BANK BOOKS FOUND IN RIVER

Stolen Records of Defunct Tecumseh Institution Recovered.

DISAPPEARED SEVEN YEARS AGO Books Had Been Used in Trial of C. N. Chamberlain at Auburn and Were Taken from Court House.

TECUMSEH, Neb., Nov. 26.—(Special Telegram.)—The books of the Chamberlain Banking house which disappeared in 1903 immediately after the trial of Charles N. Chamberlain for the institution's failure came to light this morning in the bed of the Nemaha river.

Let us from the depth of our souls give Thanks

THIS day for the giving of thanks to the Almighty is one that will be welcomed more by Omaha than any other day of the year.

Surely, today, there is no people in the whole world that has more to be thankful for than the people of Omaha.

Only a few short months since a calamity was visited upon us that in our despair we felt would mean ruin, but when our prayer for help went out it was answered in faith, and what seemed certain ruin and a defeat has truly been turned into a Godsend victory, such as no other city in the United States has ever known.

For some of us this has been a year of great prosperity, for some it has been a year of much joy, for most of us it has been a year full of labor and weeping, problems, but for all of us as we look around and see the troubles that other people endure it has been a year that has put us in close touch with the real virtues of life and has taught us to be more considerate when judging our neighbor's shortcomings.

Let us all give Thanks.

the books, weighing about 400 pounds, was recognized by passably, as part of it protruded from the mud. With the exception of one ledger, the books are in a fair state of preservation.

The Chamberlain failure, which amounted to $100,000, attracted considerable attention. Chamberlain fled to Mexico and Canada and later to Chicago, finally returning four years later to face numerous indictments.

After several trials, held outside of Johnson county because of existing local prejudice and at each of which he was acquitted, he was finally brought to Auburn to answer another indictment. Again he was acquitted and when the books of the bank, which had been used at the Auburn trial as evidence, were sent back to the sheriff of Johnson county, they disappeared from the steps of the court house.

Their loss practically ended the prosecution of Chamberlain, who then left for the Pacific coast, where he engaged in the collection agency business and which he is now following at Pullman, Wash. There are still several indictments against him, but whether or not the resurrection of the defunct bank's accounts will result in their prosecution is a mooted question.

SENATE MUST PASS MONEY BILL BEFORE ANY VACATION COMES

(Continued from Page One.) and resolution, presented by Senator Reed of Missouri, made the currency bill a party measure. It provided that the democrats, in conference, should meet beginning this afternoon and by Saturday should complete the consideration of the bill.

In the absence of Senator Hitchcock the only democratic member who has held out against the administration bill, it was expected that the democrats of the banking and currency committee would have little difficulty in committing the cause to the support of the draft of the measure presented by Senator Owen. It was made clear, however, that some of the amendments proposed by Senator Hitchcock would be written into the bill by the conference.

QUARTER MILLION STOLEN

James Foye, New York Clerk, is Charged with Theft of Bonds.

READY TO FLEE TO EUROPE

He Had Certified Check for Ninety-Seven Thousand Dollars and Five Thousand in Cash When Arrested.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—James Edward Foye, one time clerk to John W. Gates, awaited arraignment today on the charge of having stolen securities valued at $100,000 from a person whose identity was not disclosed. Foye was arrested last night as he stepped from a train from Philadelphia. He took his arrest as a matter of course. In his pockets detectives found a certified check for $97,000 and crisp new bank notes aggregating $3,000, all believed to be money obtained by sales of stolen securities to Charles T. Brown of Philadelphia. Detectives also found evidence that Foye was about to sail for Europe. After spending the night in what he called "a filthy cell," in a police station Foye was taken to police headquarters this morning. Soon after his arrest he telephoned to William T. Jerome, former district attorney of New York, and retained him as counsel.

Trained for Three Days. For three days Foye has been under surveillance of private detectives. Knowledge of Foye's plan to go abroad it is believed, hastened the arrest. The prisoner is about 35 and gained notably several years ago when his mother caused his arrest for alleged failure to support her. His charges led to his dismissal by Mr. Gates. Foye told the trial magistrate that his mother was unworthy his financial aid and that he was sorry she had ever borne him.

A memorandum five pages long, apparently prepared by an experienced trader, was found in Foye's pocket. The writer instructed him to "tip all chauffeurs, cabbies, barmaids and porters on arriving in London," directed him to "secure a room at 'The Marlborough' for a day" and strongly recommended that he visit a certain waxworks establishment in Germany and while there see "the barmaids on the top floor." Other directions in the letter led the police to believe that it was written by a confederate and the references to barmaids and other persons masked directions for meeting accomplices.

Clerk at Small Salary. In connection with Foye's arrest, the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, where Foye had lately been employed at $75 a month, issued the following statement today.

"No securities have been stolen from the Farmers' Loan and Trust company. James E. Foye had no access to the securities of the company. Foye was a temporary clerk engaged on the best of reference. We feel that it is due those who have loaned money that no further statement shall be made until all the facts are known."

Forgery Inmate of Theft.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26.—A warrant charging James E. Foye of New York with forgery and with uttering and publishing a fraudulent stock certificate, was sworn out today and immediately sent to New York, where he is arrested, last night. Foye is alleged to have stolen blank stock certificates in New York, forged names to them and to have obtained more than $100,000 from a Philadelphia bond broker. The money was advanced by a national bank of this city. The exact amount of money Foye obtained on the alleged fraudulent stock certificates could not be learned here, as the principal losers concerned are in New York in consultation with financial interests as to the best means of getting back the money with the least possible loss.

North Platte Land All Distributed

HYANNIS, Nev., Nov. 26.—(Special Telegram.)—On the eve of Thanksgiving day the selecting of homesteads in the Nebraska national forest reserve is practically finished. Out of the 512 tracts which were opened for selection November 17, less than twenty-five remain, and part of these are isolated quarter sections. Practically no desirable lands remain.

Call had been issued for 2,000 numbers covering a period ending next Tuesday, but with the completion of the first thousand today the land is practically all gone so that it will be useless for persons holding numbers in the second thousand to come here.

Judge Witten left this afternoon for Lawton, Okl., to complete the preliminaries for the sale of about 2,700 acres of Indian lands located in eleven counties. The judge will have charge of the disposal of this land, which will be opened for sale on December 8. He says this is the last of Indian land to be disposed of in this manner.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Woods of Gregory, S. D., who have been assisting Judge Witten during the last two weeks will finish up the work here. Interest in the land selection was maintained until the last.

Tuesday marked the latest day of the entire proceedings, over ninety persons responding from among the 290 names called. When Tuesday's proceedings were completed and it was seen that there was only fifty-nine claims left there was a general exodus from the town of those holding high numbers. Today the streets of Hyannis have about resumed their normal appearance. Judge Witten on his departure complimented the people of Hyannis for the exceptional manner in which they had taken care of the crowds and he remarked upon the fact that prices had not been raised here during the rush. He also stated that the Hyannis Daily Tribune, of which Charles K. Bassett is editor, had been of great assistance to those holding numbers and had taken a heavy burden from his shoulders as it published each evening a complete list of the filings for the daily and call for the next day and furnished much valuable information that he could not take the time to supply to each individual. There was no lawlessness in town during the allotment of the lands, the law officers having not one single arrest to report.

Nebraskan Given Increase. WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—(Special Telegram.)—Theron H. Steel, Nebraska, clerk at $1,000 in the Indian office, has been promoted to $1,200 per annum. Dr. Hartford Sweet has been appointed a pension surgeon at Greenfield, Ia.

THOUSAND FEDERAL

WOUNDED LYING ON MESA BATTLEFIELD

the wounded, but they have little if anything to work with.

Wounded Suffer Intensely.

Juan N. Medina, chief of staff of Villa, maintained that all the rebel wounded had been brought to Juarez. This gives them a total of about 150 wounded. He said their dead numbered about the same. The federal wounded are to be brought in today, he declared. All hospital accommodations have been taken up and private homes will have to be confiscated if these men are to be placed on beds or even under roofs.

The suffering of the wounded rebels who were brought to Juarez, was borne usually with stolid indifference and great fortitude. There was scarcely ever a groan or a twitch of the face. With gaping wounds in the head or chest, or with limbs dangling from bullet and shrapnel wounds, the wounded sat or lay stolidly upon the crude kitchen tables which the surgeons were using in their work of dressing the hurts of the men. "I never saw such indifference to pain in my life," exclaimed an El Paso doctor today. "The victims scarcely ever spoke of their wounds; one man when told that he could not live died for his country."

Well, Madero smiled for his country.

The federal dead on the battlefield were stripped of their uniforms by rebel soldiers in need of clothing. A number of federals, made prisoners in yesterday's fighting, were executed. Before the order was given to the firing squad, each victim was forced to remove his outer garment that some rebel might have them without the stain of blood or the damage of bullets.

Captured Officers Executed. A wounded rebel officer brought to Juarez for medical treatment on a Red Cross train, which arrived shortly after 1 yesterday afternoon, is authority for the statement that a number of Salazar's federal volunteers captured in the fighting this morning were brought before General Villa, who ordered them executed in the field.

The order was carried out at once. The officer, telling the story did not know how many men were executed under the order, but he thought there were thirty or forty of them.

The men had been cut off from the main body and were taken after a desperate fight. A number of them were wounded, but knowing the fate that would befall them in case they were captured by General Villa, did everything in their power to escape falling into the hands of the rebels.

Only Two Spared. So far as known only two federal officers captured since the fighting began have been spared. One of these was a lieutenant, whose father was a major in the rebel arm and upon the appeal of the latter to General Villa to spare the boy's life the rebel commander ordered that his execution be stayed.

Another officer pleaded that he had been impressed into the federal service, which statement was corroborated by a number of General Villa's officers and he too was given a new lease of life.

Many rebels are today wearing federal uniforms and overcoats taken from prisoners, who have been executed on the field. John Lind Visits Tampico. MEXICO CITY, Nov. 26.—The visit of John Lind, personal representative of President Wilson, to Tampico, was first learned of here through the Associated Press dispatches from Washington. It is regarded as indicating a more serious condition in that region than was generally thought here to be the case. Owing to the close censorship over the federal telegraph only meager reports are reaching the federal capital as to the state of affairs in the provinces.

The reports issued by the government indicate the administration feels little apprehension over the rebel attacks on Tuxpan. It was said that the war office today that the troops on the way to Tuxpan from Tampico would be sufficient to control the situation here.

Repetitions along the railroad indicate that Tampico is the next place likely to be menaced by the rebels. News has reached here of a general movement by the rebel forces toward that port since General Aguilar, the rebel commander, demanded the surrender of Tuxpan.

General Aguilar said in his message to federal officials at Tuxpan Sunday if the town was not delivered into his hands the rebels would attack today. This report was brought here by refugees, who said that the reply of the garrison was the arrest of the rebel messenger.

Federal troops were said to have reached Tuxpan from Vera Cruz and those with the other columns reported to be on the way from Tampico, were regarded by government officials today as affording ample protection.

Carranza March Elated.

HERNANDEZ, Sonora, Mexico, Nov. 26.—The defeat of the federals below Juarez was considered by General Carranza and his advisers today as breaking the backbone of the Huerta power in the north of Mexico. The following of such ex-insurrecto leaders as Pascual Orozco and Jose Ines Salazar, who were in the battle, always has been deemed by constitutional leaders more dangerous than the regular federal troops.

It was reported here today that while Villa was engaging the troops of Salazar and Orozco near Samalayuca Manuel Chao, a constitutional leader of the Parral district, was moving against Chihuahua City to attack General Mercado and 2,000 federals garrisoning the state capital.

With the defeat of the federals at Juarez little difficulty was expected in the opinion of leaders here in taking Chihuahua City.

General Villa in his official report to General Carranza, through Colonel Juan N. Medina at Juarez, stated he had defeated the federal troops utterly and captured three military trains with all the federal artillery, ammunition and supplies.

General Alfaro Obregon, commander of the insurgent forces in the northwest, arrived here today from Culiacan, capital of Sinaloa. He went into conference with General Carranza regarding plans for a general movement south along the west coast.

Notes from Stromsburg. STROMSBURG, Neb., Nov. 26.—(Special.)—The farm home of William Wallace was destroyed by fire last night between 5 and 4. The family was eating supper when the fire, which caught from a defective fuse, was discovered. The family was moving to town for the time.
