The largest membership and volume of business of any Fraternal Insurance Society in the state.

IN DOUGLAS COUNTY

There are nineteen Camps (lodges) in Douglas county, ten of which are located in Omaha and South Omaha. There are over 4,000 members in the above Camps with approximately $6,800,000 of insurance protection carried in the Modern Woodmen Society.

Death claims paid to beneficiaries of Douglas county deceased members since organization to January 1, 1912, $1,084,650.00.

The largest Modern Woodmen Camp in Nebraska is located in Omaha, being Omaha Camp No. 120, with over 1,000 members.

One of the best drilled and best equipped forester teams throughout the entire jurisdiction is located in Omaha, the drill team of Camp No. 120, with Captain H. C. Martens in command—a prize winning team in many national forester encampments of the order during the past twenty years.

Is it WORTH WHILE to encourage this Society in your midst?

SANATORIUM

Believing in the conservation of human life, the present management of the society founded a Sanatorium five years ago for the free treatment of members afflicted with tuberculosis—the Great White Plague.

Located nine miles northwest of Colorado Springs, Colorado, at the foot of Cedar Mountain, (altitude 7,000 feet) where the sun shines 320 days each year.

The Sanatorium property comprises 1,381 acres, and with the buildings and complete plant represents an investment of $375,000.

Its capacity is 205 daily patients, on the individual tent-colony plan.

To November 1, 1913, a total of 1,469 patients had been admitted and treated free of charge to them. Of this number 1,045 were saved, representing insurance carried of $1,672,000. The total amount of earnings of those cured or benefited by their sojourn at this institution, since their discharge, amounts to $885,000.

In addition to the insurance feature, it is "WORTH WHILE" to be a Modern Woodman.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Lobeck Gets in Bad by Working to Raise Veterinarians' Pay.

RANK AND FILE WANT RELIEF

Party Workers Would Like to See a Few Jobs Coming in the Way of the Hungry Ones Who Are Stranded.

Following the news that Congressman C. O. Lobeck has introduced a bill looking to the increase of salaries for veterinarians and meat inspectors, local democrats, both in and out of civil service, have uttered considerable criticism against the increase. The blame is not laid so much at the door of Congressman Lobeck. It is said that the congressman has been besieged with letters and requests from interested parties to assist the bill. But it is claimed that the remuneration of the government veterinarians, which now runs to $2,800 a year, and the inspectors, who now receive $1,200 a year, is well enough, and the Washington representatives from Nebraska in either the upper or lower house were much better off to bestir themselves in the interest of the rank and file of democrats rather than to devote their energies and influence to the betterment of the class that is said to enjoy pleasant enough berths at present.

It has also been said that many of the veterinarians and meat inspectors were appointed under republican patronage, and being out of politics their assistance in the recent democratic success amounted to very little. The boys who have been "waiting" for so many years want the Washington boys to get up and "dust" for the rank and file, who are hungry for a morsel of patronage that ought to come to them under the new dispensation.

Said a vallant democrat yesterday: "Whatever may be said about republican policies, at least republicans stick by one another. In the days of republican domination at Washington a republican at home never had to worry about senators or congressmen handing out pie to democrats. In those days democrats had a hope—civil service. But now a republican is just as liable to get a plum as a democrat. And when you stop to think that the democratic administration has all the plums to give out—well, what's the use?" he continued amiably.

"Irish Woman's Viewpoint."
 From the sod of the Emerald Isle comes Miss Gertrude O'Reilly to lecture on woman's problems next Sunday evening, January 11, at the South Omaha high school auditorium. Miss O'Reilly will be the guest of the Equal Franchise league of South Omaha, an organization devoted to the cause of woman suffrage. Mrs. H. B. Copper of this city will be chairman of the meeting at which Mayor Thomas Hector will deliver the address of welcome.

Miss O'Reilly has been in Omaha for some time, where she has addressed many meetings of women in the cause of suffrage. She is said to be a gifted talker and one thoroughly imbued with the justice of the "cause." It is expected that her talk will deal with woman's problems other than equal suffrage. The title of her remarks is "An Irish Woman's Viewpoint." Miss O'Reilly comes from Dublin. Admission will be free.

For the seventh time James H. Bull, prominent stockman and president of the State Live Stock Sanitary board, was elected head of the Live Stock Traders' exchange at the Union stock yards. The annual meeting of the Traders' exchange was held Saturday in the board room of the exchange. G. F. Huntzinger was elected secretary. The directors for the coming year are: Guy Ellis, J. B. Root and George Tones. Resolutions upon the death of John Hughes, for many years a member of the exchange and a director, were adopted.

President Bulla in his annual report announced that the year just closed was one of the most prosperous years ever experienced by the Traders' exchange. Nothing else of importance came before the meeting.

Covers were laid for twenty. The guests were: George Kaiser, N. Kaiser, W. M. Schneckenberger, George Meek, Mrs. K. Leader and Charles Leader and Mr. and Mrs. Robb.

Deputy Finds Coat in Hands of Gypsy in Court House

A new overcoat owned by Deputy Sheriff James Musgrave was removed from the sheriff's office Saturday afternoon and was found in the possession of a member of the gypsy band which has frequented the court house since the legal fight for the possession of 15-year-old Lynka Thomas began.

"A mistake, a mistake," said the man when the coat was restored to its owner.

The incident, coming at the close of a day-long hearing, provided a humorous element which contrasted with the sobe and grief of Lynka, who wept bitterly because she thought she was to spend Sunday in jail separated from her foster parents, Mitchell Mark and his wife, rulers of the gypsies who are wintering near Florence.

"A mistake, a mistake," said the man when the coat was restored to its owner.

The incident, coming at the close of a day-long hearing, provided a humorous element which contrasted with the sobe and grief of Lynka, who wept bitterly because she thought she was to spend Sunday in jail separated from her foster parents, Mitchell Mark and his wife, rulers of the gypsies who are wintering near Florence.

Mrs. Mary Thomas and John Athanasios, the girl's grandmother and uncle, also gypsies, came from Sacramento, Cal., to recover the girl. She says she wants to stay where she is and that Mark's followers treat her better than her own relatives. These persons have made charges of white slavery against Mark, but the girl said yesterday they were false.

The testimony has been that the girl was sold to the local gypsies by her relatives in California for $125. The gypsies explain the transaction by saying that the grandmother gave her to Mrs. Mark and that she gave a present in return for the money. Lynka is pretty and is dressed in the height of gypsy fashion. Mrs. Mark remained in the county jail again with her last night because she feared to be alone.

Judge Sutton, who is hearing the habeas corpus case brought by the grandmother, intimated yesterday that he might refuse to allow either of the parties to take the girl, but might place her in a county institution.

ST. PAUL'S YOUNG PEOPLE ENTERTAIN WITH PROGRAM

The second program given by the young people of St. Paul's Episcopal church at Jacobs hall Saturday night was, if possible, more successful than the first, which was given at the church on Christmas. More than 200 members and friends of the church attended the performance of "The Arraying of the Huguenots," which was under the direction of Miss Lenore Williams, niece of Bishop Arthur L. Williams.

Besides the playlet, a number of musical numbers were given at the entertainment last night. Louis Armstrong and George West responded to several encores for their piano and mandolin solos, and the musical selections of Mrs. Arthur Engelman were likewise greatly appreciated. Arthur Iatti's recitations were popular with the audience, and the Indian dance given by Tupper Jones scored a decided hit.

Following the program an informal dance for the young people was given.

Bellevue College.
 Bellevue college reopens Tuesday morning, January 6. The students will nearly all return today. It is expected that a few new students will enroll on that date, but a larger number will enter at the opening of the second semester, January 20.

The members of the faculty have been spending their vacation variously. Dean Nichol and wife have been in Emporia, Kan., at the home of Prof. Willis H. Kerr. Prof. Peters visited his home in Cleveland, O. Miss Carter was with relatives in Plattsmouth. Prof. Cross and Coach Thrown were in Iowa. The others remained in Bellevue.

President Stookey will leave this week for a short trip to the east in the interest of the college.

Paul Cummings represented the Young Men's Christian association at the conference in Kansas City during the last week.

Miss Daniels, a member of the junior class, has been elected instructor in mathematics in the Plattsmouth High school and may accept.

has an enrollment of more than 100 students, several of them registering from 1,500 to 2,000. In each of fourteen cities over 500 students are registered. Two fifths of the girls in day classes, and the rest in evening classes. There are 25,400 students in household arts.

Fremont College Notes.
 Mrs. Judge C. L. Malone of Inmar, Neb., spent a few days at the college accompanying her son who is beginning a college course.

A large party of dormitory students indulged in the season's sport last Wednesday evening by driving to the river where they enjoyed a few hours skating.

The faculty received the students at the college parlors New Year's evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. More than 200 students passed through the parlors and were served in the dining room.

Miss Amy Guindinger, a former graduate of the college, writes that she is enjoying her work at San Jose State Normal school, California. She states that she received full credit for all work done here.

Colonel Hayward, president of the Military academy at Lincoln, was a guest of President Clemmons Monday and Tuesday. He addressed the students Tuesday morning in chapel. The colonel is an interesting speaker and his talk was full of wholesome thought.

A throng of old students who are teaching in different parts of the state have been visiting the college during the holidays. Many interesting and amusing impromptu speeches have been made by them. An extra hour was allowed in chapel New Year's morning to hear some of them relate their experiences since finishing college and going out in the world to deal with young humanity or in some branch of business life.

Mrs. Jewel West and Elibron Harding and Misses Carrie Stein and Amy Jackson who were elected delegates to the national Young Women's Christian association, by means of which they are attending a convention at Kansas City, left for that place Tuesday. Seven hundred delegates are represented at this convention which has for its object training of missionaries for foreign fields. This organization convenes every four years and is the most largely attended of all college organizations.

LIDDELL'S CONSCIENCE BRINGS HIM TO JAIL

For more than a year Charles B. Liddell, who was formerly a tailor at Hastings, has been troubled over a fraud he perpetrated.

Last night he walked into police headquarters and confessing his wrong to Captain Dempsey, asked to be locked up for investigation.

Liddell arrived in Omaha a few days ago, but said that he had been troubled over what he termed a theft since the day the deed was committed, and that he was now willing to pay whatever penalty the law might exact.
