CHIEF HILLHOUSE TELLS OF BUNGALOW AND VISIT TO RENO

Government Claims to Be Near the Crisis in Its Case Against Maury I. Diggs.

ATTORNEY M'NAB AS A WITNESS

Identifies Exhibits on Which White Slave Indictment Secured.

ARRESTS MINUTELY DESCRIBED

Diggs and Three Women Found in the House in Nevada Town.

APPEARED IN UNDRRESS ATTIRE

Photograph Showing Caminetti in the Uniform of a Policeman is Offered, but Not Admitted in Evidence.

RAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 12.—If the cross-examination of minor witnesses did not consume too much time, the government expected to reach the crisis of its case against Maury I. Diggs, on trial charged with violation of the Mann white slave act, before adjournment of court.

John L. McNab, who resigned as United States attorney, took the stand for a few moments just before the noon adjournment, but his testimony was soon closed and dealt entirely with the identification of exhibits which he had presented to the grand jury when asking for indictments.

Chief Hillhouse of the Reno police force went more minutely into the arrests there, the conduct of Diggs, Caminetti, Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris, when they learned that their aliases would not stand and that they must return to Sacramento prisoners, and the appearance of the bungalow in which they were found.

Portions of this testimony were unprintable.

R. J. Simen, Southern Pacific ticket agent at Sacramento, was called to continue his testimony begun last Friday. He was asked if he had sold any round trip tickets to Reno the night of March 9 or the early morning of March 10. The defense objected and the court asked the purpose of the question.

Shows the Purpose.

"Our purpose is to show," answered Prosecutor Roche, "that the visit to Reno was not intended to be merely temporary, as the defense will attempt to show."

"I think you are putting the cart before the horse," said the court.

J. D. Hillhouse, chief of police at Reno, testified to the arrest of Diggs, Caminetti and the two girls at the Cheney street bungalow the morning of March 10. The chief and his posse tried the front door and got no answer. After ringing the back door bell for some time, Diggs answered in his undershirt, trousers and slippers.

"You're Mr. Diggs, aren't you?" the chief asked.

"No, I'm Mr. Enright," was the answer.

"I think you're Diggs and you're wanted in Sacramento for elopement."

"All right, there's no use in my attempting to deny it, I'm Diggs."

During this conversation with the chief, Marsha Warrington was in the south and Caminetti and Lola Norris in the north bedroom. Caminetti was in about the same stage of undress as Diggs.

Their Hair Was Down.

The two girls' hair joined each other in the bath room and later came into the company of the men and officers in the kitchen. Their hair was down, the witness said, and their dresses were not wholly buttoned.

From the bungalow the party was taken to the chief's office and from there to the jail. As the men were led away to their cells, witness said Diggs said to Marsha Warrington:

"It's up to you girls whether we go to the penitentiary or not."

"We'll stay with you," the girl answered.

The chief then entered upon a detailed description of the two rooms, with a view to showing the girls had not slept together in one room and the two men in the other.

On cross-examination Chief Hillhouse testified that Marsha Warrington had telephoned her father in Sacramento from his office before the men were taken to jail.

"What did she say?"

"She said: 'The boys are not to blame. Don't do anything with them. Drop the case.'"

Would Stick by the Boys.

Again the chief testified, Mrs. Warrington, in discussing their flight, had said: "If it comes to a fight between the boys and our parents, we will stick to the boys."

Attorney Devin wished to introduce a photograph of Caminetti dressed in the uniform of a Reno policeman, which he had assumed while in the chief's office. After looking at the picture, Prosecutor Roche said: "We have no objection to the introduction of this picture."

"It makes no difference whether you have or not," ruled the court with some severity. "This picture will not be admitted. This case is not to be a travesty of the law, even if the people concerned seemed to have ignored the conditions under which they were in Reno on that occasion."

On redirect examination, Chief Hillhouse testified that with him when the arrest was made was Martin Beasley of Sacramento, Marsha Warrington's uncle.

"How did she behave when she saw him?"

"She shed tears and sobbed for some moments."

"And Miss Norris?"

"She cried, too."

GUNBOAT NASHVILLE IS ORDERED TO VERA CRUZ

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 12.—The gunboat Nashville, which has been ordered to Vera Cruz, will sail on Friday.

Quiet and Peace Order of the Day in the City of Mexico

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Charge O'Shaughnessy called the State department today that the situation in Mexico City was peaceful and quiet. His message was gratifying to administration officials, who desire that all misunderstandings the Mexican government may have as to intentions of the United States shall be cleared up before any further steps are taken in the peace policy of President Wilson.

The presentation of a note representing the views of President Wilson is expected soon, but various steps in the American government's program will be carried out gradually. The first note will be transmitted in duplicate to all foreign governments represented here and will declare for the first time in formal terms the attitude of the administration toward Mexico.

Administration officials who are hoping that European countries will lend their moral support to the efforts to adjust the Mexican situation peacefully, were favorably impressed with the statement of recognition of Huerta should be only a recognition of a provisional president pending an election and was done on the theory that it was likely to assist in the restoration of order.

The added comment from the British government that France and Germany had recognized President Huerta after the American ambassador, Henry Lane Wilson, had made a congratulatory speech at a reception given by President Huerta to the diplomatic corps was received as further strengthening the view of President Wilson that the American ambassador had been a personal factor in the situation.

Word from Japan Causing Comment at Washington

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Japan's intimation to Mexico that it would receive General Felix Diaz only as a private individual and not as a special envoy caused comment in official quarters. Coming at a time when negotiations are proceeding between Japan and the United States on the alien land question, this action of Japan toward Mexico was generally construed as showing a desire on the part of Japan to avoid anything open to the construction of being unfriendly to the United States.

It was recalled that when some significant steps toward the arrival of a new Japanese minister at Mexico City, prominent disclaimer was made by the Japanese authorities that any political importance attached to the event, or that the new minister had made any expression of the identity of interests between Japan and Mexico. The present move is thought to be along the same lines in keeping Japan quite apart from any apparent participation in the political or diplomatic questions relating to Mexico.

Comptroller Seeks Facts from Banks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The comptroller of the currency today issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks of the United States at the close of business Saturday, August 9.

Much information is to be obtained from the call made today. The Treasury department wants to know how banks in different sections are attempting to relieve the demand for currency. Acting Comptroller Kane issued this statement:

"All banks have been requested to send in on special forms furnished for that purpose, detailed statements of all money loaned to other banks, as well as all money borrowed from other banks in the form of rediscounts, bills payable or in any other manner. The new form will enable the comptroller to more easily determine what sections of the country are in need of additional circulation for a statement of the condition of what banks accommodate their customers and in addition, should also enable the comptroller to more easily ascertain what banks borrow in order to meet discount and carrying conditions, and what banks should be listed as chronic borrowers—that is, those which borrow to rely on in normal times."

This amplification of reports of condition is in line with the policy to obtain from those reports as much information as possible to serve practical, as well as statistical purposes. With this end in view, the forms used by the department are being analyzed and considered."

Federal Probe Ready for a Prince

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 12.—Accusations of Mrs. Clara Melcher, a Vienna laundress, that Prince Stanislaus Sulowski of Austria, who was married here recently to Miss Mary Louise Freese of this city, induced Mrs. Melcher to come to this country for immoral purposes will be brought to the attention of the federal grand jury, according to Dudley W. Robinson, assistant United States district attorney.

Mr. Robinson said today that a federal probe of all phases of the case would be made and that an indictment returned if the prince would be arrested if he returned to the United States. The prince, his bride and other members are now in Vancouver.

Printers Receive Committee Reports

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 12.—Reports of several committees were submitted today at the fifty-ninth convention of the International Typographical union. While the laws committee gave one report, still another was to be heard. Yesterday's proceedings indicate there will be a contest in the convention Thursday when the Seattle proposition is considered as a special order. This proposal asks for a board of directors of twenty men, instead of an executive council of three members.

ARMIES ASSEMBLE TO DECIDE CITY'S FATE

Captains Lead Companies to Battlefield from Every Section of Nebraska.

OMAHA THE PRIZE OF VICTORY

Reds Advance to Sack Metropolis and Blues Oppose Them.

TWELVE HUNDRED MEN AFOOT

Biggest Mobilization Ever Attempted in This State.

CLASH WILL COME ON SATURDAY

Prospective Battlefield Industriously Made Ready by Soldiers, Who Lay Down Rifles to Use Mowing Machines.

An army of 600 fully accoutred Nebraska state militiamen is sweeping down on Omaha by forced marches, intent on capturing the city. From an opposite direction an army of equal strength is fighting its way to the defense of the threatened metropolis. These two armies—the Red and the Blue—the Fourth and Fifth regimental infantry—will meet at the Elkhorn river bridge at Waterloo Saturday morning and will battle for mastery all day.

This mobilization of state troops, the most comprehensive ever attempted in Nebraska, is giving 1,300 state militiamen their first taste of the rigors of war. Captains of companies are leading their soldiers to the battlefield from every section of the state. The men carry their "pup tents" on their backs and travel in loose marching order. In addition to his pack each man lugs a regulation rifle and several rounds of blank ammunition.

One army is mobilizing about Fremont and the other is gathering at Gretna. On the prospective battlefield details of militiamen are laboring to prepare for the awful carnage which will occur when the two brave armies meet. Tents are being pitched, a hospital prepared, roads laid out—all as would be done were the war real and not mimic. Adjutant General Phil H. Hall of Lincoln is general director of maneuvers and Colonel H. J. Paul of Gretna and Colonel G. A. Eberly of Fremont head the two armies.

"Details from the several companies of state militia are now on the grounds at Waterloo," said the adjutant general, "and word received from the marching contingents indicate they will, at the present rate of marching, meet here Friday night. Battle plans will be completed Friday night and the mimic war will begin Saturday morning and continue throughout the day. The object point will be the bridge over the Elkhorn river."

The extension department of the University of Nebraska together with the publicity bureau of Omaha has started a campaign to co-operate with the farmers in the regions suffering most from drought, to determine the best method of conserving the corn crop this year. The farmers well know that where the drought is so great that they can expect little or no corn in certain fields, it is to their advantage to cut the stalks green and preserve it for winter fodder. There are several ways in which the stalks can be used as fodder in winter.

Fashion and Police Orders Are to Clash

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Fashion and police orders will clash tonight at the annual style show of Chicago manufacturers. Bloomers, which have been barred from the Chicago beaches, are the feature of the bathing costumes which will be shown. As a concession to the law, the designers have displayed wide Turkish sashes about the waists, but insist that half bows, also tabooed, be worn with the bathing suits.

While many freakish gowns, such as the alhambra, the tango and the ones with the long slits, will be shown, more modest costumes will predominate. The newer styles will have freer waists and looser, tiers of them being popular.

Colored furs are among the new novelties, such as brown skunk dyed green and white fox colored cherry red.

One hundred and fifty beautiful models have been engaged to display the costumes tonight.

Rain General Except in Great Corn Belt

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—A general rain that brought a material drop in temperature is sweeping over practically the entire country today east of the Rocky mountains, except the great middle west corn belt, where it is most needed.

Along the Atlantic coast and throughout the great lakes region there has been a drop of 3 degrees since Sunday.

Where Ignorance Is NOT BLISS

Suppose you could run back over every purchase of every kind you have made in the past twelve months. Suppose you could classify them and make up a list of the purchases in the departments of big business firms do. Do you not think that you could check up many a purchase made unwisely, many an item that costs too much, and here and there some article bought that wasn't at all what you thought you were buying?

Family expenditures and personal expenditures, of course aren't made with anything like the accuracy or system that would mark the purchases of a well organized business. But this very fact ought to impress upon every family, every individual, the necessity of closer attention to their annual expenditures.

In this matter the newspaper is one's best friend. The advertising columns point the way to economy and satisfaction.

Where ignorance is not bliss, it is better to be wise.
