

GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

Wheat Bears Feels Easy in Their Position. CORN IS QUITE STATIONARY Offerings and Purchases in December Option Are About at Balance and Likely to Continue So.

OMAHA, December 26, 1913. The bears in wheat feel easy in their position as they advance the wheat market, and that is the bear side. They point to the heavy crop shown by the west, which was never better at this season of the year, and they also refer to the big volume of wheat in demand for the cash article. The matter of speculation is expected by the bear shorts to be a factor in the market. The lack of trade is always considered a bearish factor. Now that Argentina is to ship wheat from the west, the estimated receipts for this week, and with Russian wheat coming out in larger quantities and Australia willing to export of increased lots of grain, the bear shorts expect to have smoother sailing than formerly.

The wheat market at the moment is what may be called a tug-of-war affair. Nearly every one in the profession has ranks in bearish on wheat and nearly every one of the traders is short that article. While there are sanguine about the ultimate success in driving the bulls out of their holdings, the latter are still active in their own right. The bear shorts are not so sure of their own material. Those of the larger concerns in the trade who have been purchasing wheat and corn for the winter are in the belief that there will be a crop scare in the spring, and they are buying wheat and corn by freezing at night and thawing at day of the wheat fields of the country, and they are buying wheat and corn for the winter. These big people on the bull side of the market have taken this position at a price which is very low and they have generally been enabled to take down the money.

It is unlikely that there will be any great advance in the December corn before the end of the month, as the bulls of that month are willing to sell the shorts on an even basis. The larger long in the trade, James A. Fallon, has taken a position in corn and is paid for it, and he will merchandise this grain at an early time as possible. At the present time the buying power in cash corn—not enough at least to be of any help to the bull side of the market. The heavy crop in the west is the mercy of the longs in the December and they are likely to make the best of it. There is a big open interest in the December corn, and it is in strong hands. The price of corn, with the December future out of the way, will depend largely on the receipts from time to time. These are to be reduced largely, according to the best advices from the country. The situation in wheat is similar, but not so much as in the corn. The price of wheat has held up well, and this, too, under adverse circumstances of business. The Canadian oats have been shipped in here in large quantities and they have failed to act as a drawback to the market on the whole.

The provision market is likely to move along in the same way as the grain market. The hog movement is expected to continue and be of good proportion. Cash corn was 1/2c to 1/4c lower. Cash oats were 1/4c to 1/2c lower. Under adverse circumstances of business, the Canadian oats have been shipped in here in large quantities and they have failed to act as a drawback to the market on the whole.

Primary wheat receipts were 1,200,000 bushels and shipments were 2,100,000 bushels. Primary corn receipts were 2,100,000 bushels and shipments were 2,100,000 bushels. Primary soybean receipts were 1,400,000 bushels and shipments were 1,400,000 bushels. Primary cotton receipts were 1,400,000 bushels and shipments were 1,400,000 bushels.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

General Advance Noted, with Leading the Whole List. MARKET OFFERINGS HEAVY New Haven Shows Recovery from Low Point, Following the Passing of the Dividend.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The rise in stocks which began a week ago was carried further today, with leading again the central figure in movement. The market firmed, however, to show the sustained strength of recent days. Offerings were heavier, and the general run of quotations revealed few important alterations at the close of the day.

On the whole, the market was well held for the popular stocks, with increasing outside buying. The case was similar for selling sales, and while there was no departure from the more cheerful point of view, recently adopted, professional investors were inclined to undertake aggressive operations on the long side of the market.

In connection with the rise in Reading there were further reports that a reorganization plan was under consideration with the object of bringing the company into line with the government's requirements. Details of the plan were not disclosed, but the market was under a damper on the bull side of the market.
