn has taken the question up with the authorities of Pottawattamie county to see if something can't be done to take the spirit out of the practical joker. The automobile club directors discussed the situation at a meeting at the Commercial club Wednesday noon.

They also decided to combine with the Commercial club and Automobile club of Council Bluffs to get the street railway company to fix up the Douglas street bridge, which they say is in bad repair for motoring.

It was reported at the meeting that sixty-five signs had been placed on posts between Omaha and the Dodge county line, marking that portion of the transcontinental highway.

Letters are going to be sent to members of the club urging them to assist in enforcing the traffic laws, by reporting speeders to the club and the city authorities as well as other violators of traffic rules.

MARRIED BECAUSE THEY SAY THEY NEEDED EACH OTHER

Valentine F. Warren, aged 36, a widower, who married Miss Pearl N. Howell of Albia, Ia., aged 25, Tuesday, said yesterday there was no romance about the marriage; that he needed help in his rooming house, 1158 North Sixteenth street, and that the young woman needed a home, so they decided to become husband and wife.

"She is a good girl and I knew it," said Warren, "and she thinks that she got a good man, and I am going to do my best to keep her thinking that way." The couple was married by Justice Leeder.

SELLING OUT OLD WHEAT

Omaha Grain Dealers Getting Ready for This Year's Crop.

ARE AFTER NEBRASKA GRAIN

Superior Quality of the Yield is Leading Eastern Millers to Take Entire Harvest for Grading Purposes.

With the new wheat crop almost ready for market, there is a hustling effort among the Omaha grain dealers to get the old stock out of the elevators before July 1.

Last year some old wheat was held over and sold on September delivery, but indications now are that when July rolls around the stocks in the Omaha elevators will be cleaned out. As a result of this activity, there is a little shortage of grain cars, but the supply is about equal to the demand and during the balance of the week the eastern movement will be heavy.

Anticipating an immense crop of new wheat, which will begin to arrive the last of next week, grain men have commenced to place orders for cars. Already the Rock Island has orders for 150 cars for July and several of the other Omaha-Chicago roads have commenced taking orders.

At this time everything in the way of grain is moving toward Minneapolis and Chicago, the wheat going there for milling purposes. It is not thought that the southern movement for the gulf ports will be as heavy this year as last, though the roads running in that direction will make a strenuous effort to get the business.

Need Nebraska Wheat. The prospective movement of wheat to the south and thence for export is said to be due to the fact that the millers of the north and east are preparing to take the entire surplus from Nebraska, having realized that they must have it to grade the wheat of the other states to the point where their flour will be made merchantable.

Grain men say that while Nebraska wheat for September has not been quoted on the board, they anticipate that owing to the superior quality this year, it will sell higher than the old grain, but how much, they are unable to say. They add, however, that if prices are not fairly high, they will not be any large quantity offered, for the farmers of the state are so well off, as a rule, that this year they will not have to sell their products

Northwestern Agent Tells of Remarkable Crops in These Parts

Jake Gable, traveling agent of the Northwestern, is in from a trip of several days spent in Cass, Otes, Richardson, Nemaha, Johnson, Gage and Pawnee counties in the southeast corner of the state, and he tells a story of wonderful crops in this section.

"All through the counties I visited," said Mr. Gable, "farmers are in the midst of their wheat harvest and it has been years since there has been such a crop. The berry is plump and the heads are filled to the very tips. While threshing has not commenced, farmers are talking twenty-five bushels to the acre and there are many fields where a yield of twenty-eight and thirty is predicted. Oats are equally as good and corn is making a most remarkable growth."

"While the ground has been dry, none of the crops has suffered in the least and with the recent rains, corn and root crops are certain to yield beyond all expectation. It has been the best year that the farmers have ever experienced and land this fall will take another jump of from $10 to $15 per acre.

"The fruit crop is going to be a bumper. The counties through which I traveled constitute a portion of the best of the apple belt of the United States. This year the trees are loaded and as scientific methods have been adopted by the orchardists they are going to profit largely. I saw some orchards where the estimated yield is placed at 500 bushels per acre and in many instances I was told that the fruit on the trees would be contracted for at $1 per bushel."

No Substitute Could Do This. No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Neb., of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of my head, and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble. My father-in-law, now past 90 years, has taken them and they have added years to his life." OBJECTS TO MANNER OF DUN

J. C. Holt Kicks on Threats Being Made on Postal Card.

SAYS LETTER MIGHT BE USED

Does Not Like to Be "Bawled Out" by an Open Postal Card When His Water Bill is Already Paid.

A postal card dun from the Water board, received by J. C. Holt, 207 Manderson street, stating that his water rent was past due, has incensed Mr. Holt in view of the fact that the water rent was paid before he received the dun.

He admits that as the bill was paid and the receipt was given him the same day the dun was mailed it was possible that the error could have been made, but what he objects to is the sending of duns on postal cards, which, he contends, is an offense against the statutes of the United States. On June 23 Mr. Holt went to the Water board office and paid the bill some three days after he had received the same. The same day in the mail he got the dun reading:

"You are hereby notified that the water rent amounting to $1 is past due on your premises. Previous notice has brought no response and unless the bill is paid in twenty-four hours it will be assumed that payment is refused and the water will be turned off."

Mr. Holt holds that even if it were true, which it is not, that his water rent was past due, the Water board has no right to "bawl out" any man in that way on an open postal card.

CUT OUT THE RAW MILK

Medical Authority Holds a Warning Signal Against Bovine Toddy.

PASTEURIZED MILK IS ONLY SAFE MILK

In view of the fact that innumerable essays, discussions in medical and lay societies, monographs and other literature on the purification of milk have appeared during the last twenty years, it becomes matter for surprise if not concern to be informed by so reliable an authority as the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal in its last issue that epidemics of milk-borne diseases are on the increase. It is stated that 800 cases of scarlet fever and 1,000 cases of tonsillitis were reported in Boston three years ago, and that typhoid fever has visited that city and its environs five times in as many months, and two epidemics of dangerous sore throat in two years.

It is a matter of record that all these epidemics were traced to raw or imperfectly pasteurized milk, and that the diseases ceased or diminished when the Board of Health discovered this fact and safeguarded the milk supply by pasteurization. It was ascertained that inspection alone was ineffective, one inspector of large experience having stated that if every dairy farm were guarded by an inspector he would not guarantee safe milk. When Nathan Straus made a similar statement many years ago and pointed out that in officially guarded pasteurization alone lay security against milk-borne diseases, it was opposed by eminent authority. An intelligent layman penetrated a scientific problem and clearly saw its solution. His philanthropic insight directed him to demonstrate the truth by actual practice rather than to waste precious death-laden moments in discussion. As a result New York, Chicago and Washington insist upon certified milk or proper pasteurization. And the National Commission on Milk Standards has decreed that all milk must be subjected to a temperature of 16 degrees Fahrenheit for thirty minutes. There is no record of a disease being traced to milk that has been so exposed to this temperature. There are numerous records of epidemics being checked or removed by subjecting the milk supply to proper pasteurization. —New York Sun.
