

New Books

Fletion.

THE THUNDERHEAD LADY. Anna Fuller and Brian Read. 186 Pp. 81. (J. P. Putnam's Sons. Wanted-By a Harvard graduate, a permanent position as husband. Carefully trained by an anxious mother, and used to feminine domination."

So begins a clipping from the Bostor Herald, written in jest, and printed from bravado, which clicits a reply from a chance reader, and results in the correpondence that forms the substance of his little skit.

Vorst. pany.

Pitchoune is as engaging a friend as could be asked of the fates and his dovotion to his master is the most delightful part of this story. The master is A French soldier and, while following his duty away from an American heiress. falls wounded and a captive on the African desert. The little friend, who had braved many dangers to follow him, saves him from death and when the lovers are united lies down before the fire, quietly content to share the future they are planning.

IN ANOTHER MOMENT. By Charles Belmont Davis. 312 Pp. $1.25. Bobbs Merrill company.

beauty, is immediately made way for on the musical-comedy stage. Then begins the struggle. The dreams of easily acquired wealth are shattered and the awful possibilities-the hardships and the perils of their position-beat down upon them. To them both the great city applies the acid test. The story is told in an attractive manner and the characters are real men and women. THE FRIENDLY WAY. By T. P. Cameron Wilson. 353 Pp. $1.25. G. P. rutnam's Sons.

A story of English slum life, written with a consciousness of social wrong, and an equally keen realization of the HIS LOVE STORY. by Marie Van herculean difficulties in the way of its Vorst. 255 Pp. $1.20. Bobbs-Merrill com- righting. It presents the inarticulate groping after better things, and the rebellion against things as they are.

THE KNOCKERS' CLUB. By Nathan-Fowler. 216 Pp. $1. Sully & Kleintelch.

Six men belonging to an organization called "The Knockers' Club," which ap- devoted to the cause of liberty, combine parently existed for the sole purpose of to make an interesting story, told with enabling its members to be rude to one knowledge of the naval and historical POLLYANNA. By Eleanor H. Porter. 200 PD. $1.25. I. C. Page & Co. Pollyanna is the delutiest and most inanother with impunity, make several excursions together. There is a great deat of talk, and numerous dissertations upon Boston, beans, summer hotels and kindred lotti. subjects.

THE MAKING OF, THOMAS BARTON. As the story goes, a girl and a youth, Merrill company.

The lad finds employment in the broker's than analyzes it. and cares first of all to story of unusual power and great beauty to know, but she tells her story in a office. The girl, because of her startling keep her reader actively entertained. -a story exceedingly well told. SUNIA, A HIMALAYAN IDYLL. By Maud Diver. 362 Pp. $1.25. G. P. Put-Stuart. 354 Pp. $1.25. Harper & Bros.

nam's Sons. These charming stories of India derive | ander Alexander, is an English lad reared sacrifice for a little blind daughter The the impulse of sex. The deep, active, mother. Fatuma, indeed, loves All better persistent heritage of eastern tradition than her own true Moslem son, Abdurrolume.

A story of the Spanish-American war. Lieutenant Holton is detached from his man, who has loved Alexander's father command at the outbreak of hostilities to engage in secret service work. The machinations of some misled Cuban patriots, the boy presently passes to that of Lord villainies of Spanish spice, as well as the Stapleton's, the English cousin whose her

San Juan assault, the destruction of he is; but not before Patricia Bellingham, beautiful and brilliant, has claimed his Cervera's fleet, the saving of Santiago, with the winning by Holton of a beautiful youthful heart.

and devoted Cuban girl, enthusiastically Pollyanna is the daintiest and most ir-

HARLETTE. By Marion Polk Angel-otti. 162 Pp. 15c. The Century company. The book tells how Duke Robert of peasant girl of great beauty, the only bers of the family. human being who did not fear him. How their power from the national prejudice, in the household of the sultan of Ango-the bar of race that keeps the east and lar, with the wise, pretty and charming reader will love the brave little girl and rejoice when her sight is restored and west apart, and yet is not proof against Fatuma, favorite sultana, for foster other good fortune comes, bringing release from all worries.

Juvenile.

All Kisander, whose real name is Alex-

A SCOUT OF TODAY, by isabel Horni-brook. 250 Pp. $1. Houghton Mifflin gives a quaint charm to the pages of the haman, loves him so well that she takes care that in due season he shall become company.

the full-fledged "Frank" she deems de-A book for boys which not only is a HOLTON OF THE NAVY. By Law-rence Porry. 300 Pp. $1.55. A. C. Mc-Clurg & Co. Michaelis von Rodenburg, German states- shows the good that the interest and experience gained from membership in the Boy Scouts can do for an active, fun-novel and charming way.

Miscellaneous

THE BLOSSOM SHOP, By E. Y. Mullins, 255 Pp. $1. L. C. Page & Co.

An appealing story of mother love and SCIENTIFIC AUCTION BRIDGE. By V. Shepard, 241 Pp. 41. Harper & Bros.

Every feature of the game is discussed and the rules are clear and practical.

THE LIFE STORY OF J. PIERPONT MORGAN. By Carl Havey. 32 Pp. $2.50, Sturgis & Walton company.

resistible maid you will meet on the our-The story of Mr. Morgan's early life ney through bookland. She is so real and business beginnings is followed by one almost forgets she is a story girl. an account of his achievements. The The story is wholesome and fresh, and record is enlivened by anecdote, perthe little readers will reloice when she sonalia and "inside" information. Atten-Normandy fell in love with Harlette, a the little readers will be hearts of all mem- tion is given to Mr. Morgan's struggle with Jay Gould, to the new birth of rall-

As the story goes, a girl and a youth. Very much in love, both young and ant-bitious, are enticed to New York from their little home town by a designing are interwoven, the general point of view a love which was the marvel and the their little home town by a designing are intersoven, the general point of view a love which was the marvel and the is supposedly told by the kitten and .s panic of 1907 and to other matters of broker, who sees in the girl the one to in that of comedy and the outcome is talk of all Normandy, how their son be- most amusing and entertaining. Not only hardly less moment

THE BOOK CENTER OF OMAHA Is now located in the Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

KIESER'S BOOK STORE

Conducted by Mr. Henry F. Kieser, Omaha's book man, for many years with the Bennett Co., opens Saturday with a new, clean stock right from the publishers. This store is unquestionably one of the largest book stores in the west, occupying, as it does, almost one-fourth of the ground floor space of the big Y. M. C. A. building. A complete stock of stationery, periodicals, office, church and Bible school supplies will be carried. Visit the Book Center.

conditions of the war's events.