> Manager Robinson of Plane Department Says Public is to Share in the Profits During Great Co-

Operative Plan.

Unless he has allowed his enthusiasm to run away with him, W. H. Robinson, manager of the Orkin Bros. piano department, is superintending the biggest activity in Omaha this fall, excepting, perhaps, the Ak-Sar-Ben. Mr. Robinson is putting on a big co-sperative plano sale whereby he works about six hours extra each day and gives the people of Omaha a chance to save $100 on the purchase of a plano.

The sale is a phenemenal one in the history of plane selling and is somewhat similar, although of much larger proportions, to the club that he held year. Orkin Bros. co-operate with the public in this sale and by so doing both parties concerned make a gain, as is always the case when co-operation supersedes competition. Okins secured 300 planos direct from the factories at ridioiously low cost and because it will be nore profitable to sell the planos at a educed price at once in place of holding them for a time and eventually receiving the market price, they decided to try the co-operative system of seiling.

The plano department of the Orkin Bros.' store is one of the best known in the west and this plano selling event for the next ninety days will surpass anything ever before attempted in this section of the country.

The co-operative spirit has attracted the attention of many large enterprises throughout the country and Orkin Bros. being over progressive, decided to work out the co-operative plan in selling planos.

Each piano is valued at $350, but will be sold during this co-operative sale at $248.75, thus saving the purchaser $101.25. There are also 100 player-planos included in this sale and are valued at $550 each. but under the co-operative plan of selling them they will be sold at $395.

The co-operative system includes an advanced plan of payment. It is the installment plan with plentiful variations that favor the purchaser. The initial payment is $5, while the subsequent weekly payments amount to $1.25 without interest. If the original purchaser should die all further payments will be eliminated and a signed certificate of ownership free from incumbrance will be given the heir of the deceased.

"The co-operative system is simple and in every way favors the customer." said Mr. Robinson, "and is a great opportunity for many to have planes in their mes who heretofore could not afford one on account of the large payment rerequired down and then the interest to pay on the balance. Under our plan, added Mr. Robinson, the buyer of a plane during this sale has no interest or any other side issues to pay."
