MORMON QUESTION COMES UP

National Reform Association Holds Fiftieth Annual Session.

LIVELY DEBATE DURING DAY

Missionary Stewart Declares Polygamy Is Not Practiced in Utah, While Padden Says It Still Exists.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—The fiftieth annual convention of the National Reform Association convened here today and the first session in which "Mormonism" was the subject, occasioned a lively debate.

Such an amendment is not necessary to the laws of our country, he said, for polygamy is not and has not been practiced in Utah or any other state since 1890.

Padden Shows a Picture. "I have lived among the Mormons for fifteen years and I know that they fear the adoption of that amendment to the United States constitution more than any other ever suggested," he said.

As for the assertion of Mr. Stewart that polygamy has not been practiced since 1890—the year of the Woodruff manifesto—I have here a picture showing Joseph Smith and his wives and their children taken in 1912. It is that not enough proof that polygamy has been practiced since the issuance of the manifesto?"
