CHICAGO PACKER IS DEAD

Edward Morris Passes Away After Illness of Year.

HEAD OF LARGE CORPORATION

Wealth is Estimated at from Thirty to Fifty Million Dollars-- Leaves Two Sons and Two Daughters.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.--Edward Morris, president of Morris & Co., packers, died at his home here today after an illness of more than a year.

Mr. Morris was born in Chicago, 41 years ago and was the eldest son of the late Nelson Morris, pioneer packer. He suffered a nervous breakdown about a year ago and was obliged to give up active business. He spent last winter traveling in California in search of health, but when he returned last spring his friends noted that he had not been benefited by the trip.

The seriousness of his condition became known last week on the arrival of his brother Ira Nelson Morris, who hurried to Chicago from Italy in response to a cablegram. The decedent is survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters.

Edward Morris was a multimillionaire and one of the best known meat packers in the world.

Business Life Began Early. In the will of the late Nelson Morris, the building of the vast Morris fortune was attributed largely to the genius and energy of the oldest son, Edward, who began his business career when most of his companions were barely out of knickerbockers.

The wealth held by Edward Morris is estimated at between $20,000,000 to $50,000,000. He was credited with being the largest individual owner of bank stock in this city. He was a liberal contributor to many charities.

Young Morris was only 14 years old when he entered the office of his father as an employee. So keen was his interest and so great was the aptitude he displayed in business affairs, that even his father was astonished.

It is said of Mr. Morris that it was his custom to contribute to charities each year an amount equal to the sum expended for members of his family.

Mr. Morris married Helen L. Swift, daughter of the founder of Swift & Co., meat packers, in 1900.

Will of Elder Morris Broken. After the death of Nelson Morris in 1907 it was found that his will put the management of the entire estate into the hands of Edward Morris as managing trustee. The estate was to be tied up

NEGROES MAKE PROGRESS

BIG PROFITS IN GARDENS

Problem of Securing Money to Operate Small Tracts Being Solved by Negroes of Alabama.

By WILLIAM ANTHONY AERY. Nineteen years ago J. H. Blodgett, a southern negro, began his uphill climb with $1.30 in his pocket and a suit of underwear in a paper bag. Further, he was arrested as a tramp for wearing a straw hat in winter time. Today he owns 121 houses in Jacksonville, Fla., having a rental value of $2,500 a month. Blodgett got his start as a railroad senior washer at $1.50 a day. He and his wife worked hard, saved their money, and finally built their own home. He declares that there is no excuse for young, able-bodied negroes to waste their time in hotel work at $20 to $30 a month and tips when they can grow tomatoes in Florida at $1,000 an acre.

The struggle from bare hands to independence has been repeated again and again by negro farmers. They have made the southern soil produce more profitable crops and have thereby laid the foundation for an improved rural life, as shown in better schools, better homes and better churches. They speak for themselves. "When I was married," said an Alabama negro, "I borrowed everything--even the clothes that I was married in. I was charged from 20 to 25 per cent on all the money I got. Soon I tried to buy a cheap mule. I was told that if my father-in-law would stand responsible for me, $5.00 would be knocked off. If my brother-in-law would do, then another $5.00 would come off. These men had something. They had good reputations, too. If you own something you can get cheap money. If you have nothing, you are doing well to get it at 10 per cent. Now I have a six-horse farm of 227 acres and I rent forty acres. I have a good house of four rooms and have several two-room houses for my tenants."

Money for Small Farmers. The problem of securing cheaper money for the man on the land--the man of all men worth helping--is being solved by the negro farmers of Alabama, whose stories have been outlined. Ownership of the land, the building and maintaining of good, comfortable homes; improvement in the home spirit; the building up of strong, good characters; the production of home supplies; the steady attention to work--these are some of the important factors in securing cheaper money, not only for the negro farmers, but also for the white neighbors. These elements in progress will cut down the present high rates of interest, ranging, it is known, from 10 to 20 and 25 per cent, and collected by a variety of harsh methods. These factors are in the control of the farmers if they will simply do what the hard-working, teachable negro farmers of Alabama have done.

Intelligent hard work brings business success as well. B. L. Windham, of the contracting firm of Windham Bros., Birmingham, Ala., declares that efficiency and not color determines the kind of work that negroes receive. His firm has built a $100,000 apartment house for white people in Birmingham, Ala. It employs, on an average, 100 people--all negroes--throughout the year to handle some $200,000 worth of contracts. The business of this firm in negro contractors has grown from $50,000 in 1910 to $250,000 for seven months in 1913, and is carried on from the Mason and Dixon line to the Gulf of Mexico.

Another interesting event of the last year in the negro business world has been the opening of the $100,000 cotton-oil mill at Mound Bayou, Miss., a negro town which was founded by Isaiah T. Montgomery, an ex-slave of Joseph Davis, brother of Jefferson Davis.

Room for More Progress. Ten million American negroes now pay taxes on over $700,000,000 worth of property and own 200,000 acres of land, that is, about $1,000 square miles. They own sixty-three banks, capitalized at $2,000,000 and doing an annual business of $20,000,000. Today there are negro business leagues in twelve states.

Will the American negro, especially the city negro, acquire his share through hard work and thrift? Will young negroes quit the pool rooms with their debasing affects and march into usefulness and comfort on the land? Will the negro seek the signs of civilization--the automobile and the dress suit--and miss civilization as it is represented in the home and the bank account? Will the negro forego some pleasures today so as to enjoy richer treasures tomorrow? Will the negro allow others to think and plan for him instead of thinking and planning for himself?

There is, indeed, according to Booker T. Washington, room in this country, without conflicting with the interests of white people, for 500,000 more negro farms, 1,000 sawmills, 1,000 brickyards, 4,000 grocery stores, 2,000 dry goods stores, 1,000 shoe stores, 1,500 millinery shops, 1,000 drug stores and ninety banks.

Mrs. Pankhurst Fears Daughter Is Being Tortured

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.--Revelations of sufferings undergone by Miss Sylvia Pankhurst recently, greatly perturbed her mother, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, here today when she received a letter from her other daughter, Christabel.

The letter stated that Miss Sylvia again had been subjected to forcible feeding after being "starved within an inch of her life."

"Sylvia had a great and successful fight Monday, but on Tuesday was arrested by fifty policemen and a collection of plain clothes men," ran the letter. "We shall fight our best for her and the case will be put to play up. Annie (Miss Annie Kenney) is working in health than she has ever been and we are making for her protection."

Miss Christabel asks if her mother can do anything to interest American physicians to bring pressure on their British colleagues. Without them, she says, the "cat and mouse" torture would be impossible. The doctors, she says, watch the starving patient weaken to the last limit of safety; then scientifically but forcibly feed them back to life again.

"The doctor is in fact the only one who has any power over the suffragist and he is not only policeman, but torturer," continues the letter. "It was the International Medical congress that saved me and Annie Kenney last summer, so evidently the doctors of other lands have some influence."

Wealthy Mexican Arrested. EL PASO, Nov. 3.--General Luis Terrezosa, reputed to be the wealthiest man in Mexico, is reported a prisoner of the Mexican federal authorities at Juarez. Military officials in Juarez deny knowledge of his presence, but the rumor is persistent that General Terrezosa and members of his family came to Juarez yesterday on the special train that brought General Francisco Castro, and that Terrezosa was detained in Juarez.

General Castro took command of the Juarez garrison last night. Simultaneously Guillermo Cruz, mayor of Juarez, came to El Paso and today General Castro announced Luis Comandran as the new mayor.

Two hundred and fifty reinforcements were sent from Juarez to Chihuahua today. The federalists still hold the city of Chihuahua, according to advices in Juarez.

Bay State Tax on Corporations Legal

BOSTON, Nov. 3.--An income of $20,000 a year is saved to the state by the supreme court's decision today upholding the Massachusetts foreign corporation tax law.

The supreme court had declared unconstitutional somewhat similar laws adopted by Kansas, Arkansas and Colorado, on the ground that the tax was a burden on interstate commerce.

The law provides that every foreign corporation doing business in Massachusetts shall pay annually to the commonwealth a tax of one-fiftieth of 1 per cent on the par value of its authorized capital stock, such tax not to exceed $2,000.

HARVESTER CASE IS ARGUED

Suit to Dissolve Combine Nears the Final Stages.

EDWIN P. GROSVENER OPENS

Assistant Attorney General Asks Dismissal of Suit to Dissolve Combine Nears the Final Stages.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 3.--Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to Attorney General McReynolds in opening final arguments for dissolution of the International Harvester company before the United States district court, today asked for dissolution in such manner as to prevent, effectively, a possibility of two or more of the disintegrated parts coming into ownership of companies having common stockholders.

Mr. Grosvenor declared the International Harvester company is in and of itself a combination in restraint of trade in harvesting implements, and a monopoly, and as such proper safeguards should be made by the courts to prevent a possible re-establishment of such monopoly after dissolution by the method of interlocking directorates.

Mr. Grosvenor pointed out how the supreme court had applied the standard of "rule of reason" in nine cases decided since the court established the rule in the Standard Oil and Tobacco decisions, holding every combination unlawful that smothered competition and monopolized trade.

According to an announcement made this morning after the certificate and report of Special Examiner Robert S. Taylor for the government will occupy the day, and possibly a portion of tomorrow's session, in the presentation of arguments. It was indicated that a brief argument of the defense might take even longer.

Attorney General James C. McReynolds, Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to the attorney general, and Joseph R. Darling, special agent of the Department of Justice, were in the city to represent the government.

The Harvester company had on hand a formidable array of counsel, including Judge William D. McHugh of Omaha, Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul, Edgar A. Bancroft, John P. Wilson, Philip A. Post, Victor A. Remy and W. M. Stillwell, the last five being from Chicago.

"Cyrus H. McCormick," Mr. Grosvenor said, "went to New York in the spring of 1902 to consult some of the leading lawyers to see whether a combination of the harvesting manufacturers could be made locally."

"He saw William Nelson Cromwell, Francis Lynde Stetson, and others. Crom-

Russian Priest's Charges Against Jews Indefinite

KIEV, Nov. 3.--"Vaudeville" is the term used today by the Kievsky Mysl in referring to the testimony of Father Pranas, the priest of Turkestan, at the trial of Mendel Beilis for the murder of the boy, Andrew Yushinsky. It adds that the priest has proved a "broken reed" for the prosecution.

Judge Boldirev, the president of the court room, became impatient at today's hearing when Father Pranas continually replied "I don't know" to questions and was unable even to indicate the texts of the Talmud and the Bible on which he based his denunciation of the Jews. The judge sharply demanded whether the witness could hear the questions put to him.

The priest did not confine his charges to any particular sect of fanatics, but declared that all Jews were concerned in ritual observances.

After making an allusion to the significance of the number of wounds and to the method of killing employed, the priest said the object of ritual crimes was to hasten the arrival of the Messiah.

When asked to produce the book containing description of those practices, the priest replied that it was in St. Petersburg.

Boulder on Track Wrecks Fast Train

LACROSSE, Wis., Nov. 3.--Passenger train No. 58 on the Burlington railroad was wrecked near Genoa, Wis., early today, when the locomotive struck a boulder half the size of a box car, which had been dislodged by recent rains and rolled down the bluff to the track.

Engineer James M. Pratt, LaCrosse, was possibly fatally injured. His jaw was broken and the side of his face crushed in. Four Italian track laborers and a negro porter were also injured, not fatally.

First reports of the accident received here were that the wrecked train was the Oriental limited, the coast train which runs a little behind No. 58. The coast train, however, was not harmed, but was delayed several hours. No. 58 is also a first class train and faster than the Oriental limited.
