JOINT CONCERT SUCCESSFUL

Creighton Glee Club Shares Honor with Orchestra.

FRIENDS IN NUMBERS ATTEND

Program Triumph for Leaders of Both Organizations—String and Vocal Numbers Share Allike in Appreciation.

The appearance of the Creighton University Glee club and the Omaha Symphony Study orchestra at the Creighton university auditorium last evening in a joint concert proved a distinct triumph for both organizations.

From the moment when the notes of the overture, "Raymond," by the orchestra filled the enclosure, until the closing number by the same organization, the large audience of students, friends and music lovers of Omaha gave approval, broken only by thunderous applause at the close of each number. Numbers by the club and orchestra alternated.

Although the auditorium had been remodeled and the stage enlarged, the stage was only large enough to accommodate one organization at a time. There were seventy-five members in the orchestra and fifty in the glee club. The former was under the direction of Henry Cox and the latter was led by Richard Keesey.

The feature number of the program was "Paul Revere's Ride," a cantata by Dudley Buck. Both the orchestra and the collegians participated in this number. John G. Jamieson sang the baritone solos of this number, while L. G. Thompson handled the tenor strains. The piece recited the historic ride of the patriot and the "Star Spangled Banner," thrilled the listeners.

John G. Jamieson, age 30, appeared in a series of songs, scoring a hit with his "Perfect Day," in which he was accompanied by Mr. Hetherington of the orchestra on the lute.

Frank Hošek, appearing in piano solos was forced to respond to several accolades because of his excellent rendition of "Kosuth-Carolus," by Michiels.

Henry Cox, director of the orchestra, scored a triumph in concerto numbers, "Romance," by Svendsen, and "Marsurka," by Zarzkycki. The "Alma Mater Song," by Hamilton-Kreutzer and the "Medley," by Shattuck, were the contributions by the glee club and both were well received.

The glee club will give a formal concert in one of the local theaters in February.

OREGON SENATORS PLAYED FOR VOTING FOR FREE WOOL

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 12.—At the Oregon Wool Growers' convention here resolutions were adopted assailing the new tariff law as concerning the interests of the wool growers and both Oregon senators, George E. Chamberlain and Dr. Harry Lane, democrats, were scored for voting for free wool. The resolutions state in part: "We had a right to expect that the Oregon senators would give at least as much consideration to the industries of Oregon as they gave to those of New Jersey and Massachusetts."

The two friends held a party on Sunday, and in the course of the entertainment Genevieve cut Nora with a razor and Nora reciprocated the feeling of sisterly love by chasing Genevieve out of a second story window. Both were sewed up by police surgeons and are well over their injuries.

Firemen and Friends Dance at Annual Ball

No one at the fifth annual ball of the Firemen's Relief association last night was permitted to dance the tango even under the alluring pseudonym of the firemen's glide, the hose cart roll or the helmet hop. Twenty-five hundred people crowded the Auditorium and just danced, and they enjoyed the experience with the old waltz and two-step and an occasional polka for good measure. Many a person looked in and saw the merry throng and dashed away to the check room only to reappear a little later ready for the fun of the evening.

Over 1,700 tickets were sold for the ball and better than 2,500 persons were there. The tickets sold for $1 each, but admitted one extra lady free.

In the grand march were over 500 couples. It was led by Assistant Chief John W. Simpson and Mrs. Simpson.

The following are the officers of the Relief association: President, H. B. Elliott; vice president, William Howley; secretary, Peter McDermott; Phillip Adams, William Henderson, I. Hope, T. Stoltz, Hyland, J. Connel, E. Kiejer, Al Hardy, George Kelly, George Smetzer, Eric Sandberg, A. Horug, Joe Foreman, D. Seldon, H. Gohl, Teddy Schulz, E. Hutton, H. Hired Man, Not Thief, Took Richards' Electric

J. D. Richards, of the Omaha National bank, chased his electric auto half a dozen blocks, when he saw it disappearing down Farnam street and when he was outdistanced he notified the police and went home, saying sulphuric sayings about the auto thieves. When he got there his auto was standing out in front.

It later developed that Mrs. Richards had given a hired man permission to use it to go to a nearby store. Mr. Richards did not know it, but thought only of auto thieves.

- Death of Mrs. Rhodes.

Mrs. Carrie Cummings Rhodes, wife of Frank V. Rhodes, died Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. J. Rhodes, 2008 I street, after an illness of one week. Mrs. Rhodes was 52 years of age at the time of her death and her demise takes one of the most highly respected and best loved young matrons of the city. She is survived by her husband, Frank V. Rhodes, of the Nebraska Telephone company.

Mrs. Carrie Cummings Rhodes was born in South Dakota. She lost her mother at the age of 3 months and was reared and educated by her grandmother, Mrs. E. Cummings of South Omaha. Mrs. Carrie Cummings Rhodes attended school in South Omaha and graduated from the high school in 1908. She completed a normal course at Bellevue and at the conclusion of her work at that institution she was appointed to teach school in Douglas county. She taught school for two years, when she resigned to marry Frank V. Rhodes.

Mrs. Carrie Cummings Rhodes was particularly active in church work and was a member of the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church, a standard bearer of the same church and a Sunday school teacher. She spent much of her time in work among the poor.

About a week ago Mrs. Cummings Rhodes was taken sick with stomach trouble. It was thought Wednesday that she was on the road to recovery, but a sudden change for the worse came Wednesday afternoon and death intervened.

The funeral will be held this morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. J. Rhodes, 2008 I street. Rev. J. W. Kirkpatrick officiating. Interment will be made at Laurel Hill cemetery.

Hose Agents Still Busy.

Fire hose agents were still on the ground yesterday demonstrating their wares to the members of the fire and water committee. Wise members about the city hall were speculating as to the probable success of the different bidders. The consensus seemed to be that the odds were in favor of the old company which made the last sale of fire hose to the local department.

The Orchard Hill Improvement club met last night at Cassidy hall. The speaker of the evening was J. M. Tanner.

Mrs. A. J. Jacobs of Clairmont, Ia., is visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Hunter, at 1520 North Twenty-seventh street. Mrs. Jacobs will spend the winter as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter.

The women of the west side met at Cassidy's hall and organized the South Omaha West Side Mothers' club. The following members were elected: President, Mrs. John Wells; secretary, Mrs. Alice Burns; treasurer, Mrs. George Tugie. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Alice Burns, 415 North Forty-first street, on January 14.
