SULZER CASE IS REOPENED

Court Permits Prosecution to Present More Evidence.

RYAN GIVES TEN THOUSAND

Agent of Son of Magnate Hands the Governor Ten Thousand-Dollar Bills — Asked Root for Aid.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Despite the protest of Governor Sulzer's counsel, a motion by attorneys for the assembly board of managers to permit them to reopen their case and introduce further testimony was allowed by Presiding Judge Cullen this afternoon. The new testimony was expected to be brief. A new unreported campaign contribution of $10,000 developed in the impeachment trial of Governor Sulzer this afternoon. J. V. McDermott testified that he handed the governor ten $1,000 bills for his employer, Allan A. Ryan, a son of Thomas P. Ryan, last October. Allan A. Ryan testified at the impeachment trial of Governor Sulzer this afternoon that Sulzer requested him to go to Washington and ask Senator Root to use his influence to get William Barnes to attempt to induce republican senators of the impeachment court to hold that the impeachment proceedings were invalid.

TECUMSEH MAN WILL MAKE LONG AUTO TRIP

TECUMSEH, Neb., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Frank S. Murphy, who lives in the western part of this county and who has been in failing health for four years, has invested in a touring car, and a complete camping outfit, including a tent, which will cover the car and as much more space. Everything has been arranged to be in good portable condition and can be attached to the car. Mr. Murphy and his wife and son will leave within a short time for an overland trip to Arizona, hoping the change of climate, including the trip, will be beneficial to him. They will travel slowly across the country and camp when and where they see fit. If

Big Eaters Get Kidney Trouble

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid and the kidneys strive to filter out what they cannot. Overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health. When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with bicarbonate, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent mineral-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing at any time.

Cannot Identify Victims.

The police cannot account for all of the victims Spencer claims to have slain. The only victim Spencer was able to name was Fannie C. Thompson, who probably is the woman he said he killed before he left the penitentiary.

Luman C. Mann, the son of a wealthy family here, was tried six years ago for the murder of the Thompson woman and acquitted after a long and sensational trial. Spencer gave a clear account of the way he came out on the car line and the woman at the time of the killing and his recital conformed to the evidence that was brought out at Mann's trial.

Spencer told his gruesome story calmly to Captain Halpin and a room full of detectives and newspaper men.

Thief All His Life.

"I've been a thief all my life," he declared. "I killed all these women to get their money. I found it was the easiest way to live. It cost me $400 or $500 a week to enjoy myself the way I wanted to in these cabarets and dives and the easiest and quickest way to get the money was to get some girl off by herself and kill her."

"Mrs. Rexroat was easy. She thought she was working me the same way she worked the farmer. She thought I was a farmer like her husband and she could work me the same way. I let her think so."

"At first I was going to take her to Michigan and kill her there, but finally I decided it would be less trouble to take her a little way out on the car line and get it over in a business-like way. She thought we were going to be married. She came along just as I told her."

Tells of the Murder. "When we got out at the station it was nearly a'clock. We turned around and walked down the track until we got where it was dark. I took her by the right arm, pulled out my gun and shot her through the head. Then I laid her on the railroad track so she would be 'tore up.' I took what few dollars she had and her diamond ring. I opened her suitcase and dumped her stuff out of it and brought it back to Chicago with me. I took the next train back, about ten minutes after I shot her."

"I didn't want the ring. I never go near pawnshops. That's the way people get caught. I gave the ring to a girl, just a common girl I met on the street."

She went to New York Tuesday or Wednesday."

Spencer said that he had married four women, killed the first one, near West Point, N. Y. He did not know exactly how many years ago. One wife is living in Detroit, he said, and another in Chicago.

Details His Crimes.

Spencer gave details of his alleged murders at the Wisconsin and Michigan resorts where he said he had spent most of the summer as a hotel thief, committing an occasional murder.

"I killed the two girls at Paw Paw Lake for their money and rings," he said. "One of them let me see she had some money with her and so I shot her and sunk her body in the lake. The other girl I killed the same way, but she didn't have much money. The girl at Delavan lake I shot with the same gun with which I killed Mrs. Rexroat."

"When I got back to Chicago I met a man one night who looked as if he had money. He didn't have much, but enough for me to go to a hotel for a few days and there I met another man, an old fellow who said he was a broker. We got friendly and he let on to have a fine business and a lot of money. He looked like money."

Failed to Get Much Money. "I was disappointed in the fellow. I got him to take a walk with me late one afternoon in Jackson park and I shot him there and went through him. He didn't have near as much money as he said he had. He told me he had a lot more than I found. I rolled him into a swampy place, where they were dumping. The papers had a lot about it and called it a case of suicide."

"Another case the police called suicide was a woman killed on the northwest side. I killed her with a hammer, tore her hair clothes and set fire to them. The last woman I killed was a few days ago, two blocks west of the County hospital. I beat her to death with a hammer. She had rings and $200. This murder was done with a hammer the police found wrapped up in a towel by the railroad track. They thought the hammer had something to do with the Rexroat murder."

"It costs a lot of money to hold up your joints in these cabarets. I spent $700 in two nights last week. I average two jobs a week all the time I am out of jail," said Spencer.

Never Visits Pawnshop.

Spencer said none of the jewelry he had taken from his victims ever would be recovered. "I never go into a pawnshop," he said. "When I sell any of it, it is to some private person, maybe on the street. I do not know their names. A lot of it I give to girls."

The police doubt that Spencer had committed the large number of murders and holdups to which he lays claim, but are convinced that he is guilty of many of them. The man's jail record extends from his boyhood. He accounted, for immunity from trial for murder by saying that he would get apprehended for some minor crime and would take a short sentence and while he was in jail the murder mystery would be shelved and forgotten.

Several of the murders he declared he had committed are known tonight probably to have been committed by Spencer in accordance with his confession. The Fannie Thompson murder, the killing of the two policemen, the murder of an old man in Jackson park, the killing of a woman near the county hospital and the attempted killing of a family of four on the West Side, all had been catalogued as mysteries.

The entire list of crimes confessed by Spencer will be investigated by the police, who will check up how far the man's account is correct.

On Parole from Prison.

His coldly planned murder of the dancing teacher and the other killings of which he boasts, were committed while the man was on parole from the state penitentiary for highway robbery. He was paroled to Major M. A. Messin of the Volunteers of America and a short time after he was set at liberty he visited Captain Halpin and asked him to get him a job. Halpin obtained employment for Spencer, but the man held the job but two weeks.

The murderer's name—if it is ever learned, for he says he doesn't know it—will be ranked by the police with those of H. H. Holmes, who confessed to twelve murders and was sentenced of a total of twenty-seven, and Johann Hoeh, who admitted four murders and generally was considered guilty of many more.

"Is your name really Spencer?" a reporter asked. "Oh, no; I never knew my parents and I never knew my name, except as 'Harry,'" he replied.

"The first I remember was in the reform school at Peshawville," he went on. "This is my first recollection. They may have a record of my real name. I ran away from the school and never was found out. From that time on I lived with thieves and bad women. I never knew a good man or a good woman in my life."

Ten Years for Suit. "I got my first prison term shortly after running away from the school. A man sold me a suit of clothes for a nickel—that's how it started. I knew the suit had been stolen, but it didn't impress me as anything serious; that sort of thing was part of my life. The very next day I walked right into the shop from which it had been stolen and I was surprised when they arrested me. The proposition and the judge wanted me to plead guilty and take a sentence of thirty days, but my lawyer said no. He said fight it out and I pleaded not guilty.

"What do you suppose I got? I got ten years, and if there ever was any good in me that killed it. Ten years for a suit of clothes!"

Lesser Good Time. "I served the full term. I had about two years good time coming to me, but I attacked a guard and lost it. They strapped me by the arms and they strapped me; they put me in solitary, too. I think it was the solitary that really got me. When I came out I wanted blood—anybody's blood. I wanted to kill people and see it run. They gave me $10 when they turned me loose, and $5 of that I spent for a gun. I have been killing people more or less ever since. I liked it in a way; when I robbed anybody it was a sort of satisfaction to clean up the job by shutting up the victim's mouth forever."

At Joliet the murderer was known as Smith, as Burke and by one other name, he said. "I took the name of 'Spencer' when I got out last time—it was another ten-year sentence, but I got three years off for good behavior," explained the prisoner.

"Spencer" was garbed in a plain, well kept business suit. His hair was clean and his wavy chestnut hair carefully parted and brushed.

A detective, trying to visualize the spontaneity of the story to which he had just listened, described the man negatively.

"If I saw him behind a cashier's cage in a bank; or selling silk over a counter, I would not have thought him unfitted for the part. He doesn't look a tough."

His whole manner of telling his story, with its incompleteness, its lapses and vagueness of detail, was regarded as symptomatic of his admitted addiction to the opium-smoking habit.

For the most part those who heard his story of criminal abnormality had difficulty in reconciling the self-possessed young man—he is 32 years of age—with the moral monstrosity he pictured himself to be. Two missing women, whom the police believe may have been the ones lured to Delavan Lake, Wis., and killed are Laura E. Voss of Lake Geneva and Mrs. Margaret Whitbeck of Three Rivers, Mich. Both were reported as missing.

Partially a "Pipe." DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 6.—Sheriff Franz of Berrien county, in which Paw Paw lake is situated, said tonight that he knew nothing of the supposed murder of two girls at that place.

"Spencer didn't kill anyone there since I have been sheriff," he said. Newspaper files in this city and in Grand Rapids contain no record of such a crime.

At local police headquarters tonight it was declared no woman was murdered on Belle Isle last summer.

No Murder at Goshen. DELAVAN LAKE, Wis., Oct. 6.—There was only one mysterious death last summer here, that being Albert Jones, who was found dead in a lonely spot near the lake on July 24, according to the police. A verdict that Jones' death was caused by heart failure following a blow from the crank of an automobile was returned at the inquest.

The police chief says it is barely possible the man was murdered. He was known to have considerable money and was a free spender.

No School Teacher Killed. OSKALOOGA, Ia., Oct. 6.—Investigation here today disclosed the fact that no school teacher or any other person from here had been killed at Lake Delavan, Wis., last October or at any other time, as stated by Henry Spencer, held in Chicago for the Rexroat murder.

Does Not Believe Statement. WALKERVILLE, Ont., Oct. 6.—A. B. Griffith, the local chief of police, does not believe Harry Spencer's statement that one of Spencer's murders occurred in this city. "There has not been a woman killed here in twenty years," said the chief.

No Record of Murder. GOSHEN, N. Y., Oct. 6.—The Orange county authorities have no record of a murder in recent years at Fort Montgomery.

W. H. Moore, county detective, said today that he could learn nothing to support Spencer's story that he killed a former maid of Miss Helen Gould named "Nellie" in the woods near Fort Montgomery about six years ago.

No body has been found anywhere near Fort Montgomery. However, the country thereabout is so wild that a murder victim might easily escape discovery.
