ONE of the first large autumn weddings was that of Miss Nannie Page and Dr. John Holmes Trinder, which was celebrated at Trinity cathedral last evening. This bride, who will be a welcome addition to army circles, was particularly fortunate in receiving so many beautiful and useful wedding gifts.

There was an immense chest of table silver etched in the May Flower design, including every kind of flat silver pieces, and in a design to match was an exquisite large coffee service, with long tray and a smaller tea and coffee service in colonial design. The gifts further included silver bread and butter plates in plain design to be monogrammed, and after-dinner coffee cups in artistic filigree work.

There were several large trays and a dinner service in the Sheffield plate. The bride received a number of beautiful personal gifts, including a gold bracelet watch, a bar pin and a horseshoe pin, each of pearls and sapphires.

The bride belongs to one of the most prominent families of Virginia, and many of the gifts were from relatives. The groom's former home was Philadelphia, and he has been stationed at Fort Omaha for the last two years. The many friends of the young people regret that they are to leave Omaha, as Dr. Trinder has been ordered to Texas City.

Body of Frank Vosca is Found Hanging to Tree Near the River

Frank Vosca, who disappeared from his home at Nineteenth and S streets, South Omaha, about a week ago, was found hanging to a tree near the Mud creek sewer and the banks of the Missouri river Wednesday afternoon. John Irwin and Charles Smaek ran into the body while hunting near the river bank. They called the police who in turn notified Undertaker Bernard Larkin. The body was removed to Larkin's parlors, where an inquest will be held.
Vosca was 27 years of age and is survived by two children. The wife of the dead man died some time ago and he has been in a more or less doubtful state of mind since, according to some of the police.
About a week ago Vosca told some of his companions that he intended to quit his work at the packing house, hinting that he had decided to kill himself. Probation Officer Paul McCauley some days ago stated that Vosca had been drinking. The children had been neglected by Vosca and it is thought that this weighed on him when sober. The children of the dead man have been cared for by a neighbor of the Voscas.

McShane is Called Upon to Do His Duty

Charles Davis of Emporia, Kan., and Laura Barker, 22 North Seventeenth street, were arraigned in police court on a charge of vagrancy. It seems that Charles had considerable money on his person when he invited his friend to the Vienna hotel, where drink was set before them and where he lost his roll. He complained at the station and was unable to give a satisfactory account of himself. Attorney E. F. Moriarty represented the pair on the charge, while Sheriff Felix McShane was an interested listener.
When the evidence was brought forth that the Vienna establishment had served liquor after hours, Moriarty, in thundering tones, addressed McShane, "Sheriff, you have heard the evidence, now do your duty."
The sheriff left the court room shortly after, evidently bent on carrying out Moriarty's demand. Davis and the Barker woman were given thirty-day jail sentences.

OMAHA DOING BIG BUSINESS

G. W. Wattles Compiles Figures Showing Extraordinary Volume.

ANSWER TO NEW YORK BANKERS

Local Financier Sends Information to Wall Street, Where It Will Add to Gate City's Growing Commercial Prestige.

G. W. Wattles, in answer to recent inquiries from New York bankers, has compiled a set of figures for them on the incoming business into Omaha that are astonishing in that they mark an extraordinary volume even in face of the adverse crop conditions that prevailed in some parts of the state the latter part of the summer. Mr. Wattles' figures show that during the first eight months of the present year this city paid out over $100,000,000 to producers marketing their products here. His letter contains a wealth of information for the average layman on the tremendous total of business that Omaha accomplishes from month to month. The letter follows:

"In reply to your letter, received some time ago, asking the extent of the injury to the business of Omaha on account of the cyclone in this city last spring and the damage to the corn crop in our territory during the summer, I beg to say that I do not think our business interests will be seriously injured by either of these disasters.

"On account of the intimations contained in your letter of inquiry, I have with considerable care obtained from reliable sources statements showing the amount and value of products marketed in this city and South Omaha from January 1 to September 1 of this year. These products have all been produced and the wealth represented by them created in the territory tributary to Omaha, mostly in Nebraska. The results of these figures go to show that there has been paid to the producers in this territory at the Omaha markets alone considerable more than $100,000,000 during this period of eight months. This money has gone into the local banks and has been used to pay debts, living expenses and to purchase luxuries, such as automobiles.

"My investigations show that there has been marketed at the Omaha Grain Exchange, which was started a few years ago in face of the prediction of railroad managers and many grain men that it would be a failure, between January 1 and September 1, 42,114,700 bushels of grain at an estimated value of $25,251,188; that at the Union Stock Yards of South Omaha there has been sold during this eight months the total number of 3,823,978 head of cattle, hogs, sheep, horses and mules at a total estimated value of $7,906,225. The butter and eggs sold at the creameries in the city of Omaha during this period have brought the estimated value of $5,146,000, making a grand total for these products above mentioned, which have been marketed at this city of $38,103,413.

"Of course, this does not take into account the large amount of products, which perhaps have been equal or greater than the amount sold here, which have found a market in other cities, nor does it take into account the large amount of other products and manufactured products not mentioned which have been produced in this territory, so that I do not believe I overestimate the value of the products, which have been turned into money from the territory tributary to our city during the last eight months, when I say that it has amounted to at least $50,000,000.

"The cyclone which visited our city last spring was only an incident which brought temporary loss to quite a large number of our people, but no permanent disaster to our community. The entire effects of it have long since disappeared, nearly every building injured has been repaired or rebuilt, so that insofar as the effect of this cyclone is concerned it did not produce a check in our progress.

"So far as the partial loss of our corn crop is concerned, I will say that our farmers have harvested this year the largest small grain crop in the history of our state. This grain has been sold at good prices, and the partial loss of the corn crop, or even a total loss, will not have the effect of giving even a temporary check to the business of this city. Our business men report large and increasing sales, our laboring men are well employed, and with all due thanks to you for your kind and solicitous inquiry, I beg to say that it will not be necessary for you to open subscriptions for the relief of our citizens, nor to send any of the old clothing that you may have on hand."

Realty Men Object to Paying Water Bills for Tenants

The Real Estate exchange is again making its protest to the Water board against the board's ruling that the owner of a house shall be responsible for the water rent if the tenant sees fit to jump his bill. The board asked the exchange to draft such rules as it thought should be placed in effect. In reply the water committee of the exchange drew up a letter to the board asking that clauses 5 and 6 be cut out. They do not want the owner of property to be made to sign an application to have water turned on at rented property, and do not want the owner to be made responsible for the bills. The real estate men maintain that there is no more reason why the owner should be held for the tenant's water bill than that he should be held for his coal or grocery bill.

The realty men have secured legal opinion to the effect that they are in the right in the controversy.
F. D. Wend urges the board and the exchange to get together. He is a member of the board as well as of the exchange. The system forced on the realty men by the Water board has cost one real estate man $600 in the last year. It is said, in the payment of water bills that tenants skipped. It was reported that W. H. Green had put up a $500 front at the water office, refusing to sign the guarantee, and was let off, while others are compelled to sign in order to get water.
