CAMP TO BE NEAR TOWN

Adjutant General Hall Locates it Near Waterloo.

CHANGES ORIGINAL PLAN

No Clemency Will Be Given James E. Kelley, Sent Up from Platte County on Charge of Murder.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, July 28.—(Special.)—Adjutant General Hall, after making an investigation of the camp grounds which had been located five miles south of Waterloo for the maneuvers of the Nebraska guard next month, has concluded to change the same and they will be located only a quarter of a mile from Waterloo, just north of the city where there is plenty of shade along the river and good fishing.

He came to the conclusion that after a three days' hike getting to the camp ground and participating in the maneuvers that the boys would better appreciate the camping if they did not have to make a walk of ten miles to and from town whenever they wanted to buy goods that were not kept in the regular bill of fare of camp life.

No Clemency for Kelley.

There will be no clemency given to James E. Kelley, who has applied to the pardon board for a pardon. Kelley was sent up from Platte county for having killed Anton Snowden at Creston in 1901 and was given twenty years in the penitentiary.

He makes his pleadings for a commutation of sentence or pardon on the grounds that he is 36 years of age, and not in good health, and that he has served sufficient time to pay for the crime. At the trial he steadfastly maintained that he was not guilty of the crime.

Money in Relief Fund.

According to a report made by Secretary Whitten of the Lincoln Commercial club there is $887.50 remaining in his hands subscribed to the fund for the relief of tornado sufferers last spring. There has been $1,047.75 disbursed of the $1,935.25 subscribed.

Pavement to Fair Gate.

Work is being pushed rapidly on the paving of Seventeenth street from the main street of the city to the fair grounds. The heavy rain of last night has softened the ground which was nearly as hard as iron, so that the work can be pushed much more rapidly this week. Laying of the brick paving will begin today at the fair ground entrance and some of the curbing already laid will be continued.

STATE FULL OF FLOWERS, DECLARES HENDERSON

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, July 28.—(Special.)—"Nebraska is full of flowers and beautiful things. We do not need to go to California, or any other state for climate. We have the beauties of nature right here in our own state."

Notes from Guide Rock.

GUIDE ROCK, Neb., July 28.—(Special.)—At a special meeting of the voters of the Guide Rock school district held Friday it was decided to hold an election to vote bonds for a new school building. Out of the forty-three prominent citizens present at the meeting forty voted in favor of a new building and only three against.

A deputy state game warden landed in town one day last week and pounced upon the fishermen who were taking advantage of the excellent fishing furnished by the low water. A number of men were brought into Justice Colvin's court and fined heavily. The heaviest fine, amounting to $50, was paid by a citizen of law-abiding tendencies who does not usually indulge in the sport. Shortly after the same warden had sold the fish captured to the local butcher, he, himself, was hauled into court and fined $10 for expostulating on the sidewalk.

Murphy Demands an Investigation

CHICAGO, July 28.—President C. W. Murphy of the Chicago Nationals, has asked for a special meeting of the national commission to consider charges that local gamblers receive inside information on the lineup of the Cubs. He wrote today to President Gary Herrmann of the commission, stating that an immediate investigation should be made.

"I don't understand how anyone connected with the team could be in league with the gamblers because I don't know who is going to pitch until the game is about to start," said Murphy. "But it is evident there is a leak somewhere."

BOY SCOUTS IS INJURED ON INITIAL EXPEDITION

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., July 28.—(Special.)—Harry Speck, while out with the Boy Scouts yesterday on a hike, swung on a grapevine, which pulled loose, precipitating him over a thirty-foot bank, with the result that his right shoulder was dislocated, and numerous other injuries compelled the other members of the hiking party to carry him home.

The Boy Scouts have but recently been organized here and a scout leader, Mr. McLafferty of Omaha, engaged. Among other things the boys found a grapevine which hung from a tree temptingly, and on this they swung.

When Harry Speck's turn came to swing he swung away out over the edge of a high bank, when the vine pulled loose. The boys, true to their training, stripped their shirts and with two poles improvised a stretcher on which they managed to carry their comrade, but the poles used for the sides of the stretcher were so close together that they could not carry him on it. Mr. McLafferty carried the injured boy most of the way to town, which was two miles.

Art is Related to Business of Today

That art of today bears an intimate relation to the business and commercial, as well as the educational world, is a well known fact. Both men and women are producing results in various phases of art work which have a definite and practical relation to our present day needs.

Manufacturers and progressive business men employ talented designers and skilled craftsmen in order to produce better products demanded by a discriminating public. A wide field for endeavor is offered designers and workers in the metal, also in pottery and jewelry and other crafts. There are opportunities open to those who have studied house decoration, illustration, costume design, fabric and wall paper design and various other branches of art.

The educational value of art and handicraft is better understood than formerly. These subjects now occupy an important place in the curriculum of many of the best schools and colleges in the country. A demand for practical teachers of art has been created and students who are contemplating courses which will fit them to teach drawing and the handicrafts or to specialize in some branch of art should choose a school carefully. Among the best known institutions offering art courses is the Handicraft Guild of Minneapolis, school of design, handicraft and normal art.

A faculty of specialists, well planned courses, comfortable and well equipped classrooms and work shops, where theory and practice are combined offer unusual opportunities for students who enter the Handicraft Guild school to acquire the most practical training. The many graduates from the progressive institution who are at present employed as important factors in both the educational and business world, testify to the value of such a school, where systematic and thorough training is given. The latest catalogue of the Guild explains the aims of the school and contains much that is of interest to those who wish to become professional designers, craftsmen, or teachers of art.

URE TO TURN OVER MONEY

Treasurer Notifies Commissioners of Contemplated Action.

HAS WAITED FOR COURT ACTION

Says that if City Believes the Money Belongs to It and Not to the Water District Councilmen Must Act.

W. G. Ure, treasurer of the Metropolitan Water District, has notified the city commission that he will turn over the $100,000 held by him for the water plant of Omaha to the new district August 1. This action is taken by Ure to give the city or any interested taxpayer an opportunity to enjoin him from so doing, on the ground that this money belongs to the city of Omaha and not to the Metropolitan Water District.

"I have refused to turn this money over and have waited for some action by the Water board or the city council," said Treasurer Ure, "and since no step has been taken to compel me to turn it over or to restrain me from transferring it to the account of the new district, I am taking this method of bringing the issue to a settlement. If the council believes the money does not belong to the district it is up to the city to bring an injunction. If the council doesn't do it perhaps some interested taxpayer will."

Brownell Hall Will Be Half Century Old in Coming September

The jubilee catalogue of Brownell Hall has just been issued. Many persons do not realize how long this well-known school has been in existence. It was founded in 1863 by Bishop Talbot. It will therefore be fifty years this coming September since the school was opened. During this entire period it has been in session every year but one; 1913-14 is the thirtieth year of the school life. During these fifty years the heads of the school have been as follows:

- Rev. O. C. Drake, rector, 1863-1864. Rev. Isaac Hazar, rector, 1864-1869. Rev. Samuel Hermann, rector, 1869-1889. Miss Elizabeth Butterfield, principal, 1869-1871. Mrs. P. C. Hall, principal, 1871-1875. Rev. Robert Doherty, D. D., chaplain, 1874-1875, rector, 1875-1887. Mrs. Louise E. Upton, principal, 1889-1901. Miss Euphan Washington Macrae, A. B., principal, 1901-1909. Miss Edith Dearborn Maraden, A. B., principal, 1909-1911. Miss Euphemia Johnson, A. B., principal, 1911-1913.

Joseph Sonnenberg, Oldest Omaha Pawn Broker, Passes On

Joseph Sonnenberg, familiarly known as "Uncle Joe," the oldest pawnbroker in Omaha, Thirteenth and Douglas streets, died late Sunday night. For the last two years he has been suffering with stomach trouble and for the last three weeks has been confined to his bed. He was 73 years old and lived in Omaha since 1888, coming here from Germany.

Surviving him besides the widow, Mrs. Hannah Sonnenberg, are one son, Samuel, and one daughter, Mrs. F. Arntsen, 620 South Twenty-ninth street.

Funeral services will be held from the Arntsen residence this morning at 10 o'clock and interment will be at Pleasant Hill cemetery. Rabbi Kopald will conduct the services.

MANY OMAHA FRIENDS GO TO SCHNEIDER FUNERAL

The funeral of the late R. B. Schneider, held at Fremont Monday afternoon, was largely attended by Omaha business men and friends. The Union Pacific ran a special train to Fremont, leaving the Union station at 1 o'clock. It carried several representatives from each of the roads, besides a large party of grain men. Several railroad men came over from Chicago and joined the special train party here.

Campaign for the Campus Removal Signatures is On

The active campaign for names for the initiative petition calling for a vote on campus removal or campus extension of the University of Nebraska was begun in Omaha and Douglas county. Petitions have for some time been circulated in various parts of the state, including Lincoln. Petitions have also been circulated to some extent in Omaha, but now the active campaign is formally launched.

W. E. Ramsey, who is in charge of the campaign for petitions, placed some twenty men in the field. He hopes to get over 4000 names in Omaha and Douglas county by September 1. He says that by September 1 he wants all the signed petitions of the county back in his hands.

The petition differs from a referendum petition, in that the signer need not necessarily favor either side of the controversy, since the legislature has tied up the appropriation for university extension until the question of future location at the 1914 election. This means that if the 2 mill levy for university extension is to be available for use at all, the people must first vote on where they want the extensions to be made, at the present site or at the state farm.

"This being the situation, the matter of getting signatures is not difficult, as those who are not in favor of removal are still in favor of calling for an expression of the people on the matter in order that the appropriation may become available for one location or the other."

Conditions at the Poor Farm Found Not to Be of the Best

Assertions that he was beaten by a guard and by inmates of the insane ward of the county hospital last Thursday night, made by John Day to the Board of County Commissioners and involving charges of mismanagement and cruelty, caused three members of the board to make a sudden tour of inspection to the poor farm yesterday.

Day's charges were made to the board after, he asserted, Commissioner Bos, chairman of the committee which is in charge of the poor farm, had refused to take action regarding them. Mr. Bos thought small foundation would be found for Day's allegations, but although neither Chairman McDonald, nor Commissioners Lynch and O'Connor would talk, it was reported they had not found conditions satisfactory. E. M. Robinson is superintendent of the hospital.

That patients lie about in the hospital practically naked and that the insane ward is often without guards are two of the charges made and none of the commissioners who visited the place would say that the allegations were not sustained by what they saw.

Day is about 40 years old. He is an epileptic patient. Newspaper Advertising is the Road to Business Success.

TO TEST NEW ELECTION LAW.

Case of Father Williams Being Heard Before Judge English.

MINISTER TAKES THE STAND

Says He Has Voted at Every Election the Last Thirty-Six Years and Has Not Before Been Asked for His Papers.

Election Commissioner Moorhead came before Judge English to defend his change in the interpretation of a twenty-five-year old election law which, it is alleged, has caused the disfranchisement of hundreds of foreign born residents of Omaha and South Omaha. Hearing of a suit brought by Father John Williams, who has voted in Nebraska for thirty-six years, to compel the election commissioner to accept his registration though Rev. Mr. Williams' naturalization papers were lost many years ago, was begun.

That the question whether the law denies the privilege of providing qualifications for voting by sworn testimony has been answered in the negative for a quarter of a century or until Mr. Moorhead took office, was emphasized by the plaintiff.

Attorney Ben Baker for Father Williams to save time asked for an admission by the other side that it has been customary to accept oral proof, but counsel for Mr. Moorhead decided they wouldn't even admit that.

The power of the election commissioner, should the courts hold that he was a judicial officer using his own discretion as to whom he allowed to vote, was pictured by Attorney TePool for Father Williams.

"If we are to give the election commissioner this power," said Mr. TePool, "where is the right of redress if his acts should be wrong? We cannot assume that Mr. Moorhead will always be election commissioner. Suppose a man should get that office who desired to use it for political purposes? I do not believe the courts will decide that he may determine the right of suffrage without remedy to the rejected voter."

Father Williams testified that he had voted at every election of any importance in Nebraska for the last thirty-six years; that he never had been required to produce his naturalization papers, and that he believed it had been customary in the past to allow voters to prove the qualifications by oath.

He interrupted his testimony to correct an assertion made in his petition for a writ of mandamus that his father had been naturalized, saying that it was now his belief that this was not true.

Attorneys for Father Williams argued that the law did not demand documentary proof, but that incidental mention of naturalization papers was made in referring to the registration of voters under the assumption that in many cases voters would have these papers in their possession.
