CHANGE TO REGIMENTAL POST
Omaha and Crook Posts to Be Abandoned for Battalion Service.

MAJOR HARTMANN TO CHICAGO
Will Be Promoted to the Head of the Central Department of the United States Army Signal Corps.

Before the end of the present year, Fort Omaha will be abandoned as a signal corps and become an infantry post. The change means that Major Hartmann, in command at Fort Omaha at the present time, will be transferred to Chicago, where he will be at the head of the central department of the signal corps service. This is looked upon as a promotion of considerable importance.

Since the establishment of the signal corps arm of the military at Fort Omaha a large supply depot has been maintained there. This depot will be moved downtown, the location not having been determined. This accomplished, which will take perhaps three months or more, the men at the post will be sent to Fort Leavenworth.

Combine Regimental Posts.
With the vacation of Fort Omaha by the signal corps forces, the infantry will move in and it is said that the two forts here, Omaha and Crook, will become combined regimental, instead of battalion posts.

Major Hartmann is in receipt of the official order relative to his change in location and will commence moving the depot supplies as soon as a building downtown can be secured.

Having a host of warm friends in Omaha, Major Hartmann and Mrs. Hartmann regret very much being compelled to leave the city and locate elsewhere, but they take a philosophical view of the situation, remarking, "Such is army life."

Water Board Sues City of Florence on Hydrant Rental
The Omaha Water board has brought suit against the city of Florence to recover two items of $120 each for a year's rental for forty-five hydrants placed in Florence, for which the board alleges Florence, by an ordinance, agreed to pay $60 apiece for the year. The agreement was entered into with the old American Water company, and since Omaha owns the water plant the board alleges the hydrant rental has not been paid.

MOTHER'S PENSION ALLOWED
Judge English Grants to Deserted Mother Monthly Income.

FIRST UNDER NEW STATUTE
Case is Original One to Come Under the Regulations of State Law Granting Needy Mothers Financial Assistance.

Judge James P. English of the juvenile court made the first allowance under what is known as the "mother's pension" law. An allowance of $9 per month was made to Mrs. Martha Stedman, who has six minor children to support and whose husband deserted her two years ago. She lives in South Omaha. Her case came up for hearing last Saturday. The judge heard the evidence at that time but the law did not go into effect until Thursday.

The "mother's pension" is still greatly misunderstood by many who are seeking help. While the judge has made this one allowance, this does not represent the only application that has been received at the juvenile court headquarters. Dozens of women have called and asked for a pension, believing that they were to be pensioned simply because they have many children. They do not realize that the mother's pension law is simply a means of substituting the home for an orphanage in some cases of dependence where it is believed that the mother could, with a little help, give the children a good rearing and training. It is only in instances where mothers have no means of supporting their children and where she is found to be absolutely fit for their custody that the county allows a stipulation.

Many women with lots of property, money in the bank and a husband supporting the family have applied for a pension, believing that having lots of children was the one qualification that made them eligible to a pension.

JOHN SMITH TAKES DRINK WITH STRANGER, MONEY GONE
John Smith, Mobilis, Mo., says he met a very affable stranger at the Burlington passenger station Friday night, who invited him to have a drink. Smith accepted the invitation and after that everything became dark. When he came to he was minus $7 in currency. He reported the loss to the police and gave a good description of the friendly conspirator.

In Training.
"That's a great boy of mine."
"Yes?"
"He's hired 'all the tough youngsters in the neighborhood to stand around and call him abusive names."
"What's he planning to be—a stum missionary?"
"No. Either a lobbyist or an umpire."
