Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. O. Stenle, Plainfield, N. J., writes: "For over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising booklets came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For sale by all druggists.—Advertisement.

GET-TOGETHER DINNER PROVES FINANCIAL SUCCESS

So successful was the Fairbanks "get-together" banquet, given to Charles W. Fairbanks, ex-vice president of the United States, that the committee on arrangements has announced that 50 per cent of the donations will be returned to the donors. Receipts from the tickets sold to the dollar banquet totaled $200 and donations for which twenty-one tickets were given increased this sum by $104. After the banquet and all expenses had been accounted for there was a balance of $90.40 in the fund. Sale of tickets alone nearly covered the expense of the banquet.

MODERN AUTHORS NOT KNOWN

Applicants for Teacher's Certificates Do Not Mention Any.

FEW VAGUELY REMEMBERED

Mark Twain, Jack London, Walt Whitman, Booth Tarkington and William Dean Howells Recalled Just as Writers.

William D. Howells, "dean of American literature," and the authors of the modern best sellers are not popular with the applicants for certificates to teach school in Omaha. That is, they are not as popular as "the old masters." A class of twenty applicants who took the examination in American literature didn't know William Dean Howells from J. Ham Lewis.

When the questions referred to the earlier writers, whose reputations were established on the voluminous works they turned out in the beginning of American literature, the teachers smeared ink all over their examination books in their hurry to answer. And they answered correctly.

Longfellow, Whittier, Bryant and Lowell were their favorites. They knew them from a to z. When it came to Jack London, William Dean Howells, Booth Tarkington, Mark Twain, Walt Whitman and Joaquin Miller the teachers believed they were Americans, but couldn't remember whether they had written anything or not.

"A Yank in King Arthur's Court" was attributed to Rudyard Kipling and Myrtle Reed was given credit for writing "The Fall of the House of Usher." Everybody knew who wrote "The Last of the Mohicans," but not an applicant could tell the name of the author of "The Lady of the Arroyo."

When it came to recommending reading for the young, the teachers showed familiarity with magazines, but when asked what to recommend for boys and girls to read, the answers went back to the beginning and modern writers were forgotten. The applicants were asked what books they had read in the last year. Not many had interested themselves in modern fiction.

Asks Opportunity to Defend the New Law for Loan Sharks

Representative Edward Simon, author of the loan shark bill that is giving some of the loan sharks considerable worry, has filed a request to appear in Judge Sutton's court as attorney for the people in the case in which some of the loan sharks are seeking to test the constitutionality of the bill.

Julie Althaus was tried in justice court under the new loan shark bill. He pleaded guilty and was fined $5. The case was appealed to the district court in an effort to test the constitutionality of the act. It is here that Simon expects to appear next week if he is granted permission by the judge.

Beautiful Dancer to Have Charge of Children's Playground at Evanston

Miss Lucy Bradford of Springfield, Ill., well known in Omaha, will be a director of a playground at Evanston, Ill., for the summer. For the last year Miss Bradford was instructor of dancing in the Isabel Lowden studio in Omaha and assisted with the benefit performance of "Sleeping Beauty" for the tornado relief fund. While here she made many friends and several affairs were given in her honor. In an interview with Miss Bradford in a Springfield paper, she says: "It is to be my aim to appeal to the children under my care, not only from the physical standpoint and that of muscular development, but primarily with a view of developing the inner child; giving them work that will direct them into the path of exercising their mental powers, as well as making them proficient in games and increasing their muscular strength. With this idea in view, I have mapped out a special course of work consisting of original exercises.

The playground at Evanston is equipped in a very similar manner to all playgrounds, but it is my plan to add to the usual course of work taught at such institutions new ideas, which will, I hope, accomplish my purpose.

"For instance, I intend to devote considerable time to pantomime and the Mennell technique. I have prepared several series of wordless plays in which I will have the children act the part of certain characters. With natural background, we will be able to present interesting exhibitions which will hold the attention of the children and tend to add to their interest in the work. In this pantomime, which I have not entirely worked out as yet, there will be included practically all the dances and games taught during the summer.

"It is not my purpose to forget the games, gymnastic work and play in which all children take so much interest. The children will be given a daily course of instruction in games and gymnastic

If one single advertisement in a newspaper paid, printing presses couldn't be made big enough to turn out the papers

One advertisement in itself is only a step up the stairway of success. Advertising does it work by repeating what you want known until everybody knows it, whether they want to or not. Upward progress in business can only be made by a continued climb.

People like to buy from firms they know. They have confidence in firms that make themselves known. They become familiar with stocks and store policies of stores into which they have never stepped.

The day comes when they want your goods and you have a customer. It was the continued advertising of months, or perhaps years that brought them in.

That's why a list like that reached by The Bee is so very valuable. Our subscribers read The Bee every day, year after year. Our advertisements can keep on talking to the same homes and make friends of people they never saw.

You can't do that with any kind of advertising except newspaper advertising. Furthermore, a paper that is delivered to the homes is the one that gives you a chance to talk each day to the same people and at last you have them as customers.

The Omaha Bee

gone every day to practically every one of your possible customers.

It's continuous advertising that pays
