PUJO COMMITTEE SCORES

Five Recommendations Effective Without New Laws.

MORGAN AND THE STEEL TRUST

Speculation as to Whether Financier Will Sever Connection with the Project of His Father.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The announcement of the retirement of J. P. Morgan and four of his partners from thirty directorships in twenty-seven corporations and Mr. Morgan's reference to the change in public sentiment in regard to directorships, has called attention to the fact that five important recommendations of the Pujo committee were already being put into effect in advance of legislation requiring them.

These include the abandonment of fiscal agency agreements, such as existed between the New Haven and Morgan & Co.; the abolition of interlocking directorates, the abolition of voting trusts, reform in the stock exchange and reform in the clearing house.

Attitude Toward Steel Combine.
 Whether Mr. Morgan will decide to withdraw from the directorate of the United States Steel corporation was the subject of a great deal of speculation today. The general opinion was that as the steel trust was the greatest of the Morgan creations and was considered by the elder Morgan the crowning achievement of his career in finance, his son will consider his duty to remain identified with it in an active capacity especially until the government suit has been decided one way or the other.

However, the Morgan firm was not less actively identified with the financial development of the New York Central lines, for which Mr. Morgan was the banking sponsor throughout the greater part of his career. His connection with it dated from the time of Commodore Vanderbilt and during the time of William H. Vanderbilt it was through Mr. Morgan's influence that English investors placed enormous sums of money in the securities of the road. The resignation of the present J. P. Morgan from the New York Central directorate was one of the most surprising features of his announcement yesterday.

J. P. Morgan's friends say that he has been not only deeply impressed by the change in public sentiment during the last few years, but that he has been deeply grieved over the criticism of the firm in connection with the affairs of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad company.

Opinion of Mr. Lovett.
 Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the Union Pacific railroad company, in commenting today on the Morgan action, said: "I think strong bankers on railroad boards are very desirable, but it all depends on who represents the railroads on the board."

A. Barton Hepburn, chairman of the Chase National bank, expressed the opinion that interlocking directorates were a good thing so long as they did not result in unlawful monopoly.

"I have found in my personal experience," he added, "that by being on the board of certain corporations, I am able to get a much better knowledge of their financial standing. Used for such a purpose, being a director on one or more corporations is by no means injurious or unlawful."

NEW HAVEN RAILROAD CUTS PAY OF SHOPMEN

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 3.—Notice posted in the carshops of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad here, made effective today a reduction of 10 per cent in the wages of several hundred employes. Machinists, boiler makers, steam fitters and car workers are included.

TAYLOR'S LAWYERS WRONG; NEW TRIAL

present relations to the court. This is unfortunate, for it is of much importance to both sides.

"Both sides failed in the examination of Gard. Perhaps counsel on each side thought Gard would be favorable to them. I, myself, do not remember whether Gard was asked as to his acquaintance with counsel for Taylor."

"If Gard was not asked as to his relation to the street railway company there Attorney Stanley Roosevelt interrupted with the remark that there was no question as to this point; he should have been. If he was not asked as to his relations to Broms, he should have been."

"One who has been on a jury returning a large verdict for counsel and who has since retained them in cases is not a fair juror for the other side."

"I can't say from the evidence that anything took place in the jury room to cause Gard to change his mind. I cannot infer that his talk with Juror McCarthy and the latter's threat to tell the judge for Gard's improper act was effective in causing Gard to change his mind."

"But the evidence in the Belangee contempt case is in evidence here and I am satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that Belangee did intend to corrupt Gard. I don't know whether he succeeded in influencing him."

"I would have to say that Gard at least overthrew the conditions in his account of the proceedings in the jury room. The situation is complicated, but I could not say that Belangee did what he did of his own original thought. Some one else caused him to do it, but I do not believe anyone on the side of either the plaintiff or the defendant corruptly related themselves to Gard or to Belangee."

"I feel that the case has been without that judicial propriety which should attend proceedings in courts, and feel that we might better put in our time in a retrial than to leave a suspicion remaining in regard to the outcome of the suit. A new trial is granted."

Golden Opportunity.
 After the fire that destroyed Barnum's museum, the proprietor consulted his friends as to his wisest course. He told them he had a fortune and could easily retire from active business.

Among his friends was Horace Greeley. "What shall I do?" asked Barnum.

"If I were you," replied Greeley, "I would go fishing. I've been trying for thirty years to go fishing and have never been able to do it."—Youth's Companion.

Schreff of Lincoln judged the birds.
