to Dispose of Their Holdings.

The opinion of some of the best authorities in western Canada is that the wheat of that country will soon be in a position to come into the United States free of duty. That with the meeting of Parliament this month the law will be so changed that the grain now held in bond in the various markets of the United States will be in a position to be handled either on milling or export account. There are many good men in the wheat trade at Chicago who are praying that the laws will be so changed as to admit the Canadian wheat free, as they figure that under these conditions the market of the United States will be natural, and that the matter of manipulation would be more difficult. It is only necessary to refer to the flurry in December wheat a few days ago to show that it is a dangerous matter for a speculator to put out a short line, and previous to the last day of December it was dangerous to take on a long line and hold it.

The country north of us has an average crop of 20,00,000 bushels, and that the winds and that the matter of the last day of December it was dangerous to take on a long line and hold it. OMAHA, Jan. 5, 1913.

The country north of ug has an average crop of 20,000,000 bushels, and that added to the wheat crop of the United States would make in round figures 1,000,-600,000 bushels. If there is any one set of speculators in the world who are strong enough to hold the whip hand in any market under these conditions these men are at Chicago, but it is generally be-lieved that there would be too much risk in attempting to finance a cumbersome amount of wheat like the above.

The corn market has veered around in attempting to finance a cumbersome amount of wheat like the above. The corn market has veered around until it is now in the hands of the bears. The longs are anxious to dispose of their holdings, and some of them would willingly sell out at a loss, but any pressure shown brings about a general selling and further declines. Word comes from St. Louis telling of a letup in the cash demand there and of the heavy selling of long corn by the Milliken crowd.

Messages from the southern hemisphere that the corn crop there is assured, and the extimated crop is placed at 350,000,000 bushels. The exports last year were 130,000,000 bushels. A big increase in the visible supply of the United States is expected today.

The situation in oats is likely to change with that in corn, and the latter is considered quite bearish. Stocks of oats are heavy, and they are increasing without any improvement in the cash trade. Speculative holdings of May are considered quite heavy at Chicago. The short interest is made, but there is a large amount of hedges here.

The provision situation is stronger, if for no other reason than that the buying in decided contrast with the fact that shipping sales of corn from here were light the free movement of low grade corn to Chicago from the interior seemed unabated. Owing to the mild weather no change from this ill balanced condition appeared to be at hand.

Wheat felt the influence of the setback to the corn market, but was steadied by reports that the Argentine rains had done much damage to wheat in stacks. Support developed, too, on account of the falling off in arrivals northwest, especially at Winnipeg, where only sixty-three cars were received.

Pressure on oats was not nearly so heavy as on corn.

Liquidating sales by longs and profit taking by shorts formed the rule from the outset in corn. Besides the bearish weather and crop news from Argentina, advices came that 705,000 bushels of corn from Beunos Ayres had arrived today at Galveston. The bulls had to face also an enlargement of 4.26,000 bushels in the visible supply total, with the great part of the increase augmenting the burdensome stock in Chicago.

In decided contrast with the fact that shipping sales of corn from here were light the free movement of low grade corn to Chicago from the low grade (1966c, nominal). 130risc. nominal.

m active request and firm, and there was a very good outlet, and a steady market for buils, stags, etc.

Business in stock cattle and feeding steers was not particularly active, but values as a rule were substantially in the same notches as the close of last week. Most of the fleshy steers are going to the packers at better prices that the feeder buyers paid, and the demand in the country is largely confined to desirable light and medium-weight grades.

FRED NEKUKA IS HELD TO THE DISTRICT COURT

BROKEN BOW, Neb., Jan. 5 -- Special.) -Fred Nekuka, who is charged with having cut up William Hefferman at a dance near Comstock about four weeks ago. was brought up for preliminary hearing before County Judge Holcomb yesterday afternoon. The evidence tended to show that the principals in the affair had been drinking during the evening and that a quarrel resulted from this overindulgence. Hefferman was the only witness intro duced at the hearing and his testimony was to the effect that the difference first occurred in a cellar, where they had been driking, and later culminated on the outside. Judge Holcomb held Nekuka to the district court, naming the amount of bond as $500, the same being furnished. Key to the Situation-Bee Advertising.
