

The Society Bee-Hive

BY MELLIFLOIA. Monday, September 1, 1913.

YOU may not realize it, but the personal magnetism and interest of the minister has a lot to do with the size of the congregation.

There is a certain deacon in Omaha who never misses going to church. But this summer it was duly announced in the church paper that the minister was going to take a well earned vacation and would be absent all summer, and different ones would act as substitutes Sunday mornings at this church. However, there was sickness in the reverend's family and he decided to stay home, and he continued his services at the church all during the warm weather, but the church paper neglected to state the change of plans. Yesterday morning, when the deacon attended church, the minister shook hands with him and said, "Why, where have you been this summer? We have missed you from the services." And now he is wondering just how to regain his good record for attending church; whether to place his automobile at the disposal of the minister or buy a new window for the church are some of the good deeds he is thinking about.

Gordon-Breckenridge Wedding.

Miss Myra Breckenridge was quietly married Monday afternoon to Mr. Alfred Wallace Gordon, a prominent young business man of this city. Dr. Frank L. Loveland of Topeka, and formerly of Omaha, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed only by the relatives and a few close friends of the family. The engagement was to have been announced on September 19, which would have been the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of the bride's parents. The wedding was to have been during the Christmas holidays.

Because of the late bereavement in the sudden death of Mr. Breckenridge, it was thought best to have the marriage before Mr. Wallace Breckenridge returns to college at Amherst.

After a sojourn of ten days at Hot Springs, S. D., Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will make their home at the Breckenridge family residence, 3011 Jackson street.

PRESENT GARBAGE CONTRACT

How it Came to Be Made After Another Unsatisfactory Experiment.

PUTS BIG BURDEN ON THE CITY

Cost of Collection and Hauling is Borne Out of the Public Treasury—Garbage Furnished Free to Hog Feeders.

(Fifth Article of Series.)

The interim of free-for-all garbage hauling immediately succeeding the failure of the first McPherson deal, virtually continued until July 7, 1911, when the second McPherson contract became effective—that is the contract with the Omaha Rendering and Feed company, under which we are now operating.

It is coincident that the expiration of both these contracts, in the first case because obstructed by the council's action, and in the latter because dissatisfied and selling out his interests to Guy L. Axtell.

The life of the second McPherson contract now in force is to be three years, expiring, therefore, July 7, 1914, before which time the city, it is hoped, will provide a new, modern and adequate system for collecting and disposing of all garbage, including dead animals.

The terms of the present contract correspond almost identically with those in the old City Garbage company agreement, dating for ten years from January 1, 1904.

The essential difference between the present and first McPherson contracts is a very vital and decisive one and reflects rather unfavorably on the city council of 1907 that violated the former agreement and substituted for it something much less to the city's benefit.

Under the first McPherson contract the garbage was collected and hauled absolutely free of cost to the city, whereas under the present one the city pays approximately $30,000 a year for exactly the same services and furnishes the boxes and some other wagon appurtenances at an additional expense. As under the former, so this one, the dead animal disposition is a separate item. The equitable right of carting off dead animals belongs to present to James Whalen, who secured it by submitting the most acceptable bid to the city.

Many Guests Given Their Degree at Den

Another routing time was enjoyed at the Ak-Sar-Ben Den last night with several dozen husky candidates to be initiated from various parts of the state. There were men not of all nations, but of all counties, it might be said, for they came from Silver, City, Nebraska City, Oakland, Pender, Bancroft and other points in the state. Every other member of Ak-Sar-Ben has a friend or two from out in the state to hustle through the lines. And they were hustled.

Ralph Sunderland, after being in San Francisco for nearly a year, was called to the platform to explain and apologize for being absent so long. He told of how much he had heard of the show while in California, congratulated the gang on this year's show and then told an enormous fish story of his summer's outing.

Hoover Holten of Indianapolis said he had heard of Ak-Sar-Ben from Portland, Me., to San Francisco, but this was the first night he had seen it, and he was greatly pleased with it.

Rev. Dr. Buxton of Council Bluffs said he considered he had seen a wonderful entertainment and said it was the best he had ever seen. He then entertained the bunch for ten minutes with a wealth of stories, and the bars were thrown down for the herd to graze.

Money in Dead Animals.

The city does not pay Whalen a direct amount for his services, but has the pay arranged on this basis: he is to receive whatever he can get from the owner of a dead horse, cow or other animal if found on private premises, but if found on public property, he looks to the city for his pay. Of course, small animals, such as cats and dogs, and sometimes goats and sheep, seldom belong to anyone in particular after death. Proprietorships seem to vanish strangely with the last fleeting breath of life and the city is usually "stuck" for the cost of interment. However, good and faithful a servant he can get from the owner of a dead horse, cow or other animal if found on public property, he looks to the city for his pay. Of course, small animals, such as cats and dogs, and sometimes goats and sheep, seldom belong to anyone in particular after death. Proprietorships seem to vanish strangely with the last fleeting breath of life and the city is usually "stuck" for the cost of interment.

DANCING SEASON STARTS AT PUBLIC HALLS TONIGHT

When the Douglas Auditorium opens its doors tonight regardless of heat, the dancing season in Omaha halls will be formally begun. The Douglas auditorium is operated under the direction of an auxiliary organization of the Modern Woodmen of America and enjoyed a remarkably successful season last year.

On Thursday night the Pastime and Pleasure dancing clubs will start weekly gatherings at the hall.

Long and Short Haak.

A serious defect in the present garbage system is the proximity on the one hand and the remoteness on the other of the outlet stations. The garbage is hauled to the company's hog farm in the east river bottoms, just across the Iowa line. Taking distance and character of road into consideration, this is remote for horse transportation. The dead animals are buried on the northeast bottom, on this side of the line, and that also is too near a residential section of Omaha and a constant source of complaint.

When the city makes a new arrangement upon the expiration of the pending agreement, whatever it may be, it must provide better facilities for the disposition of the matter. Of course, the "hog farm" would not be too distant if reached by rapid transit, train or auto; it probably then would be considered too close at hand, as, in fact, it really is.

HEAT RECORDS ARE BROKEN

Seventeen Times This Year Mercury Goes to 100 or More.

HOTTEST AUGUST ON RECORD

August Also Shows the Lightest Rainfall for Any Corresponding Month in the History of the Local Weather Bureau.

With all summer heat records broken the first day of September started out just nine degrees hotter than the last day of August, when the temperature reached 101 degrees above zero and there was every prospect that Monday would be just as warm, if not warmer. The temperature at 7 o'clock Sunday morning was 72 degrees, as against 82 degrees Monday morning.

When the mercury in the tube reached 100 degrees Sunday it made the seventeenth day for the summer when the temperature was 100 degrees or hotter. The hottest previous summer was in 1901, when there were fifteen days of 100 degrees temperature. There were ten days during the month just closed in which the temperature reached 100 or better.

Little Rain. In addition to it being extremely hot during August there was the lightest rainfall in the history of the weather bureau for the corresponding month in Omaha. There was less than a quarter of an inch rainfall for the month. To be exact it rained but five days and the total precipitation for 19 of an inch. The heaviest rainfall occurred on the twelfth day of the month, when .12 of an inch of rain fell.

The mean temperature for the month was 82.4 degrees above zero. In 1880 and

EX-MAYOR BEMIS HAS GREAT TIME ON NORTH DAKOTA FARM

George P. Bemis, ex-mayor of Omaha, has just returned from a month's visit on a farm in North Dakota. It was the first time Mr. Bemis had ever been on a farm and he relates the novel experiences with much enthusiasm. He said on his return that he had as much fun as a 5-year-old boy and that he did as much work as he would have done if he was 21. Mr. Bemis is still advocating woman's suffrage and says he believes in militancy if necessary.

Deadly Frost. Bemis suffers from lung trouble till they learn Dr. King's New Discovery will help them. Price 50c and $1.00. For sale by Beaton Drug Co.—Advertisement.

Fall Display of Bedroom Furniture

Since placing in our display rooms, within the last few days, large shipments of new furniture, we now are showing on our fifth floor what we believe to be the most complete line of bedroom furniture ever shown in Omaha. The medium priced pieces have been selected with the same care as the most expensive—to give the customer the "best at the price" in all cases.

Included in the display are Colonial, Sheraton, Adam, Louis XV, Louis XVII and four post suites. These are in all finishes—mahogany, Circassian walnut, Toona mahogany, curly birch, fumed oak, golden oak, birdseye maple and white, old ivory and gray enamels. Full line of metal beds, springs, mattresses and pillows.

An Enviably Record

Three-fourths of the stock bought by us from the Miller, Stewart & Beaton Co. on December 9, 1912, was sold by February 1, 1913. On March 1 the little that was left of the old stock was placed in our bargain basement and our entire store from first to sixth floor contained only new merchandise.

We carry more than twice the stock of the former company—very much more medium priced furniture. We are selling at 15 to 20 per cent less than merchandise of like quality has ever been sold in Omaha. Our store service is unequalled.

Result: In eight months we have increased the sales of the former company over 75 per cent.

We cordially invite you to see this new store, with new merchandise, under new management, with new policy.
