SCHOOL AND COLLEGE WORK

Importance of Proper Light in School Rooms. SAFEGUARD CHILDREN'S EYES Musical, Dramatic, Literary and Social Diversities in Student Life in Nearby Schools. Discussing the importance of light in school rooms, the American Medical Association Journal reiterates the now well known fact that children's eyes are often seriously damaged by improper lighting or distribution of light. "This should be remembered," says the Journal, "in building school houses. Modern school architects and hygienists have worked out some definite plans to conserve eyesight, which should not be forgotten. For instance, in northern countries, where sunlight is less prevalent than in southern countries, and where fog, clouds and smoke are common, school rooms should have one-fourth as much window glass as there is floor space. In southern countries, where the atmosphere is clear, one-sixth window glass space is sufficient. The bottom of the windows should be four feet above the floor. Windows should be as numerous as is consistent with safe construction. They should be as far back in the room as possible, with the light of the pupils. The windows should be contained between iron or steel mullions and their edges should be grounded to permit of the ingress of light and its useful distribution, and to prevent shadows falling on the desks. As the best light comes from above, the windows should extend to the ceilings. If hills or tall buildings are close to the school, prismatic or ribbed glass should be used in the upper portions of the windows, but not in the lower portions, as too much glare is produced. Blinds should be used. They are expensive and inefficient. Use double shades, so large that light cannot enter. They should be fastened in the center of the window and should roll up or down, so that light can be admitted from either above or below. The curtains should be light green in color. Blackboards absorb much light, and should be covered by light curtains on dark days and when not in use."

AFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Saloon Man Mobbbed When Closes Place at Eight O'clock. BARTENDER'S ARM IS BROKEN Man Accused by Mistake of Being Burlington Train Holdup—Rumansians Get Duplicate Marriage License. Joe Labich, proprietor of a saloon at 2612 L street and his two bartenders Alois Stoval and George Crnowski, were severely cut and the saloon nearly demolished by a crowd of men whom they attempted to eject from the place at 8:45 o'clock in order to comply with the closing law. Labich was cut about the head and face by a glass and Stoval had his left arm broken by a flying brick. Labich's saloon was ordered closed a few days ago by the Fire and Police board because of alleged violations of the closing law. By special request the board permitted the saloon to run until such time as the board might think proper. Last night when the hour of closing approached the place was filled with men drinking and rowding. Labich feared of another descent of the police ordered the place closed at 8:45 o'clock. The men in the saloon objected and Labich and his bartenders set about clearing the place by main force. They succeeded in getting their patrons out in the street and the door closed. Then the half dozen men began a bombardment of bricks, firearms and missiles of all kinds. Windows were smashed, doors broken, glasses and crockery demolished. Several shots were fired and the proprietor and one of his bartenders severely injured before the police were able to respond to the call. Practically all the police of the city not on their beats hurried out to the scene. Bud Neff and Stanley Kreynski were arrested under suspicion of being implicated in the row. The injured men were brought to the station and their wounds dressed by Dr. E. J. Shanahan. What led to the scene of the trouble the police came across numerous violations of the law, it is said, including a crap game from which the players and proprietors are said to have escaped through windows, doors and every other avenue of escape. Weary Pair Married. After waiting for some months for the return of a woman friend, who had returned to Rumania taking with her a marriage license issued by Nick Stroala and Mary Kamunic, the weary pair yesterday obtained a duplicate copy and asked Police Magistrate James Callanan to make them one. Stroala told the judge that a woman friend had misled the original license issued to himself and his wife or taken it with her when she went to Rumania some months ago. The pair waited wearily for the return of their countrywoman with the license, but lost patience yesterday and got a new permit to wed. The judge spiced them. Back to Reform School. Oliver Coy, paroled from Kearney after serving three and one half years there, was taken back to the institution yesterday for stealing $1 from his mother, Mrs. J. Coy, Forty-sixth and Q streets. The lad is 16 years past and according to his story he is in poor health. His appearance bears out his statement. Probation Officer Paul Macaulay says the boy was incorrigible and violated every condition of his parole. While locked in the jail the boy cried bitterly as he told of treatment received at the Kearney school, where he said he had been beaten in bed by officers of the institution. He told some of the police that Probation Officer Macaulay had hounded him. He admitted taking the $1 from his mother, but declared that he had returned it. He was taken back last night by Officer Thompson of the Kearney school. Old Man Assaulted. Wesley Pettit was arrested yesterday afternoon at Twenty-sixth and Q streets by Officer Joe Potach, who locked the man up on a charge of robbing and beating William Miller, an old man. The police say that Miller had a pal drunk with the old man Friday night at the Willow Springs saloon in Albright. Miller was later decaying into a dark place and robbed after being beaten into submission. Made Target of Geese. Because she objected to Isadore Bonuscyski, a 15-year-old boy, shooting at her geese, Mrs. Albert Piska of Thirty-second and H streets was shot in the left breast by the lad. Bonuscyski's forenoon he is said to have been engaged in killing Mrs. Piska's geese with an air rifle. The woman called to the boy to stop and the lad is said to have turned the weapon on the woman. Dr. Edward Chaloupka dressed the woman's wound, which is not dangerous. A warrant was sworn out for the Bonuscyski boy. Referendum Ballot On Tax Legislation

For the committee of Nebraska editors appointed by the last state convention in Omaha to investigate taxation, the chairman, L. J. Quinby, has prepared sort of a referendum ballot to ascertain through the newspapers the public sentiment on the subject. The questions to which answers are sought are as follows: Do you favor the adoption of the amendment submitted by the last legislature giving to the legislature larger powers in the matter of tax legislation? Do you believe in the taxation of farm implements and machinery, farm improvements, crops, stock or other products of the farm? The present constitution gives to the legislature power to exempt trusts from taxation. Do you think it would be better for the legislature to pass an act exempting from taxation all trusts? Do you believe in the taxation of merchants or manufacturers' goods or tools of production? Do you believe in the taxation of personal property, either in the form of motor automobiles or of other goods? Do you believe in the exemption of improvements from taxation, whether such improvements are in the form of business blocks, factory buildings or homes? Do you believe in inheritance or estate income taxes? What would you think of the taxation of franchises according to their stock market value? Do you favor the practice of levying upon only one-fifth of the assessed value of properties? If you are in favor of exemption of any or all of the above enumerated properties from taxation, from what source would you recommend that revenue for the maintenance of public institutions should come? Would you favor local control of taxation?

Omaha Man Aids in Bringing Rural Credit

As a result of deliberations in Washington of a committee of the United States League of Business Associations, which will be attended by George G. Gilmore of Omaha, farmers of the United States may be enabled to borrow money at low rates of interest without waiting for action by the government on the subject of "rural credit." Mr. Gilmore, who is president of the Conservative Building and Loan association, has devoted considerable time to the study of the project. He left here yesterday. The committee, which will meet Tuesday in Washington, is authorized to present a definite plan of handling rural credits for loan associations. If the plan materializes farmers will be able to borrow money from them for moving crops, buying feeding animals and various other purposes. NEWS NOTES FROM THE UNIVERSITY OF OMAHA Superintendent of the Fremont Public Schools J. H. Wagoner, found it impossible to lecture to the students at the University of Omaha Thursday noon because of the large amount of work he was doing at the teachers' convention. A number of the students at the school took a hike to Calhoun Thursday afternoon coming back to Omaha on the evening train. The hike was one of the longest ever taken by University of Omaha students. The members of the party returned home a happy, but tired gang. Prof. F. P. Ramsey, head of sacred literature at the university, has written a book on "Genesis," which is having a good sale among the seminaries and religious schools of the country. His book deals with the textual criticism of Genesis. The A. T. C., one of the boys' clubs at the university, gave a box party at the Orpheum Friday evening. After the show the club had supper at the Henchman. This was the first of a number of activities planned by the A. T. C. A glee club composed of the male members at the school will be organized in the near future. A large number of boys have expressed their desire of joining such an organization. A great number of the boys have excellent voices and a satisfactory glee club is expected to be organized. The club will be the first one of its sort to be started at the school. The debating club has started to get down to work in earnest. In a few days preliminary work will be completed to select a team to represent the school. It is planned to have two teams so that one may support the negative and affirmative side of the questions chosen. A series of debates are to be arranged with neighboring schools, among whom will be Tarkenton, Western Union and perhaps Nebraska Wesleyan. A number of the faculty gave a dinner Friday noon at the university to honor those who were in Omaha attending the teachers' convention. President D. E. Jennings gave a short talk to the university of Omaha alumni, presiding at the meeting of former students of the Omaha school. While in Omaha several members of the alumni visited the university. There was no school at the University of Omaha Friday, as most of the faculty were at the teachers' convention. The greater number of students took the off-day in preparing for the mid-term examinations, which will be held in a short time. A class in leather and brass handicraft work has been started at the university in charge of Charles H. Wright, instructor in fine arts. The class expects to have the greatest amount of its work done by Christmas, as the handicraft work makes desirable Christmas presents. Sometimes she sings merrier lays and then her audience joins with her in recounting the joys of other days in the lowland town beyond the sea. "How often have you sung before the king?" a reporter asked her yesterday. "Oh," she laughed, "since I was a little child." "Did the king ever reward you?" The question was translated for her and she laughed merrily. "But no," she said, with a little French twivel to her shoulder; "he was not of that sort." She admitted that the late Leopold had gone so far as to pat her head when, as a child, she sang before him in Ghent. To Probe Death of Child. County Attorney George Magney will assist at the inquest upon the death of little Herman Bruus, the little 7-year-old lad who was run down and killed Wednesday evening by an automobile driven by L. Did Child Wake Up Cross or Feverish?

Look Mother! If tongue is coated give "California Syrup of Figs" to clean the bowels.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once. When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given. Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's life; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the food waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle. Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Counterfeits are being sold here. Don't be fooled.—Advertisement.
