DRESS GOODS

Three days more of the Great Dress Goods Sale which has broken all records of previous sales at this season of the year.

You will remember the many weeks which our distinguished representatives gave the TARIFF QUESTION—Whether they acted wisely all through their deliberations and decisions matters not. The party was pledged to a downward revision and there was no escape. You all remember the bugaboo of SCHEDULE K—You recollect the pleadings and remonstrances of the men who said that the contemplated reductions would mean for the great woolen manufacturers not only paralysis, BUT RUIN—They are still doing business, and up to date no immediate signs of ruin. All of which reminds us of what Voltaire said of the prophet Habakkuk—"He is capable of anything"—And so say we of these prophets of disaster. But the important consideration for us—Woolen duties came down about 65%, to give the mills a chance to get out from under. Change in tariff was made effective January 1, 1914. We have been anticipating it—YES AND MORE—We have been reducing prices after this fashion and will continue for three days more. Dress goods and cloaking in nine lots—

Remember please you are invited especially to our Luncheon at our open house reception from 10 until 5 on Friday. The affair will be delightfully informal and you'll meet most of your friends, for each year this is Omaha's Greatest New Year's Function. There is quite a race each year to see who will be the first foot in our store to bring us good luck for the year. We used to call the first comer in the old homeland the uelctangh. We wonder who it will be this year. Last year we certainly enjoyed good business—and we are sure you wish us ditto this year. We hope you will all have a happy and prosperous NEW YEAR.

So general are the reductions for this remarkable sale that we feared disappointment on the part of our patrons if the shoes were not reduced also. After a conference with the manager, Mr. Tuttle, we decided to place before you 8 attractions—and so decided is the money saving that we have hired an extra force of shoe salesmen for Friday. The excitement starts at 8 A. M.

THOMAS KILPATRICK & COMPANY

Society

By MELLIFICIA. Wednesday, December 31, 1913.

OMAHA people have given of their time and money most generously for the Charity ball, and scores of poor people of this city will be made happy and comfortable for the cold winter through their generosity; in return, those who have purchased tickets will have an enjoyable time, besides knowing that they are helping a good cause.

It is planned to have the most beautiful ballroom that has ever been seen in Omaha. In the corners of the rooms will be the smaller Municipal Christmas trees which decorated the court house rotunda, and besides this 170 Christmas trees donated by citizens of Omaha. The ballroom will be a veritable "forest primeval," with the pervading odor of pine and fir trees. The branches of the large Municipal tree have been used to decorate the boxes and balcony, and this green will make a beautiful background for the stunningly gowned women.

Proceeding the dance an interesting entertainment is planned, when Miss Portia Swett, assisted by Miss Housa and Miss Ratchford, will give solo dances. Over 1,000 people will attend and it is estimated that over $3,000 will be given to the City mission.

The "Mischievous Quartet" and Its Work.
 Each year the month of January numbers its list of victims from influenza, La grippe, bronchitis and pneumonia. La grippe seriously weakens the system and when they hang on, are a sign of general debility. The use of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound will promptly check the cough, heal the inflamed air passages, preventing the development of its grippe to a more serious condition. Keep it on hand. Contains no opiates. For sale by all dealers everywhere.—Advertisement.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

"The Woman Thou Gavest Me"

The Bee has reconsidered its publication and will withdraw it from its list of features.

It is the aim and purpose of The Bee to be above all a home paper for every member of the household. Receipt of the subpoenaed letter, and further inquiry revealing the fact that while other works of Hall Caine are in the Public Library, this one, although already published in a standard magazine and several well known newspapers, has been rejected as of questionable moral influence, has led us to rescind our arrangement to print it in The Bee.

We do this, not because of any threatened boycott (which we know full well would only whet public appetite, as Father Williams says, and stimulate our sales), but because we want The Bee to have the permanent confidence of the community and retain its right to be admitted to every home by those most careful as to what is read in their family circle.

Father Williams' Letter:
 Omaha, December 30.—To the Editor of The Bee: The enclosed anonymous note came to me in the mail this morning. I send it to you for your consideration; not because I think anonymous letters should ever receive very serious consideration, but that you may yourself consider if there is any force in the subject matter worthy of your consideration. I have not read Hall Caine's book, to which the writer refers. I know it is on sale in our book stores, and that any advertised opposition would only tend to extend its circulation. Of course, the method suggested of boycotting The Bee is too childish to weigh with any sensible person. But if there is anything in the assertion that its publication in The Bee as a serial would be dangerous to the morals of our young girls, you would be as far from countenancing its publication as anyone. I have always found The Bee as considerate of the morals of the families among whom it circulates as any daily paper I ever read. JOHN WILLIAMS, St. Barnabas Rectory.
