BUTTER AND EGGS MOVE UP

Cold Weather Puts Up the Price on These Two.

STORAGE EGGS ARE SCARCE

Sugar is One Staple Article Which Has Not Raised in Price—Warmer Weather Seems the Only Relief.

Prices of butter and eggs were given a boost as a result of the cold weather, until now eggs are selling for 35 cents a dozen and butter is selling for 35 cents a pound. Before New Year's eggs sold for 35 cents and butter sold for 35 cents.

Storage eggs sell for practically the same price as fresh eggs, because there are very few eggs in storage and they are just as hard to procure as fresh eggs. As long as the cold continues eggs are expected to rise in price, according to Al King, manager of Hayden's grocery department.

Fresh creamery butter is selling considerably higher than storage butter because of the vast amount of storage butter on hand in the storage warehouses. It is almost impossible to move storage butter because under the law it must be stamped and grocers and butchers refuse to take the time and trouble to do so, especially as purchasers demur at storage goods. As a result creameries do their best to keep the price of fresh butter as high as possible in order to move the storage butter which is on hand.

Oranges for U.S. Oranges took a jump of 25 cents a box in the wholesale price, but as yet the retail price has not been advanced. It is still possible to secure good navel oranges at prices varying from 10 to 25 cents a dozen, but with another advance in the wholesale price the retail price also will be advanced.

Sugar is the one staple article which has not raised in price. Sugar is now selling at twenty-one pounds for $1, which is low. Twenty pounds for $1 has been considered reasonable for many years.

The butter and egg question is a serious one with the cold weather just approaching. Produce merchants believe the prices will constantly rise as long as the colder weather continues. Al King is of the opinion that neither boycotts nor anything else can drive the prices down. Warm weather is the only relief from higher prices in those articles.

CORNISH IS FOR SUFFRAGE

Will Return from New York Next Fall and Enter Campaign.

WOULD GIVE BALLOT TO WOMEN

Campaign Well Under Way and Petitions Being Circulated to Get Constitutional Amendment Up Next Fall.

In an impromptu address before the executive committee of the Nebraska Suffrage association at the city hall yesterday afternoon E. J. Cornish, whose home is Omaha, but who lives in New York, pledged his support to the cause of suffrage in this state and declared he would soon arrange his business that in the fall he could come here and actively enter the campaign to secure a constitutional amendment establishing equal rights.

"I always have been a believer in equal rights," said Mr. Cornish. "If a true democracy is in fact a real democracy, women will be allowed equal rights with men."

Mr. Cornish said women were more moral in their conduct, more open to reason than men, and should be given the ballot. He said he had been raised in the faith and was now willing to actively engage in the campaign to vindicate that faith.

Referring to the progress of the suffrage movement Mr. Cornish said eleven presidential candidates must cease to ignore the power of the ballot in the hands of the women of the land. He referred to Theodore Roosevelt's espousal of the cause after he realized that it was popular.

Fred Carey and Prof. H. Olerich addressed the meeting on different phases of the suffrage movement in Nebraska. Mrs. Draper Smith presided.

To Arrange for Campaigns. A committee of three was appointed to prepare lectures, arrange conventions and approach permanent organizations preparatory to the campaign to force the adoption of an equal suffrage amendment to the constitution at the November election.

Petitions are now being circulated and about 10,000 signatures have been secured. Mrs. Smith said: "We need 35,000 signatures and we will have no trouble in securing them." In fact, we are confident we will present a petition signed by 60,000 voters. If we can secure the 35,000 signatures before February 1 the National Suffrage association has promised us

Plumage Market in Europe Takes Slump

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—European feather markets have been demoralized by the exclusion of wild bird plumage from this country, according to W. T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological park, who has taken a leading part in the fight to preserve wild bird life.

Within ten days after the adoption of the tariff bill containing the feather exclusion provision, Mr. Hornaday said the London feather market suffered a slump. He added that 28 of 1,175 lots of plumage offered on the market were withdrawn.

Mr. Hornaday quoted a letter from the Baroness Von Rohrbach of Baden, Germany, showing the immediate effect which this country's exclusion law had upon the feather market there. The letter in part follows:

"The fruits of decided victory are beginning to show in this country. An article in a milliners paper—not a fashion journal, but a circular issued for the trade—informs us that the fashion for cigarettes has come to an end, due to the new American laws and the proposed English bill. These feathers are now selling in Berlin at 30 per cent discount."

"The Kolnische Zeitung, one of the principal newspapers, publishes an article dealing with the same subject. They say the Paris fashions are being altered in accordance with the new laws."

dead for several months. Announcement of the award was made by the society today.

Prof. King was the author of a volume entitled "Farmers of Forty Centuries," in which he presented what the society believes is an ideal study of the kind. He described the methods by which the Chinese support nearly 500,000,000 persons on an area smaller than the improved land of the United States, which they have tilled for thousands of years. Prof. King drew an interesting parallel for the farmers of this country to consider.
