"The demand for land is great and was stimulated by the Omaha land show. There is very little land in the country that, has not been filed upon for homestead, but there is still land that is ing held by the state or can be claimed on relinquishments. The Colville Indian reservation will soon be thrown open to the public so that approximately 1,000,000 scres of choice land will add to the reources of the state. The Indians have been given allotments to severalty and it is thought that the reservation will be given to the public within a year. The government also intends planning a govnment townsite at old Fort Okanogan and has already set uside 700 acres for that purpose. The site is that of the old fort where John Jacob Astor established his second fur trading post in 1810.

Water Has Big Fall. "The country is an ideal one for irrigation. The Methow and Similkameen are rivers which fall very precipitously. The Methow drops 1,000 feet in fifty miles at one stretch, which shows how easy it in to secure the water and grade the "Okanogan county is a coming county and the fruit in that county right around Oroville is already taking prizes. I also hope to see some mining affvancement. We have a number of mines around Oroville, but they are alf low grade ore and the high cost of transportation renders them poor payers. But the railroad has changed the situation and at present several mines are in full working order and as soon as more roads enter the county and the transpertation cost decreases a bit more, I believe that they will all work constantly. The country has possibilities and I expect to live to see it become a populous as well as prosperous community."

"The most common practice in the crop payment plan of sales is for the owner of the land to agree to sell the tract at a stipulated price and agree to accept Fontenelle Hotel half of the crops grown each year at the then market price as yearly payments, giving the purchaser the option of paying off the debt at any time in cash. In such cases the purchaser usually agrees to put on certain improvements year. This plan does not require any cash payment at the time of purchase and is usually an advantage to both seller and buyer as the money paid down is used able and more surely assures the success of the purchaser.

"I am just now seriously considering whether or not in the future we should help any one make sales who is not willing to sell lands on the crop payment plan. It means more cultivation and more real farmers, and that is what we all want. Our state is not now producing anything like it should, Millions of scres are held by speculators that ought to be bought by renters and many, many thousands of renters would buy lands on the crop payment plan that are not willing to risk losing what they now have by cramping themselves to make a cash
