youths calling themselves Boy Scouts, who formerly were a part of Buffalo Bill's show, were entertained last evening by Frank Harris, manager of the Empress theater. The boys paraded through the streets and had supper after the show.

Patullo Goes for Saunders. Andrew Patullo, desk sergeant at police headquarters, left last night for Brockton, Mass., where he went to bring Burton W. Saunders back to Omaha. Saunders is wanted for the alleged theft of $90 from the Myers-Dillon drug store, where he was formerly employed.

Saunders to Be Brought Back. Burton Saunders, former employee of the Myers-Dillon drug store, who is charged with cashing a worthless check of $90 at the store, has been arrested in Brockton, Mass., and requisition papers have been secured by County Attorney Mag-ney. Saunders will be returned to Omaha by a police officer.

Losses Leg Under Cars. Thomas Mullen, 1802 Clarke street, a laborer, lost his right leg last night when he went to sleep underneath a string of box cars at Twelfth and Locust streets. He was with a friend, Frank Kane, but the latter escaped unscathed. Mullen was taken to a local hospital for treatment.

made for the benefit of dressmakers and early discerning buyers. The display will be on exhibition on the third floor, which is reached readily by the new elevator service. The exhibition starts Monday.

Returns From Vacation. Dr. James W.
Novack, 306 Karbach block, has returned from a two months' visit in California. While making a trip out on the Pacific he had quite an experience when a boat upon which he had taken passage ran into a huge whale.
Many of the passengers thought the boat had struck a rock and a mild panic ensued.

Mrs. King Wants Alimony. Mrs. Leslie King, now of Chicago, whom her husband, who is manager of the Omaha Wool and Storage company, is suing for divorce after less than a year of married life, has filed a motion in district court asking that she be awarded temporary alimony of $500 a month, with attorney's fees of $1,000. She alleges that Mr. King makes $6,000 a year.

Injured in Auto Accident. Elmer Phillips of Plainview is laid up with a broken shoulder caused by an automobile he was driving upsetting. Being used to driving his big car, he borrowed a friend's for a short spin out to his home with a couple of friends. Turning it too short the car went upside down into a ditch and also badly injured his two friends, all being pinned under the car.

Cannot Agree. Jacob and Rose Gold-ware, participants in a divorce suit, whom Judge Troup a few weeks ago sought to reconcile, came into court again and by their attitude towards each other convinced the judge that they could not live happily together, so the case will take its place again on the regular docket. The judge at the former hearing advised Goldware to help his wife with the housework, saying that he had often washed dishes.

Postoffice Redecorated. The Omaha South Omaha and Fremont postoffices have recently been entirely repainted and redecorated. The government requires a high grade of pure paints and varnishes in this class of work and employs expert workmen to perform the labor. The Grohe Contracting company of Joliet, Ill., who specialize in this line of government work, did the job here and purchased the paints and varnishes from Barker Bros., the local paint men.

CAPTAIN HOLLISTER THINKS WORK APLENTY IS NEEDED

"I understand that County Commissioner John Lynch is undertaking the establishment of a workhouse for Omaha," remarked Captain H. H. Hollister of the Salvation Army last night.
"If the plan goes through, I want to go on record as saying that a 1,000-acre farm with an accompanying brick kiln should be the principal occupation."

"In most workhouses real hard work is a secondary object, and that is where the fundamental principle of the thing fails of its purpose. I recommend, from experience with the class of people that will fill the workhouse, work, more work, and still more work."

MANY BOOKS ARE CIRCULATED

Average at Public Library is Nearly Thousand a Day.

FICTION SUPPLY IS LIMITED

Because of the incessant demand for Some Novels, It Is Not Always Possible to Get Them on First Application.

The Omaha Public Library circulates on an average of between 900 and 1,000 books per day. Contrary to popular opinion, these are not all novels, but are books on the subjects of useful and industrial arts, sociology, the drama, music, mechanics, history and travel, and all those books which are not classed as fiction.

A large proportion of the fiction is known as the work of the standard authors. There are always some readers, a small proportion only, who want the latest book of fiction, the request being the result of reading the publisher's announcements or magazine reviews written from the advance copy and printed before the book is published. It is natural that the popular belief should be that more novels are issued than other books, because more people read for pleasure and recreation than for study and profit.

The most popular fiction is issued for but seven days and can be read in that time, while generally a month is needed for reading books of a more solid character. The library aims to keep up to date in buying the worth while books of all classes, but it cannot buy new fiction in a sufficient quantity to completely supply the demand. The library plans to buy only enough copies of each book to supply a normal demand, not that which is excessive. An effort is made to be conservative in buying and to put on the shelves only such titles as will have the interest of the reader during the lifetime of the book.

Supply Limited.
During the year 1912 over 1,500 novels were published in America alone and the public library purchased of these only about 500. It is to be expected that many readers will be disappointed in not obtaining the latest novel at once, for even with the system of registration and reservation, it is often necessary to wait several weeks. If the library purchases six copies of one book, which is the usual number, each limited to a circulation of seven days to each reader, the library can give out the book but twenty-four times each month. It can be seen by this that while the new fiction may not be had at once, it can be had by a reasonable time of waiting.

In the case of books wanted for study quite a different policy is followed, an effort being made to supply the book at once. If it is wanted by several people, additional copies are purchased if the book fund will allow.

A proper knowledge of the use of the library, gained through experience, will show each reader the easy way to obtain what is wanted. A familiarity with the library rules and with the catalogue and the knowledge of what a public library ought to give to the people of the city will quickly make it as easy to use as a library in one's own home.

BOYLES ATTENDS 333 BUSINESS COLLEGE MEET

V. W. Boyles, secretary of Boyles college, recently attended the annual convention of business college men who are placing the stenotype at the disposal of their students. He reports a large attendance. The delegates compared notes as to the success of the little machine which is winning favor among students all over the country. Not long ago the student body of Boyles college witnessed a demonstration of the stenotype by a young man who had had only a few months' practice. He reported an address made to the students, the rate of speed being measured by a stop watch at the end of every five minutes, when the stenotypist would read his notes. The speed attained ranged from 200 to 250 words a minute. The result was very satisfactory.

Educational Notes.
Philadelphia proposes to spend $2,000,000 in the erection of school buildings to meet immediate needs.

The State Board of Health of Pennsylvania has begun a medical inspection of 350,000 children in the 181 district schools of the fourth class.

The cities of Ulm and Frankfurt, in Germany, are trying a novel plan for housing their teachers. They are selling to their teachers land at a low price and accepting a mortgage on it at low rate.

Miss Blanche Bass has given up her place in the younger social set in the west end of St. Louis, Mo., to conduct a school for girls in Shreveport, La., where she will begin the experimental training of twenty young girls, chosen from orphan homes, for higher mental and eugenic training.

Miss Boughton, Pittsburgh's superintendent of school lunches, calculates that the children of that city was 5,500,000 pennies annually on candy and such trash. But if grownups could get away from the deleterious and penny sweet to the infant this would be a cheerier world.

There is a movement on foot in the District of Columbia to provide for the education of blind children in the public schools. Miss Ella Lorraine Dorsey of Omaha is the champion of the blind and has communicated with the commissioners of the district in regard to a plan, and they have signified their desire to look carefully into it. At present, helpless children of Washington, whose parents cannot afford to pay for their education, are sent to Baltimore.

Nebraska Military Academy Notes.
The faculty is all lined up, buildings cleaned and assignments of rooms made and all preparations ready for the opening September 17.

The foot ball ground is being put in order so that practice will begin as soon as school opens, and we promise some stiff practice and a winning team.

Two new cadets from Columbia, South America, will arrive this week. They started several weeks ago from home and are expected any time now.

Many of the old cadets and out-of-town friends visited the academy during the state fair. There is an unusual demand for information about the school and the enrollment is very satisfactory thus far.
Nearly all the old boys will return and the foot ball material among the new enrollments looks very good.

Herbert Weissel, class of 1913, will enter the dental school at Ann Arbor, Mich.

October 1. Floyd Smith, class of 1914, of Fremont, called at the academy last week. Charles Jones and Noel Schriener of Fremont were also callers.

The last rain of any note we had was the evening of June 4, which interfered with our senior hop. We hope it will rain again before we open this fall. Even this dry spell we have cut three crops of alfalfa and many of the farmers will have a part of a crop of corn.

Boyles on Executive Board.
The National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools is something new, it is composed of the better grade of business colleges throughout the country, and its object is to standardize the methods of instruction in commercial training schools and to raise the standard whenever it is found necessary to do so, giving to students the benefit of modern, progressive business methods. The prime purpose is the elevation of business education. Only colleges of the better grade were admitted to the association.

Boyles college was among the first chosen for membership, and later President H. B. Boyles was elected vice president. He was also chosen for a place on the executive board.

opened their annual conference last night ing series of anecdotes, which he en-

Swanson Prefers Omaha to Europe

John A. Swanson, who has been in business in Omaha for thirty years, has returned from a ten weeks' vacation trip to Germany and Sweden and is still firm in the belief that Omaha is the best city in the world. "I have lived in Omaha thirty years," said Mr. Swanson, "and although I was born in Sweden and lived there until I was 15 years old, I want to spend the rest of my life here."

Mr. Swanson was accompanied by his wife and daughter on his trip. He had pleasant weather both coming and going and were not sick at any time. Most of their time was spent in the larger cities, Berlin, Hamburg, Bremen and Stockholm being included in the itinerary. In Stockholm and Hamburg, Mr. Swanson bought the latest issues of The Bee to inform himself of the activities of his home.

"Sweden and Germany are wonderful countries," continued Mr. Swanson. "I was surprised to find the advancement in the way of public improvements. The parks are wonderful and the boulevards and highways are superior to anything we have here. The people are educated, 99 per cent can read and write, and everyone is very religious. They are an admirable people. I have four sisters living in Sweden, and of course I am interested in that country, but the next time I take a vacation I intend to pack my rods and reels and go fishing in the United States and then return to Omaha for more work."

SUBURBAN HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE STARTED BY SUN

The rays of a 90-degree sun beating down upon the tin roof of George Townley's home at Forty-second and Fort streets caused a fire early last night which resulted in almost the total destruction of the house. The damage is estimated at $4,000.

The fire departments of Florence, Benson and Irvington were called out to fight the fire.

A Marvelous Escape.
"My little boy had a marvelous escape," writes F. F. Bastians of Prince Albert, Cape of Good Hope. "It occurred in the middle of the night. He got a very severe attack of croup. As luck would have it, I had a large bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. After following the directions for an hour and twenty minutes he was through all danger." For sale by all druggists.—Advertisement.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

Miss Ada Huletta, superintendent of the Miss Memorial hospital, was called to her home in Portland, Ky., suddenly last night on account of the death of her father.

Mrs. J. S. Hammond of Coronado Beach, Cal., formerly Miss Ann Shults of this city, arrived in Omaha last Monday, accompanied by her two children, to spend an extended visit at the home of her mother, Mrs. M. P. Shults.

Miss Nellie Shults has returned from an extended visit in San Diego, San Francisco and other California resorts. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. J.
S. Hammond, of Coronado Beach, Cal., who expects to spend several months visiting at the Shults home on Park avenue.

Narrow Skirt Will Be the Cause of Its Own Downfall

The narrow skirt must go.
Its days are numbered.
It has been weighed in the balance and found wanting.

Who says it must go? Who declares its days numbered? Who has weighed it?
The demi-mondaines of Paris who invented it? The man milliners of the same city who formed it? The fashion papers which proclaimed it? The fair creatures who wore and wear it?

No; none of these.
In a downtown office near the corner of Sixteenth and Farnam streets a fat man sat yesterday, leaning back in a chair fanning himself and smoking. Three friends were in the office with the fat man. And the fat man spoke:

"My wife and the girls are spending twice as much money for silk stockings since they've taken to these hobbie skirts as they did before."

"Hm; that's strange," murmured one of the friends, a quiet, soft-speaking man.

"Strange?" rumbled the fat man, deep in his throat. "Nothing of the sort.
Plain as the nose on your face. The hob-bie skirt is made, invented, designed, fashioned and constructed with the purpose of wearing out silk hose. Confound it all, ain't we men had a heavy enough load before? Haven't the cost of living been steep enough without this additional burden?"

The fat man mopped his brow with his handkerchief and was silent, in evident disgust with the whole scheme of things.
One of the friends took courage to inquire:

"Bill, what on earth has the hobbie skirt to do with wearing out silk stockings. The ladies don't wear them—I mean they are entirely separate in their uses.
You might as well say that the Talley-rand collar—"

"Robespierre collar," interrupted the fat man.

"Well, then, that the Robespierre collar shortened the life of snaker shoes." With a black look the fat man fixed his friend.

"You talk like a dill pickle," he said.
"That's because you ain't married. You don't know anything about the subject and yet you go shooting off as if you knew it all. Now, where do you suppose silk stockings wear out quickest?"

"I should say in the heels and toes," was the reply.

"Well, you should say wrong," said the fat man. "They wear out quickest across the instep and ankle. And why? Simply because the edge of the narrow skirts keeps sawing back and forth in that spot as the women walk. Why, a pair of silk stockings is worn through in no time. And the worst of it is that they can't be mended because it's a place where it would show. It's a devilish plot of the skirt makers and the silk stocking makers and it ought to be brought to the attention of congress."

There was silence for a time.

"Well, I'm glad I ain't married," said the bachelor, with an attempt at a laugh.
The fat man turned upon him fiercely.
"That's it. There you go. That's human selfishness for you. Glad you ain't married! No sympathy for those of us who have to stand the silk stocking bill.
I tell you we married men are the most unfortunate bunch in Omaha. If I man only single again—"

YOUNG GIRL LEAVES HOME; PARENTS SUSPECT WEDDING

Braving paternal anger and nothing daunted by the refusal of the county clerk to issue a marriage license, Amelia Backhaus, 17 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Backhaus, 229 North Nineteenth street, Omaha, is thought to have eloped with Howard Dodd, 15 years old, a barber's apprentice of Modale, Ia.

The couple had met about two months ago at the home of Mrs. M. Lindsay, 1021 North Sixteenth street, South Omaha.
Last Wednesday Miss Lena Lindsay, a girl friend of Miss Backhaus, was married to Harry Long of Modale, Ia. It is said that the younger couple had planned a double wedding, but were compelled to wait a few days longer.

Yesterday morning Miss Backhaus left as usual for her work in the Evans laundry in Omaha. A little later members of her family noticed that most of her clothes had been removed from home.
Investigation revealed that she had not been at work. Further investigation showed that the couple had sought a marriage license and had been refused.
Last evening when his daughter had not returned home Adolph Backhaus sought the assistance of the police. It is thought that the couple have been married and that the groom has taken the girl to his family home in Modale, Ia. Dodd has recently been working as a barber in Omaha, it is said.
