Short Course of Iowa Agricultural College Attractive to Farmers.

PLEDGING TO PROMOTE WORK

Five Hundred and Possibly More Are Expected to Take Part in the Meeting Next January.

W. G. Children, president of the Ames College Short Course association, called a meeting at the court house yesterday afternoon of the officers and members of the organization, formed to aid in the work of popularizing the work of the extension department of the college by widening the sphere of local interest in the annual courses of instruction designated short courses. The meeting yesterday comprised all of those residing near the city and pledged to promote the work.

A partial reorganization was made necessary by the resignation of Bruce W. Crossley, vice president. W. G. Rich was selected to fill the vacancy. Committees were selected to take charge of the various departments. Nearly 500 pledges to attend the course were submitted. J. W. Mitchell, secretary of the Commercial club, was made chairman of the committee on advertising and membership; C. J. Stillwell, domestic science department; H. C. Lewis, stock judging committee; Mark Stageman, grain judging; R. B. Wallace, contests and exhibits, and Henry Peterson was given charge of the work ahead of those responsible for the enrollment.

Prof. Paul C. Taff of the Ames college was present and increased local interest by detailing the additions to be made to the course this year in connection with all of the lines taught last year. The two most important additions will be horticulture and poultry. Prof. Taff announced that all of the work in the first and second year agricultural courses would be carried on simultaneously, so that those who took the work last year need not fear of having it forced upon them second time.

The domestic science course will be extended, but will take in all of the work given the students last year. The college official declared that the whole course this year would be far ahead of that pursued with so much interest and value last year.

It has been decided to hold this winter's term of the state's greatest university January 25 and 27. The Auditorium has been engaged for its capacity, including the annex, will be required. The annex will be used for the stock and grain contests, exhibits and instruction. The officers of the association will have another meeting one week from today. The fact that 500 pledges of class membership have been secured indicates the interest aroused. Last year there were about 300. It is believed that the number will considerably exceed the 500 pledged.

Highway Boosters Are to Throw Dirt

The Lincoln highway boosters who have not only put Council Bluffs on the map, but compelled the world to stop and look at it when they pulled off the stunt of lighting the first bonfire that blazed across the country from ocean to ocean, are planning to claim some more first honors. One small one has been earned, but nearly overlooked in the brilliancy of the first. It was achieved the morning of October 31, when Lincoln sign posters from Council Bluffs invaded Missouri Valley and posted the last signs before the people there were out of their beds. T. D. Metcalf, president of the Council Bluffs Commercial club, attended a big meeting at Missouri Valley the previous night and about midnight when his party was preparing to return home, he announced that the Bluffs men would post every sign between the two towns on the following day. The Missouri Valley men promised to do the six miles of the route that lies within Harrison county, and Metcalf told them they would have to set up signs early in the day. At 7 o'clock the next morning the Bluffs sign posters, Gus Louie and C. J. Stillwell, posted the last sign right in the town it self.

The next honor is to be the most important of all. President Metcalf declared yesterday that the first actual work on the great highway would be done between Council Bluffs and Missouri Valley and upon the plains of the national highway engineers.

"Now, just watch our smoke and see if this honor is not also earned," said Mr. Metcalf last evening.

Room-Making Sale at Kilpatrick's Starts When the Clock Strikes 8 on Monday Morn

There's a Common Sense reason for everything that we do—This applies alike to the general conduct of our business as well

AS SPECIAL SALES

You can be MORALLY certain that whenever KILPATRICK'S announce a sale—IT'S A REAL SALE—and there's a reason.

We read an article recently bearing the caption "WILL IT WORK?"—in which President Wilson's attitude toward Mexico was styled "An Uncompromising Political Idealism." In a speech at Atlanta recently he declared "Morality, not expediency is the thing that must guide us." This is a new note in Politics and a new slogan in diplomacy, but as Truth is Eternal, sooner or later his course must win. Commercial Morality has been our guiding star all the year—and at last it has won—the Fakir must change his method or get out of business. There are hopeful signs. Some of the greatest advertising fakirs that this country has ever produced are beginning to talk truthful advertising and honest merchandising—only talking it yet, however. No easy matter for the leopard to change his spots. Indeed, before the reform is genuine there may have to be a change of animal.

But this is beside the story—each year we have to make room for our China display. This year more room is needed than ever before—for the importation is a bigger, much bigger one than in previous years. Nothing for it then but to reduce the stock of

BLANKETS AND BEDDING

So here goes for Monday—
Comforters at $1.59 instead of $1.75.
Comforters at $1.79 instead of $2.00.
Comforters at $1.98 instead of $2.25.
Comforters at $2.19 instead of $2.50.
Comforters at $2.49 instead of $2.75.
Comforters at $2.69 instead of $3.00.

Wool Mixed Blankets in plaids, and pure white. These are beauties, at $3.98 instead of $4.50.

Note the reasonableness of these statements compared with the fairy tales which you may have seen lately on BLANKETS which "Our Cash" and our wonderful purchasing power did. Buncombe—the other fellow's cash is as good as ours.

Specials on White Baby Flannels—22¢ instead of 30c; 35c instead of 45c; 40c instead of 50c; 45c instead of 60c, and 50c instead of 65c.

We keep our regular stock of blankets in envelopes or cartons and sell the goods from sample pairs. We are going to sell the sample blankets Monday. Some are soiled just a tiny bit—otherwise perfect, and our regular stock.

A cheese cloth "Kovered Kotton Komforter" at $1.29 instead of $1.50
Waste Paper Baskets Monday 98c

Cotton Blankets, Gray and Tan—
75c instead of 85c; 89c instead of $1; $1.10 instead of $1.25; $1.29 instead of $1.50; $1.79 instead of $2; $2.29 instead of $2.50.

Plaid Blankets
$1.59 instead of $1.75; $2.29 instead of $2.50; $2.98 instead of $3.50.

$2.98 for a Beacon instead of $4.50.

Look in the windows when you are down town Monday. Pays to keep a weather eye open now—for there's do-in's daily.

Here's how we'll sell the slightly soiled stock:

$2.95 for Blankets which were $4.50.
$3.95 for Blankets which were $6.00.
$4.75 for Blankets which were $6.50.
$6.75 for Blankets which were $8.50.
$7.50 for Blankets which were $9.00.
$7.75 for Blankets which were $10.

Not a good many of these, so be on time.

White Embroidered Flannels at $1.39 per yard instead of $1.75.

We meant to say something about "Teachers' Warrants"—space will not permit. We'll defer it till a more convenient season.

Woman Gets Films and Lowers Prices

These promises to be a merry fight between at least one of the independent film companies and the giant film trust that practically controls the moving picture business of the entire country. The trouble was brought about by Mrs. White, a navy little Council Bluffs woman, who leased the old Dohany theater building and reopened it as a film show with a 5-cent admission price.

Half a dozen men had attempted to make the business pay and had gone broke, but it was when nearly all of the picture shows in town were charging the 5-cent rate. When the price was jumped to 10 cents, Mrs. White conceived the idea of re-establishing the low rates in the Dohany theater. She secured the lease and made her contracts with a Kansas City film agency.

Arrangements were made to open the play house on Thursday night and arrangements were made for the first shipments of reels to reach Council Bluffs Thursday morning. They were shipped from Kansas City all right, but were held up somewhere—Omaha, it is said—and an audience of more than 1,000 people waited in vain in the theater for the show to open.

When it became evident the films had been sidetracked the fact was announced to the audience and all were offered their money. Most of the people, however, good-naturedly took tickets with the determination to use them last night. The result was that when the curtain went up early 1,000 people were cheering. Mrs. White, energetically working at this end and the film company at Kansas City, located the missing films in Omaha early in the day.

Yesterday afternoon it was announced that the big film trust had begun a fight against the Kansas City firm. The only alternative was an agreement to compel Mrs. White to raise the price of admission to 10 cents. Mrs. White has returned an emphatic no upon advice of the Kansas City firm and the fight is on. It is being directed by the Omaha agency.

Chauffeur Gives an Explanation

Charles Hubbard, driver of the taxicab belonging to the Omaha Unique Auto Livery company, which smashed into the automobile of Charles Puryear of Oakland, Ia., severely injuring Mr. Puryear and three other members of his party, has been required to file a bond of $50 for his appearance in police court here today.

Hubbard was held at the Council Bluffs police station for several hours after the accident Thursday night, until his employer came over with the required cash deposit. Investigation yesterday did not reveal any negligence on the part of Hubbard, and his explanation that he had gone over to the wrong side of the street to avoid several motorcycles which were approaching was verified.

The lights of the automobiles were confused with those of the motorcycles and Hubbard's story that he did not see the Puryear car until too late to avoid a head-on collision is taken to be reasonable. Hubbard was returning to Omaha with a party of men and women and was approaching the eastern end of the bridge when they met the motorcycles and the Puryear car coming from Omaha. He says he was going about fifteen miles an hour and that the Puryear car was moving at about the same speed.

Dr. C. E. Baxter and Chester and Charles Anderson of Oakland, who were the others in the Puryear car, were able to return to their homes yesterday. All were very badly bruised and out. Dr. Baxter and Mr. Puryear receiving the severest injuries. It was stated yesterday that two of the women in the taxicab were slightly hurt. The Puryear car was much lighter than the other and was most badly damaged.

Gannaway a Candidate.
GRINNELL, Ia., Nov. 7.—(Special.)—Prof. John W. Gannaway of this city, successor in the chair of political science to Prof. Jesso Macy, retired, has announced himself as a candidate on the republican ticket for representative for Pottawattamie county. He is 38 years old, a graduate of the college here and was for four years an editorial writer on one of the papers of Milwaukee. He has been in the city council here and attended the county last year for the republican ticket. He took a post-graduate course in logic colleges and in the University of Wisconsin in political science.

University of Omaha People at Dinner

Friday noon at the University club, members of the faculty and alumni of the University of Omaha had an informal dinner. A number of the alumni of the school were attending the teachers' convention, thus giving members of the faculty a chance to hold a small reunion. Dr. D. E. Jenkins, president, gave a brief talk, expressing his pleasure at meeting some of the early students of the University. Other members of the faculty, as well as some of the alumni gave brief talks. Hand-painted place cards adorned the plates. Those present were: President and Mrs. D. E. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jerome, Mrs. Bernice Grant, Misses—Selma Anderson, F. P. Ramsay, Rhea Lamoreaux, J. Tabica, Vera Pink, W. N. Halsey, Zella Beebe, S. Gifford, Claudia Galloway, A. W. Carpenter, Augusta Knight, W. T. Graham, Helen Hansen, A. W. T. Graham, Edna Sweetly, Fanny Williams.

MASON CITY WILL HAVE FIFTY THOUSAND ARMORY

MASON CITY, Ia., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—The stockholders for the new armory to be erected in this city held a meeting last night. It was reported that $15,000 had been subscribed and it was developed during the discussion that something like $50,000 would be needed in the enterprise that was then launched. The purpose now is to erect in conjunction with the armory a canteen that will accommodate any sort of a convention that might wish to come to this city. There are several available locations and a committee was appointed to make a

Burglar is Caught in Hiddleton Home

A burglar was caught last night in the home of C. L. Hiddleton, 736 First avenue, by Night Captain Shaefer. The police have been making an extra endeavor to capture the match burglar who has entered a number of homes and followed the man last night who entered the Hiddleton house. The family was at home and gave the alarm at the same time the police came up from the outside. The man gave the name of John
