The Board of Education was last night confronted by the interesting fact that the recently enacted city ordinance requiring plumbing connections for all toilet rooms is going to cause an outlay of $10,-000 in the immediate future if the law is complied with, and the additional fact that perhaps one-half of this large outlay may have to be sacrificed within another year or two by having the plumbing torn

POLICE ARE WORKING ON ROBBERY CASE

Confident that it was an Omaha job, state and city officials are seeking to locate the yeggmen, who blew the Stockman's bank at Honey Creek at $ o'clock Monday morning and took all of the money that was left in the safe from Saturday's business, in Omaha and to find also if possible the place where the loot is believed to be hidden.

Some promising clues were discovered yesterday which are being followed, and if the $2,221 is not recovered the conviction is that the robbers will be discovered and captured. None of the clues has been made public, but it is known that they refer to the passage over the Illinois Central railroad bridge early Monday morning of a railroad motorcycle that had been taken fom the Northwestern tracks south of Big lake and carried a short distance to the tracks that lead to the Illinois Central bridge. Many things are said to point to Omaha as the location of the men who became sufficiently familiar with the bank to time their attack on the safe when it would have held the largest sum of money recently contained had it not been for the prudent forethought of Cashier Thomas L. Davis that led him to withdraw $5,000 and send it to Council Bluffs banks for safety.

The damage is alleged to have occurred when the household goods of Mr. Bixby were attached by Olson in an effort to collect a grocery bill of less than $100. The goods were attached soon after Mr. Bixby's family moved from a suburban home east of the city two years ago and when the goods were in storage pending the removal of the family to Omaha. The daughters claimed that their personal property included in the seizure was valued at more than $1.000 and that they received damage to the amount of the large sum sued for. In federal court proceedings the claim of the daughters was established and their property was released after being held several months. In an amendment to their petition filed last Saturday the young women claimed much expensive stuff, representing the fine needle work and embroidery of its owners, was irreparably damaged during the period of its detention. Miss Helens Bixby was the only witness examined yesterday.

GEORGE WILSON ACCUSED

County Attorney Capell was yesterday engaged in trying to fasten upon George Wilson the theft of two horses from the farm of G. W. Young in Lewis township on the early morning of June 9 last. The case is on trial before Judge O. D. Wheeler in the criminal section of the district court. Five witnesses were examined yesterday by the state, and the links of their testimony will be hard to

Wilson was indicted for the theft of two horses and taking them across the bridge at dawn on the morning of June 9 and attempting to dispose of them. They were found in his possession while he was endeavoring to-trade them to Ben J. Keegan at Twentieth and Vinton streets at Wilson's connection with the stolen horses was first shown by O. K. Hardin, a Council Bluffs bartender, who resides at Twenty-fifth street and Broadway. At 4:30 o'clock while going to take a car to reach his saloon the horses passed him in the custody of a man answering the description of Wilson. He was leading one and riding the other. He stopped Hardin and inquired the way to the Douglas street bridge.

At 5 a. m. Tolltaker McClannahan testified that Wilson crossed the bridge with the horses, and that he seemed to be in such a hurry that he had to be called back to take his change after paying the toll. McClannaban noted the horses closely and questioned the man. His perfect description of the horses given soon after to their owner led to their discovery when G. W. Young believed they had been taken to the South Omaha market. He was on a South Omaha car
