WANT TRAIN ON ALBION LINE

Mrs. Frank Cole Writes to Find Where Her Sister Is.

COMPLAINT MADE ON RATES

Say that Rates on Corn and Live Stock Are Out of Proportion Between Omaha and Gilmore.

Wants Her Sister.

Mrs. Frank Cole, who lives at Greenwood, Idaho, has written Auditor Howard asking him to find her sister Mary Brunner, who was adopted by a family named Soudras at a town called Chataqua in some state east of Nebraska twenty-six years ago and came to this state. She has heard nothing of her since that time and wants to hear from her.

Complain of Rates.

John Fitz Roberts, a commission man at South Omaha and who also farms a farm near Gilmore, with Charles Hoffman, Thomas Gledhill and L. D. Lively, make complaint to the railway commission that the Union Pacific rates on corn and live stock from Omaha to Gilmore are such that it is a hardship on the farmers of that town who desire to ship over the road between the two towns.

Get Share of Sales.

A draft for $47,033, which is 5 per cent of the net sales of government land made in Nebraska for the fiscal year ending June 1, 1913, was received by Governor Morehead from Washington this morning and Chief Clerk Hinkle promptly deposited it with the state treasurer to the credit of Nebraska as its share of the sales.

Notes from Beatrice and Gage County

BEATRICE, Neb., Nov. 22.—(Special.)—A petition was filed in the county court Friday asking that William F. and Carl Krueger be appointed administrators of the estate of Michael Krueger, who was killed last week near Cortland by falling from his wagon. The eight children and widow are heirs of personal property valued at $10,000 and 800 acres of land in the vicinity of Cortland.

Chicken thieves have been operating with considerable success the last few weeks in the vicinity of Cortland. One farmer living south of that place reports that 100 chickens were stolen from his place the other night.

W. J. Pease, a well-known Odd Fellow and for years engaged in the candy business in this city, is lying at the point of death at his home here.

Adjutant Hall inspected Company C here last evening in the new armory and expressed much satisfaction over the showing made by the company. Badges were presented to the sharpshooters and marksmen who participated in the rifle shoot held at Plattsmouth. Lieutenant Pethoud was presented with a bronze medal for his services as head guard at the state fair grounds.

Miss Rebekah Lodge No. 13, an auxiliary to the Odd Fellows, held a meeting here Friday night and elected these officers: Noble grand, Mrs. C. A. Scamman; vice grand, Mrs. J. L. Webb; secretary, Mrs. H. C. Brenker; treasurer, Mrs. Mollie Brown. At the close of the business session a banquet was served.

The Gage County Farmers' Institute will be held in Beatrice, December 9 to 20. D. S. Dulbey is president and John Essam secretary of the institute.

Janitors May Not Keep the Pin Money

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Nov. 22.—(Special.)—Pity the poor janitor of the state house for there will be no turkey on his table on Thanksgiving day, notwithstanding Governor Morehead has issued orders that all men should rejoice and be happy.

It is all caused by the fact that "the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft a-gley," or something like that. It has always been the custom to allow the janitors to accumulate a little pin money by selling the waste paper and other truck which accumulates about the state house to the junk dealer. It did not amount to very much, but it kept the janitors in good nature and they were continually looking in the dark places for junk. This week they were told to clean out the old storeroom vault containing the ancient history of bygone legislatures and cart it to the outside for the junk man. With visions of turkey for Thanksgiving they worked like slaves only to be told by Secretary of State Wait, when the job was completed, that the proceeds would be placed in the coffers of the state.

GOVERNOR AGAINST STATE OFFICIALS CHAUTAUQUING

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 22.—(Special.)—Governor Morehead is "with the government" in many of the things which Nebraska allows its officials to do and believes that the time has come when all good officers ought to quit the practice of running around the state making speeches while the public pays the bills.

Reports Made on Labor Accidents

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 22.—(Special.)—Of the 102 accidents reported to the labor commissioner during the time he has been in office, a period of about seven months, eighty-six of them are reported from Omaha. The time of disablement runs all the way from one day to permanent disablement, though there is only one of the latter kind reported, that of Jos. Aboud, who had his left hand mangled in a roller in an Omaha factory.

Three cases are reported as fatal. One of these was J. E. Eidenbury of Lincoln, who fell down some steps into the engine room of the Lincoln Gas company; Frank Leonard of Omaha, who received a fractured spine by falling from a pole while in the employ of the Omaha Electric Light company, and Peter Hock, who was killed in Omaha by being run over by a car.

A WINDOWLESS SKYSCRAPER

Walls of Solid Glass and a Noiseless Interior Are New Developments.

New York's newest development of the skyscraper is a windowless building. Although twelve stories high and housing five technical magazines besides a dozen other enterprises connected with engineering, the building will receive its light through walls of solid glass, get its ventilation by an artificial current of filtered air circulated through ducts from basement to roof, and be as near dust-proof and noise-proof as science and ingenuity can make any habitation set down in that strenuous town.

In a sense one might call the building all windowless, the reservation, however, that the window is not to be raised. The front and sides will be of glass, fitted in steel framework. On the interior the glass will be a polished plate and on the exterior it will have a roughened surface especially designed to throw back the heat waves and soften the light rays.

This odd building, ground for which was broken a few days ago at the corner of Tenth avenue and Thirty-sixth street, is the Hill engineering building and will provide a home for five technical magazines—Engineering News, The Engineering and Mining Journal, American Machinist, Power, and Coal Age, and furnish office quarters for many interests connected with these technical trades. Because in the one building there are to be both the machinery room and the editorial sanctum, special pains were taken to plan a building in which noise and vibration and concomitant annoyances should be reduced to a minimum.

Two advantages are gained by eliminating window openings, it is claimed. First, there is no direct communication with the outer atmosphere, and so no direct communication with its smoke and dirt and grime. Second, its noises are shut out and occupants have only to regulate the noises within to suit themselves. The ventilating system supplies all the advantages that open windows could give, with none of their disadvantages. Drafts are done away with. The testy bookkeeper with rheumatism can have no occasion to quarrel with the girl stenographer who persists in working by a breezy window. The advocates of the new system claim that it will provide air that is cooler and cleaner and more healthful than any that could possibly come in through a window. In summer no humidity will be felt in this building, for the humidity will all be washed out in the air filters. In winter there will be no dampness, for the ventilators will serve the warm air.

The anti-noise campaign does not stop at shutting out the noises of the street but includes a carefully worked out policy for reducing the vibration inside the building. The machinery is placed on piers and so arranged that its vibration is not communicated to the walls and upper floors. All the floors are to be rubber-tiled, the typewriters are noiseless machines, and other contrivances to reduce noise are included in the plan.

Another novel feature in the projected building is the mall chute, which is not the usual narrow straight-up-and-down shaft for letters and mail, but in this case is a spiral, seven feet in diameter, from the ninth floor to the street level. Whole sacks of mail can be dumped into this, and will safely descend the spiral to the repository below.

Chutes may be used as a way of escape. Beside the towers on Broadway and Wall street, twelve stories seems a very dwarfish skyscraper. But these twelve stories are to be about the tallest twelve stories in town. Between the floors and ceilings of the first ten stories the space will be fourteen feet, which is two feet more than most office buildings afford. The two upper stories will be made into one with twenty-two feet from floor to ceiling.

So in a great many ways this projected glass house is to be unique and odd and interesting. It may set a new style in skyscrapers.—Boston Transcript

LOW SCORES ON THE ALLEYS

Gibsons Manage to Pull Up a Notch and Break Their Own Record.

CLOSE RACES IN SMALL LEAGUES

Meeting of the Greater Omaha Bowling Association Falls to Come Up to Expectations of Interested Ones.

The local tenpin rollers didn't set the world on fire last week with any large amount of classy scores, although the Mickey Gibsons in the Gage City league broke their league record in team totals with 2,734. Among the individuals Wartchow outclassed them all by putting together three games that totaled 700. Aside from these scores nothing startling was pulled off, the average run of bowlers being clear down in the 400 column. Instead of a high score being the talk of the alleys last week the real big-conflag started when Ted Neale rolled that 28 total. Neale is considered by many to be Omaha's best bowler and a beginner's total rolled by him would naturally cause the gossip brigade to get busy.

No changes in the leadership of the leagues took place. The Luxus still had a good lead in the Omaha league, while the Clara Belles gained a game in their lead of the Booster league. The Brodegaard Crowns still retain their place at the head of the Commercial league. In the Metropolitan and Gage City leagues the same tie story. The Pete Loch Juniors lead on Kett's alleys, while the Storz Triumphs are still at the lead where they have been all season.

The South Omaha rollers are having a close race. The South Omaha Ice company, Martin's Tigers and the White Sox are all tied for first place, with the Jetter's Old Age team coming strong right behind. Most of the smaller leagues are having close races, the Knights of Columbus and Standard Oil leagues being the only exceptions. The Browning-King crowd are having things their own way, while the Polarin Auto Oil team is sailing along, winning and losing just as they see fit.

Meeting a Fiasco.

The meeting of the Greater Omaha Bowling association scheduled for last week was a hopeless failure. Although quite a number showed up the enthusiasm was at a low ebb and the meeting adjourned with no date set for another. It is to be regretted that a booster organization of some kind cannot or has not been formed. The former associations were successful in all their tournaments, business dealings and social affairs and did much towards the uplift of the game here. The only reason for the lack of organizations seems to be due to the lack of enthusiasm caused by too much individuality among the leagues.

There is now a plan on foot for a committee to be organized from the members of all the leagues for the purpose of organizing and holding the city tournaments. In addition to this the committee may be prevailed upon to get up the annual social affair, the bowlers banquet and ball. Nothing will be done along these lines until after the excitement of the Midwest tournament has subsided.

Talk around the alleys has been shifted to the big event in St. Louis which starts on Thanksgiving day. While the number of teams entered does not come up to expectations, the list of entries far exceeds those of previous tournaments. This is caused by the large number of teams entered by the St. Louis bowlers. The number of visiting teams does not exceed those of former years on account of the greater traveling distance.

On account of the large prize fund Omaha's small army of rollers ought to carry off a neat sum. The best in town are making the trip. The Mrs. team's strength lies in the fact that its members are among the best tournament shooters. They are Captain Conrad, Neale, Weekes, Sutherland, Fenton and Scipio. The Luxus team is an all-star organization. This team ought to go good from the fact that the regulars who have been shooting together all season are going. They are Captain Cain, Christensen, O. Johnson, Shing and Goff.

The team from South Omaha, backed by the merchants of that city has a strong lineup, including the strongest bowlers in the Magic City. Those making the trip are Lepinski, captain; Kennedy, Cooley, Fritscher, Lester and Fitzgerald.

The Jetter's Old Age regular lineup will go. This team, with Gilbreath, Cochran, Godenschwager, Baehr, Stand and Zimmermann in the lineup, ought to make a good showing. The captains have not announced the doubles yet, but this information may be had from the tournament schedule, which will be out this week.
