active at the advance. As a matter of fact, some salesmen were quoting values as a little stronger even than that. The average quality of the cattle was not very good, but there were steers here good enough to bring $8.55.

Cobws and heifers experienced about the same advance as beef steers, being generally 10c higher than last week's close. Among the sales of helfers were some good enough to bring $7.40. Veal calves were not quite so much sought after, and in some cases a little lower than last

Owing to the severe weather, the demand for stockers and feeders was not overly active, but prices remained gen-erally steady with last week. Quotations on cattle: Good to choice erally steady with last week.

Hnerin's Army Driven Out from Northern Part of Mexico, but is Now Strengthened in the South.

CHIRUAHUA, Mex., Feb. 23.-Sentiment is growing among certain rebel leaders that if the attack on Torreon is delayed much longer, or if the federal army suc ceeds in holding that city, northern Mexico will detach itself from the rest of the country and become an independent re-While General Carranga, the civil head

General Villa's delay in the attack on Correon and reports emanating from Mexso City that the federal garrison has seen strengthened to a point where it can ut up a formidable resistance, have given renewed impetus to the idea of a separation of the north from the south and General Carranza's coming to Chihuahua state from the Pacific coast is looked

Many rebel leaders profess to believe that whatever the outcome of the present revolution the north and south will soon e a complete smalgamate. The north, they assert, already is politically inde pendent and has adopted a progressive at the south, where two factions-the indif-

The territory, which, it is said, might be formed into a separate republic, embraces the five states along the United States border-Sonora, Chihuahua, Coahuila, Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas, with possibly the inclusion of Sinalos. From practically all this territory the Huerta army has been driven out, the chief remaining strongholds of the federals being at Tampico on the east, Monterey, Saltillo and Torreon on the south, Guaymas on the west and Nuevo Laredo and

Citizens of Denver

DENVER, Feb. 23 .- Citizens of Denver today donated $1,000 to the members of the defunct National Grand Opera company of Canada, so that they might be able to return to their homes in Chicago, Montreal, New York and Italy. The donation became necessary after the benefit performance in the Auditorium, for which the maximum admission price of 25 cents was charged, had proved a disappointment.

An hour after the appeal for donations had been made the money was raised and the special train, eastbound, started from Denver. W. T. Gentz, general representative of the company, will go to Los Angeles and other western cities in behalf of the company. Grand jury investigation of the causes

Out of the mouth of the dog, apparently, came all sorts of witty, sarcastic and opportune remarks, as is the way with vaudeville ventriloquism. A stranger at a nearby table was awe-stricken at what he had heard with his own ears and seen with his own eyes. "That's a strange animal," he ventured to remark. "More than strange. It's wonderful-mysterious. It's uncanny. I've heard of a cat laughing-but a dog talking! Gee!"

Half frozen and thinly clad, Mrs. John Bickford, wife of a carpenter living at 4810 Grant street, braved death Sunday night by following her husband into their burning home to rescue their two small children from the flames,

When taken out the two youngsters were nearly overcome by the smoke, but when they were brought to the home of Thomas Penny, 4904 Burdette street, they soon recovered.

The home burned to the ground, and an sutomobile garage in the rear was believed a view of the hody would go overheated stove and was not discovered until it had a good start. An alarm was man's death. Dudley, like other Ameri- turned in, but before the Omaha fire cans here, does not accept the official department could battle its way through explanation of a court martial as given the raging storm the house was almost in ruins. The place is just outside of the city limits and no water was available. With chemicals only the department quenched the blaze and kept it from surrounding property which it threatened. A high wind carried sparks to a number of houses nearby, but the occupants were on hand to defend their homes.

Six Smaller Blazes. Six other fires kept the fire department. on the jump in the storm yesterday Nearly all were caused by overheated stoves or defective flues or sparks from chimneys. In none of these did the damage exceed $25 or $50, and except for the discomfort of being routed out of a comfortable place and driven into the biting cold out of doors, no one suffered physical injury. Theaters, dance halls, motion picture shows, cafes, and other places of amusement had but indifferent attendance. Most folks after taking a casual glance at the porch thermometers and brushing away the snow that filled their eyes and ears while looking found ample entertainment at home sitting by a log fire and reading the periodicals.

Jatt Well Filled. Between 250 and 300 men, and four women applied for shelter at the police station. All were penniless and out of work. The men were taken back to the old county jail, in the rear of the city jail, which is now empty, and given room to stretch their limbs. Many of these found the soft side of a board or cement floor to be the comforts of paradise compared to the raging tempest outside. Some of the men brought bundles of old newsvidence at the French cemetery today papers and old rags to sleep on. The women were sheltered in the matron's department. Two of them were colored women driven from their homes by drunken husbands, and the other two were white women who were picked up at the depots.

With the street car service crippled by the storm in spite of steady work of the snow plows, many resorted to the taxis to convey them to their homes or downtown destinations. The taxi men reaped a harvest, many charging by the hour instead of by the mile, as is usual for short hauls. Considering that the drivers returned from each trip nearly frozen, their fares in most cases made no objection to the increase in price.

IDEAL LENGTH OF SERMONS Aid Opera Singers Many Opinions of Britishers Favor the Limit as Twenty

The question raised by the late Dean Hole as to the ideal length of a sermon is one on which different people, according perhaps to their religious proclivities, have diverse opinions; but if the preference of royalty may be taken as a standard, the favorite time appears to be in the region of twenty minutes.

Queen Victoria's objection to long sermons may be understood by the fact that in 1867 she presented a pulpit glass to the Chapel Royal, Savoy, and it was timed for exactly eighteen minutes. The preacher who wished to find favor with her majesty, therefore, always took the hint and watched the glass carefully. King Edward declared for even greater brevity. In the arrangements for his coronation the sermon by the bishop of London was allotted five minutes. Napoleon III strictly limited preachers before him to a quarter of an hour, and if they exceeded it an officer of the imperial household stepped to the pulpit and stopped the discourse. Charles II apparently enjoyed long sermens, and on one occasion slept so soundly under the ministrations of Kent that, on awakening greatly refreshed, he exclaimed , "Splendid, splendid! This man must have a bishopric," and gave him Bath and Wells when it fell vacant. John Wesley was a preacher who evidently found it difficult to condense his thoughts in a sermon of twenty minutes' duration. On one occasion he noticed that some of his hearers were asleep. He at once stopped his sermon and in a loud voice called out, "Fire, fire!" There was instant commotion, and some one shouted, "Where, air, where?" "In hell!" replied Wesley, with deep solemnity, "for those who sleep under the preaching of the word. A certain rather "long-winded" clergyman was officiating at Crawley church, Sussex, when he found a card printed in large letters placed in the most promiment part of the pulpit. "Be brief." He understood. If the village knew it was going to get out with a ten minutes' talk as an appetizer for Sunday dinner it

A certain judge, when asked by a sheriff's chaplain what was the proper length for a sermon, replied, "Well, twenty minutes, with a leaning to the side of mercy." This judicial opinion, having the advantage of royal approval, seems, therefore, to suggest the recognized standard for the duration of sermons .-
